GOP 'Get Acheson' Proposal Turned Down By House, 171-81

$1,045,940,115 Appropriation To Run Three Departments, Judiciary Voted

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—The House turned down the "get Acheson" amendment after angry debate today and then passed the State-Commerce-Justice Department appropriation bill.

It rejected numerous moves for big cuts in the measure to finance the three departments and the federal judiciary for the year which started July 1, including a proposal to slash funds for the "Voice Of America" to $70,000,000.

A total of $85,000,000 was voted for the "Voice" as compared with $115,000,000 asked by President Truman.

As it goes to the Senate the bill totals $1,045,940,115. Passage was by a voice vote. A motion to recommit the bill to committee with instructions to trim the "Voice Of America" appropriation by $70,000,000 was defeated on a roll call vote, 245 to 141.

Demos Charge "Sneak Attack"

The big fight was over a Republican-sponsored move to forbid use of any of the State Department's appropriation to pay any person with Secretary of State Dean Acheson's particular status and background. That lost 171 to 81 on a standing vote.

Before the ballot there was an hour of bitter quarreling over Democratic cries of "sneak attack" and challenges to the sponsors to try "straightforward impeachment."

The money is divided this way:

State: $226,357,000 instead of the $283,686,476 requested.

Justice: $181,567,000 instead of $184,346,000 requested.

Commerce: $612,098,000 instead of $763,763,925 requested.

Judiciary: $25,918,115 instead of $26,489,740 requested.

Jansen Amendment Added

The total is $212,356,026 below the overall budget requests of the President, but most of this cutting was done in committee and the House refused to make large additional reductions.

By standing votes the House added to the bill the now standard Jansen amendment aimed at cutting Civil Service personnel to 80 per cent of present levels, with some exceptions. It also voted to limit United States contributions to operational expenses of international organizations to one-third of the total cost.

Defeated by a tie vote, 154 to 154, was an amendment that would have cut the budget of domestic information and public relations employes by 25 per cent.

Field Says Army Intelligence Post Was Offered Him

Balks At Questions About Communists

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP) — Frederick Vanderbilt Field, wealthy New York leftist, balked today at questions designed to connect him with Communists. But he testified the U. S. Army offered him an intelligence commission during World War II which he failed to get.

Persons outside the Army blocked the commission, he said, because of a "certain problem."

He refused to say what the "problem" was, or to identify the Army officers he said had initiated efforts to get him a commission.

Questioned For Two Hours

Field, dressed in a striped gray suit, white shirt and black tie, was questioned for more than two hours in the Senate inquiry into whether subversive influences affected American Far Eastern policy.

He appeared before the Senate Internal Security Committee as a former official of the Institute of Pacific Relations (IPR), a private organization interested in the Far East.

The first question Field declined to answer, on grounds it might tend to incriminate him, was whether he posted bonds for Communist leaders. He has been serving a 90-day jail sentence for contempt in refusing to tell a New York federal judge who contributed to a $80,000 Civil Rights Congress bail fund for Communist who skipped following conviction with seven others for conspiracy to teach the overthrow of the government by violence.

Three Tried To "Break Jam"

Field was brought here by two federal prison officers.

Questioned about the Army commission, he said at least three persons tried to "break the jam" blocking the assignment.

The three were identified as William T. Stone, State Department officer; Edward C. Carter, a trustee of the IPR, and Owen Lattimore, one-time State Department consultant and now a professor at Johns Hopkins University.

Reynaud Declines

West Berliners Raid Red Zone

BERLIN, July 26 (AP)—A dozen hardy West Berliners battled Communists in the Soviet sector for four hours today. They hurled bricks into the Russian area, crossed the border and beat up a German Red, then retired to a beer saloon to celebrate.

The row started when the Communist loudspeaker system boomed a message across the American sector border urging West Berlin's unemployed men to come to the Soviet sector and "discuss" their problems.

A few West Berliners went over and joined a group of Red agitators. But East and West couldn't see eye to eye, and tempers flared. The intended tete-a-tete broke up in brick throwing, and the westerners retired to the safety of the American sector.

There they regrouped in a saloon. After a couple of beers they decided the Communists weren't so tough. Led by a brawny truck driver, the little band sallied forth and resumed the brick throwing.

Shopkeepers hastily lowered their steel shutters long before closing time. A riot squad from West Berlin police headquarters broke up the gathering, but when the police left the hail of bricks started again. A few Communists joined in the brick throwing from their side.

Racial Segregation To End In Army Far East Command

WASHINGTON, July 26. (AP)—The Army announced today that it is ending racial segregation in the Far East Command, closing the 82-year history of its oldest and last negro regiment.

It said the integration of white and negro troops at all levels in Japan, Korea and Okinawa would be completed in about six months. It also announced the disbandment of the 24th Infantry Regiment which has been a fighting part of the 25th Division throughout the Korean campaign.

The 24th Regiment was organized at Fort McKavitt, Tex., in 1869. It won its first battle honors in the frontier campaigns against the Indians and achieved its greatest fame as one of the units which stormed San Juan Hill at Santiago, Cuba, in the Spanish-American War.

The regimental insignia shows the stone blockhouse at the crest of the hill which the negro regiment captured as Col. Theodore Roosevelt's Rough Riders swarmed up another slope.

The 24th had the distinction of being the first negro unit to get into the war in the Pacific in 1942. It fought in the Solomons, the Marianas and the Okinawa campaigns and in 1946 joined the occupation force in Japan.

Senate Housing Bill Is Shelved By Conferees

OK Rent Rollbacks In Critical Areas

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—Senate-House conferees tonight shelved a stripped-down version of the administration's defense housing bill in writing new economic controls legislation.

The setback on that score was offset by an earlier victory for administration forces. That came when the conference committee agreed to permit rents in newly designated critical defense areas to be rolled back to levels in effect just before the Korean war.

Conference committee officials said the Senate conferees agreed to removal of the housing measure from the controls bill after the House conferees had promised that the measure will be considered as separate legislation by the House Banking Committee on Monday.

Truman Voices Protest

The Senate housing bill would authorize an additional $1,500,000,000 in Federal Housing Administration mortgage insurance for new home construction. The administration had requested a $3,000,000,000 authorization.

At his news conference today President Truman protested that his housing legislation had been torn to pieces in the House. He said foes of the measure were trying to accomplish the same thing in the Senate.

The committee action on the housing measure came at a night session as the conferees drove for a final agreement on compromise legislation to extend wage, price, rent, and other emergency controls. The present controls law expires at midnight next Tuesday.

House Shelved Housing Measure

The conferees are trying to iron out differences between separate extension bills passed by the Senate and the House.

The housing measure was passed by the Senate early this year as a separate bill, but it went into a pigeonhole in the House.

As a result, the Senate tacked it on as a rider when it passed the economic controls bill last month.

It appeared that Mr. Truman may have meant his comment the other way around—that it had been torn to pieces in the Senate and that opponents were trying to do likewise in the House.

Boy Admits Setting Fire Fatal To Eight

SAN FRANCISCO, July 26 (AP)—Chief Homicide Inspector Frank Ahern said today a 17-year-old boy had admitted setting the apartment house fire that took the lives of eight persons Sunday.

Ahern identified the boy as Kenneth Skinner, a high school senior. He was questioned at the Hall of Justice by Fire Marshall Frank Kelly and members of the homicide detail.

12 Secondary Red Leaders Seized By FBI

Arrests Made In Three Cities

SAN FRANCISCO, July 26. (AP)—The FBI swiftly arrested 12 secondary Communists in a new move against the party today.

Mary Bernadette Doyle, 45, a party organizer for the mission district in San Francisco, was the twelfth person taken into custody late today.

Earlier, four other women and seven men, secondary functionaries of the party, had been apprehended in quick FBI action in San Francisco, Los Angeles and New York.

Miss Doyle was taken hurriedly before U. S. Commissioner Francis St. J. Fox, who set bail at $2,500 for her and two other women seized here.

The commissioner agreed to the government's demands, however, for $75,000 bail on the four men arrested in San Francisco. He commented that higher bail for Miss Doyle was not justified because she is under medical treatment.

$100,000 Is Top Bail

In New York, the high bail of $100,000 had been set earlier for William Schneiderman, 45-year-old chairman of the California Communist State Committee and top Red executive at national headquarters.

Bail of $75,000 each had been fixed for the two women and two men apprehended at Los Angeles.

The government here also demended $75,000 bail each on the contention that the secondary Communists might flee, as did four of the 11 top Communists.

Miss Doyle has participated in California politics. In last year's election she polled more than 600,000 votes for state superintendent of public instruction. Her vote count was a surprise.

Warrants Were Issued

However, Incumbent Roy Simpson was reelected and Miss Doyle's opponents contended she had obtained her huge vote because many persons did not know she was a Communist, or were under misapprehensions about the election.

The new move against the Communists was launched by the Department of Justice which charged them with conspiracy to teach and advocate the violent overthrow of the U. S. government.

Several of those arrested claimed they were taken without warrants, but U. S. Attorney Chauncey Tramutolo told the U. S. commissioner that warrants had been issued for each of the defendants.

Mrs. Loretta Starvius Stack, 38, San Francisco, a former organizational secretary for California, told a newsman that FBI agents broke down the door to her home.

Man Believed Slain Turns Up

DENVER, July 26 (AP)—A tall, slim 43-year-old man—one detective described him as a "farmer-looking sort of guy"—was the key figure today in a mystery involving a Louisiana killing.

The man, speaking in a mild drawl, said he didn't know a thing about it. The big puzzle in the case is that he has used the same name which authorities in Louisiana had thought was the name of the slaying victim.

Arrested while getting his hair cut, the man said he has been known here as John C. Harper, but also has used the name, Sam Jones. Louisiana officers, here to question Harper, said a man identified as Sam Jones was stabbed to death near New Orleans more than two years ago and was buried under that name.

Harper told Detective Capt. Charles J. Burns of the Denver police, he knew nothing of the stabbing or of the fact a co-worker of Jones, Donald Easterwood, 26, had been tried for the slaying and acquitted. The jury even took up a $100 collection to give Easterwood a fresh start.

More Power Promised Many TV Stations

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP) — More power for many existing television stations was promised today by the Federal Communications Commission.

It said it will take this step promptly, relaxing for the first time the television freeze of 34 months ago.

The action is largely intended to benefit those stations which were caught by the freeze order of Oct. 1, 1948, while operating on less power than was originally granted them in their construction permits.

This TV Act Wasn't Rehearsed

Raymond O'Keefe, a former state representative in the Illinois Legislature, is carried to a taxicab after being ejected yesterday from a televised news conference on crime and gambling in Cook County. O'Keefe was ejected for causing a disturbance at the Chicago telecast, which featured Cook County Sheriff John Babb and State's Attorney John Boyle. Policemen George Rumatz, Edward Powell and Lt. James Oakey do the carrying. (Story at bottom of page)

Truman Implies Politician Went Off Half-Cocked With "Ike"-Douglas Suggestion

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—President Truman today tartly implied that a Chicago politician went off half-cocked by suggesting Gen. Eisenhower or Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois as Democratic presidential prospects if Mr. Truman doesn't run in 1952.

The subject came up at Mr. Truman's news conference when a reporter said the Eisenhower-Douglas suggestion had been raised by Jacob Arvey, Chicago political leader.

With a dry chuckle, Mr. Truman said he thought Jake went off half-cocked once before in the history of the country.

"In 1948?" a reporter asked.

Yes, Mr. Truman said.

It was during the 1948 campaign that Arvey sought to draft Gen. Eisenhower before the Democratic convention. Later, Arvey supported Mr. Truman.

More Hopeful For Peace

The President again ducked questions about his own intentions, and declined to say whether he will swing out on another "give-'em-hell" stumping tour this year.

The President also touched on these other topics:

1. He is more hopeful over the outlook for peace as a result of progress in the Korean armistice talks.

2. He is looking into charges by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch that Chairman William M. Boyle, Jr., of the Democratic National Committee got $8,000 in fees from a St. Louis firm which received a $565,000 federal loan .

3. The President denied that Gen. Douglas MacArthur had been threatened with any reprisals over the five-star General's attacks on the Truman administration.

Housing Program Scuttled

4. The President said his program for public housing has been torn to pieces in the House and opponents are trying to knock new holes in it in the Senate.

5. Mr. Truman indirectly took a pot shot at CIO President Philip Murray for making public a letter asking him to push the Missouri Valley Authority proposal as an aftermath of the midwest floods.

The Chief Executive said he is always courteous about correspondence and doesn't comment on what he has written somebody until that person has received the letter.

Airliner, 46 Aboard, Lands Tail Down

NEW YORK, July 26 (AP) — An airliner with 46 persons aboard made a tail-down landing at Idlewild airport tonight, and skidded 2,000 feet amid sparks and flames to a safe stop.

No one was injured and there was no fire. The Northwest Airlines DC-4 came in from Detroit.

The pilot radioed he was having trouble with his nose gear. Although it appeared to be in position, he decided not to trust it and landed with tail down and the nose high, the single forward wheel off the runway.

The 43 passengers huddled to the rear of the four-engined plane to add weight on the tail.

Warplane Board Boss Takes Over

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP) — The country today got a new warplane production boss simultaneously with a disclosure that aircraft deliveries dropped last month instead of rising.

Harold R. (Bill) Boyer of Detroit took over as chairman of a new Aircraft Production Board and deputy chief of the Defense Production Administration for aircraft.

The jobs were created on orders of Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson. Boyer is General Motors' director of production engineering.

Boyer told a news conference he was not disturbed at what he called a "very slight" decline in plane deliveries in June.

"I'm worried about the prospect six months to a year from now when the buildup really gets under way," Boyer said.

Senate Votes Funds For Soil Conservation

WASHINGTON, Julyq 26 (AP) — The Senate, brushing aside cries for "economy," today voted $280,000,000 for this year's payments to farmers for soil conservation. The figure, approved without a rollcall vote, is $23,500,000 more than the House had voted.

Earlier the senators on a 41-39 roll call had voted authorization for the same amount next year, up $55,000,000 from the amount the House allowed. They turned back repeated efforts to whittle down the sums, which in some cases couldn't even muster enough strength to get a record vote.

The Senate did, however, finally make one cut of $2,000,000 in the appropriation bill carrying more than a billion dollars for the Agriculture Department's operations in the year which started July 1.

Uproarious TV Conference Marked By Man's Ejection

CHICAGO, July 26 (AP) — A televised joint news conference of Cook (Chicago) County's politically opposed sheriff and state's attorney was thrown into an uproar today, as 500,000 viewers watched.

Former State Rep. Raymond T. O'Keefe, 61, an assistant to State's Attorney John S. Boyle, was carried bodily from a NBC studio where the conference was held.

Three Chicago television stations carried the unusual meeting as a public service. Officials of the three stations in the Chicago area watched the proceedings.

Principals in the conference were Doyle, a Democrat, and Sheriff John E. Babb, a Republican. A local newspaper suggested the joint meeting and Boyle asked that it be televised for the benefit of the public. Babb agreed.

In the midst of the meeting, O'Keefe began shouting. TV cameramen said he had seated himself on a spotlight truck after thrusting himself between the camera and the conference table.

When he was asked to move, O'Keefe began shouting:

"I'm trying to make Boyle governor.

"I've got a son in the Marines."

Acheson Charts Vast, Three-Year Global Aid Plan

Program's Cost Set At $25,000,000,000

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson set before Congress today a vast global aid program costing $25,000,000,000 for the defense of U. S. allies in the next three years.

That is the price, he said, to counter Soviet Russia's designs and bring about "an era of genuine relaxation of tension."

Acheson said Spain will get a share of the money—he did not say how much—but he declared that "considerable time must elapse" before Spain could be admitted into the North Atlantic Treaty Alliance.

$8.5 Billion First Installment

Testifying before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Acheson disclosed that the administration's current request for $8,500,000,000 in foreign aid is only the first installment in a proposed long-range program.

Two more installments of about the same size will be needed, he said, to equip this country's allies in Europe and Asia.

With some congressional critics already sharpening their knives to trim the huge program, Sen. Lodge (R-Mass) came up with an assist for the administration even as Acheson testified.

Eisenhower Gives Warning

On the Senate floor, Lodge read a statement quoting Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Alfred M. Fruenther, as saying that if the proposed fund for European aid is cut in half, it would chop 14 divisions off the European defense force.

Gruenther also declared it would mean a 25 per cent cut in the number of air squadrons for the forces under Eisenhower.

Lodge is supporting the military aid program.

Acheson told the Senate committee that the end of U. S. aid might come in 1955 so far as original equipment is concerned. He said it might be necessary to continue after that with some maintenance help, but the amount would be comparatively small.

U. N. Command Warns Against Overoptimism

Accord Reached On 5-Point Agenda

U. N. ADVANCE HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Friday, July 27 (AP) — The eleventh — and brasstacks — meeting toward an armistice in the Korean war adjourned today after an hour and 15 minute session.

There was no immediate announcement of developments during the conference — in which United Nations and Communist delegations tackled four vital issues on which a cease-fire depends.

It was announced the conference will be resumed at 10 a.m. tomorrow (7 p.m., EST, Friday).

Today's meeting began promptly in Kaesong — at 10 a.m.

In a 58-minute session Thursday the conferees agreed on a five-point agenda in nine minutes, and spent the remaining time in preliminary discussion of the basic issues.

A sharp warning against overoptimism for an early end of the 13-month-old war was issued, however, by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's United Nations Advance Headquarters.

"It is much too early to predict either the success or the rate of progress to be obtained," said the headquarters communique.

Wide Divergence Of Views

At present there is a wide divergence of views, it stated.

It said there were "numerous basic points" on which agreement must be found before hostilities can end.

Furthermore, the communique warned:

"It must be fully realized that mutual acceptance of the agenda is merely the initial step toward the final goal of a military armistice and resultant cease-fire, which must be achieved under conditions giving every reasonable assurance against the resumption of hostilities."

The United Nations command apparently wanted to make sure that the Reds would not use an armistice and cease-fire to mask another effort to drive the Allies into the sea.

In Washington, Secretary of State Acheson expressed similar concern. He said that if the armistice talks should collapse "we should be ready for a major Communist assault . . . the enemy has been building up his forces throughout this period."

Agenda Points Listed

In seeking an armistice, the U. N. and Red delegations have agreed to discuss these points:

1. Adopt an agenda — which they did immediately.

2. Fix a military demarcation line and establish a de-militarized zone between the two belligerents. This buffer zone would be a basic condition for ending hostilities.

3. Make firm arrangements for realization of a cease-fire and armistice in Korea, including the composition, authority and function of a supervising organization for carrying out the terms of the cease-fire. This referred to creation of a neutral international group to see that neither side violates the terms of the armistice.

4. Make arrangements relating to the exchange of prisoners of war.

5. Make recommendations to the governments of the countries concerned on both sides. This last item apparently covered future discussion of the Communist demands that all foreign troops be withdrawn from Korea "as a practical condition" for a final peace.

Experiment Ends As Raft Overturns

BELLAIRE, O., July 26 (AP) — A raft with two bachelors and two women aboard, conducting what was described as a socialogical experiment, turned over near here this evening.

It has not yet been confirmed that all aboard were saved.

In charge of the party was Mary Ellin McGrady, 24, a University of Michigan student, who had said during a stop in Wheeling last night that she would keep a record of the adjustments made by the four while living together in a confined space.

Others reported aboard the craft named "Lethargia," were listed as Geraldine Garcia, 23, Boston artist; Milton Borden, 30, New Bedford, Mass., and Don Brown, 24, a Michigan student from Detroit.

An unidentified witness told a newsman he believed he saw one of the victims swimming toward the West Virginia shore. He said he thought a passing towboat, the John Rankin, picked up two others, while another vessel picked up the fourth.

The party set out from New Kensington, Pa., and was headed for New Orleans via the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers.

OK Rent Rollbacks In Critical Areas

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—Senate-House conferees tonight shelved a stripped-down version of the administration's defense housing bill in writing new economic controls legislation.

The setback on that score was offset by an earlier victory for administration forces. That came when the conference committee agreed to permit rents in newly designated critical defense areas to be rolled back to levels in effect just before the Korean war.

Conference committee officials said the Senate conferees agreed to removal of the housing measure from the controls bill after the House conferees had promised that the measure will be considered as separate legislation by the House Banking Committee on Monday.

Truman Voices Protest

The Senate housing bill would authorize an additional $1,500,000,000 in Federal Housing Administration mortgage insurance for new home construction. The administration had requested a $3,000,000,000 authorization.

At his news conference today President Truman protested that his housing legislation had been torn to pieces in the House. He said foes of the measure were trying to accomplish the same thing in the Senate.

The committee action on the housing measure came at a night session as the conferees drove for a final agreement on compromise legislation to extend wage, price, rent, and other emergency controls. The present controls law expires at midnight next Tuesday.

House Shelved Housing Measure

The conferees are trying to iron out differences between separate extension bills passed by the Senate and the House.

The housing measure was passed by the Senate early this year as a separate bill, but it went into a pigeonhole in the House.

As a result, the Senate tacked it on as a rider when it passed the economic controls bill last month.

It appeared that Mr. Truman may have meant his comment the other way around—that it had been torn to pieces in the Senate and that opponents were trying to do likewise in the House.

West Berliners Raid Red Zone

BERLIN, July 26 (AP)—A dozen hardy West Berliners battled Communists in the Soviet sector for four hours today. They hurled bricks into the Russian area, crossed the border and beat up a German Red, then retired to a beer saloon to celebrate.

The row started when the Communist loudspeaker system boomed a message across the American sector border urging West Berlin's unemployed men to come to the Soviet sector and "discuss" their problems.

A few West Berliners went over and joined a group of Red agitators. But East and West couldn't see eye to eye, and tempers flared. The intended tete-a-tete broke up in brick throwing, and the westerners retired to the safety of the American sector.

There they regrouped in a saloon. After a couple of beers they decided the Communists weren't so tough. Led by a brawny truck driver, the little band sallied forth and resumed the brick throwing.

Shopkeepers hastily lowered their steel shutters long before closing time. A riot squad from West Berlin police headquarters broke up the gathering, but when the police left the hail of bricks started again. A few Communists joined in the brick throwing from their side.

Boy Admits Setting Fire Fatal To Eight

SAN FRANCISCO, July 26 (AP)—Chief Homicide Inspector Frank Ahern said today a 17-year-old boy had admitted setting the apartment house fire that took the lives of eight persons Sunday.

Ahern identified the boy as Kenneth Skinner, a high school senior. He was questioned at the Hall of Justice by Fire Marshall Frank Kelly and members of the homicide detail.

12 Secondary Red Leaders Seized By FBI

Arrests Made In Three Cities

SAN FRANCISCO, July 26. (AP)—The FBI swiftly arrested 12 secondary Communists in a new move against the party today.

Mary Bernadette Doyle, 45, a party organizer for the mission district in San Francisco, was the twelfth person taken into custody late today.

Earlier, four other women and seven men, secondary functionaries of the party, had been apprehended in quick FBI action in San Francisco, Los Angeles and New York.

Miss Doyle was taken hurriedly before U. S. Commissioner Francis St. J. Fox, who set bail at $2,500 for her and two other women seized here.

The commissioner agreed to the government's demands, however, for $75,000 bail on the four men arrested in San Francisco. He commented that higher bail for Miss Doyle was not justified because she is under medical treatment.

$100,000 Is Top Bail

In New York, the high bail of $100,000 had been set earlier for William Schneiderman, 45-year-old chairman of the California Communist State Committee and top Red executive at national headquarters.

Bail of $75,000 each had been fixed for the two women and two men apprehended at Los Angeles.

The government here also demended $75,000 bail each on the contention that the secondary Communists might flee, as did four of the 11 top Communists.

Miss Doyle has participated in California politics. In last year's election she polled more than 600,000 votes for state superintendent of public instruction. Her vote count was a surprise.

Warrants Were Issued

However, Incumbent Roy Simpson was reelected and Miss Doyle's opponents contended she had obtained her huge vote because many persons did not know she was a Communist, or were under misapprehensions about the election.

The new move against the Communists was launched by the Department of Justice which charged them with conspiracy to teach and advocate the violent overthrow of the U. S. government.

Several of those arrested claimed they were taken without warrants, but U. S. Attorney Chauncey Tramutolo told the U. S. commissioner that warrants had been issued for each of the defendants.

Mrs. Loretta Starvius Stack, 38, San Francisco, a former organizational secretary for California, told a newsman that FBI agents broke down the door to her home.

Man Believed Slain Turns Up

DENVER, July 26 (AP)—A tall, slim 43-year-old man—one detective described him as a "farmer-looking sort of guy"—was the key figure today in a mystery involving a Louisiana killing.

The man, speaking in a mild drawl, said he didn't know a thing about it. The big puzzle in the case is that he has used the same name which authorities in Louisiana had thought was the name of the slaying victim.

Arrested while getting his hair cut, the man said he has been known here as John C. Harper, but also has used the name, Sam Jones. Louisiana officers, here to question Harper, said a man identified as Sam Jones was stabbed to death near New Orleans more than two years ago and was buried under that name.

Harper told Detective Capt. Charles J. Burns of the Denver police, he knew nothing of the stabbing or of the fact a co-worker of Jones, Donald Easterwood, 26, had been tried for the slaying and acquitted. The jury even took up a $100 collection to give Easterwood a fresh start.

More Power Promised Many TV Stations

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP) — More power for many existing television stations was promised today by the Federal Communications Commission.

It said it will take this step promptly, relaxing for the first time the television freeze of 34 months ago.

The action is largely intended to benefit those stations which were caught by the freeze order of Oct. 1, 1948, while operating on less power than was originally granted them in their construction permits.

Racial Segregation To End In Army Far East Command

WASHINGTON, July 26. (AP)—The Army announced today that it is ending racial segregation in the Far East Command, closing the 82-year history of its oldest and last negro regiment.

It said the integration of white and negro troops at all levels in Japan, Korea and Okinawa would be completed in about six months. It also announced the disbandment of the 24th Infantry Regiment which has been a fighting part of the 25th Division throughout the Korean campaign.

The 24th Regiment was organized at Fort McKavitt, Tex., in 1869. It won its first battle honors in the frontier campaigns against the Indians and achieved its greatest fame as one of the units which stormed San Juan Hill at Santiago, Cuba, in the Spanish-American War.

The regimental insignia shows the stone blockhouse at the crest of the hill which the negro regiment captured as Col. Theodore Roosevelt's Rough Riders swarmed up another slope.

The 24th had the distinction of being the first negro unit to get into the war in the Pacific in 1942. It fought in the Solomons, the Marianas and the Okinawa campaigns and in 1946 joined the occupation force in Japan.

This TV Act Wasn't Rehearsed

Truman Implies Politician Went Off Half-Cocked With "Ike"-Douglas Suggestion

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—President Truman today tartly implied that a Chicago politician went off half-cocked by suggesting Gen. Eisenhower or Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois as Democratic presidential prospects if Mr. Truman doesn't run in 1952.

The subject came up at Mr. Truman's news conference when a reporter said the Eisenhower-Douglas suggestion had been raised by Jacob Arvey, Chicago political leader.

With a dry chuckle, Mr. Truman said he thought Jake went off half-cocked once before in the history of the country.

"In 1948?" a reporter asked.

Yes, Mr. Truman said.

It was during the 1948 campaign that Arvey sought to draft Gen. Eisenhower before the Democratic convention. Later, Arvey supported Mr. Truman.

More Hopeful For Peace

The President again ducked questions about his own intentions, and declined to say whether he will swing out on another "give-'em-hell" stumping tour this year.

The President also touched on these other topics:

1. He is more hopeful over the outlook for peace as a result of progress in the Korean armistice talks.

2. He is looking into charges by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch that Chairman William M. Boyle, Jr., of the Democratic National Committee got $8,000 in fees from a St. Louis firm which received a $565,000 federal loan.

3. The President denied that Gen. Douglas MacArthur had been threatened with any reprisals over the five-star General's attacks on the Truman administration.

Housing Program Scuttled

4. The President said his program for public housing has been torn to pieces in the House and opponents are trying to knock new holes in it in the Senate.

5. Mr. Truman indirectly took a pot shot at CIO President Philip Murray for making public a letter asking him to push the Missouri Valley Authority proposal as an aftermath of the midwest floods.

The Chief Executive said he is always courteous about correspondence and doesn't comment on what he has written somebody until that person has received the letter.

Airliner, 46 Aboard, Lands Tail Down

NEW YORK, July 26 (AP) — An airliner with 46 persons aboard made a tail-down landing at Idlewild airport tonight, and skidded 2,000 feet amid sparks and flames to a safe stop.

No one was injured and there was no fire. The Northwest Airlines DC-4 came in from Detroit.

The pilot radioed he was having trouble with his nose gear. Although it appeared to be in position, he decided not to trust it and landed with tail down and the nose high, the single forward wheel off the runway.

The 43 passengers huddled to the rear of the four-engined plane to add weight on the tail.

Warplane Board Boss Takes Over

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP) — The country today got a new warplane production boss simultaneously with a disclosure that aircraft deliveries dropped last month instead of rising.

Harold R. (Bill) Boyer of Detroit took over as chairman of a new Aircraft Production Board and deputy chief of the Defense Production Administration for aircraft.

The jobs were created on orders of Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson. Boyer is General Motors' director of production engineering.

Boyer told a news conference he was not disturbed at what he called a "very slight" decline in plane deliveries in June.

"I'm worried about the prospect six months to a year from now when the buildup really gets under way," Boyer said.

Senate Votes Funds For Soil Conservation

WASHINGTON, Julyq 26 (AP) — The Senate, brushing aside cries for "economy," today voted $280,000,000 for this year's payments to farmers for soil conservation. The figure, approved without a rollcall vote, is $23,500,000 more than the House had voted.

Earlier the senators on a 41-39 roll call had voted authorization for the same amount next year, up $55,000,000 from the amount the House allowed. They turned back repeated efforts to whittle down the sums, which in some cases couldn't even muster enough strength to get a record vote.

The Senate did, however, finally make one cut of $2,000,000 in the appropriation bill carrying more than a billion dollars for the Agriculture Department's operations in the year which started July 1.

Acheson Charts Vast, Three-Year Global Aid Plan

Program's Cost Set At $25,000,000,000

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson set before Congress today a vast global aid program costing $25,000,000,000 for the defense of U. S. allies in the next three years.

That is the price, he said, to counter Soviet Russia's designs and bring about "an era of genuine relaxation of tension."

Acheson said Spain will get a share of the money—he did not say how much—but he declared that "considerable time must elapse" before Spain could be admitted into the North Atlantic Treaty Alliance.

$8.5 Billion First Installment

Testifying before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Acheson disclosed that the administration's current request for $8,500,000,000 in foreign aid is only the first installment in a proposed long-range program.

Two more installments of about the same size will be needed, he said, to equip this country's allies in Europe and Asia.

With some congressional critics already sharpening their knives to trim the huge program, Sen. Lodge (R-Mass) came up with an assist for the administration even as Acheson testified.

Eisenhower Gives Warning

On the Senate floor, Lodge read a statement quoting Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Alfred M. Fruenther, as saying that if the proposed fund for European aid is cut in half, it would chop 14 divisions off the European defense force.

Gruenther also declared it would mean a 25 per cent cut in the number of air squadrons for the forces under Eisenhower.

Lodge is supporting the military aid program.

Acheson told the Senate committee that the end of U. S. aid might come in 1955 so far as original equipment is concerned. He said it might be necessary to continue after that with some maintenance help, but the amount would be comparatively small.

Uproarious TV Conference Marked By Man's Ejection

CHICAGO, July 26 (AP) — A televised joint news conference of Cook (Chicago) County's politically opposed sheriff and state's attorney was thrown into an uproar today, as 500,000 viewers watched.

Former State Rep. Raymond T. O'Keefe, 61, an assistant to State's Attorney John S. Boyle, was carried bodily from a NBC studio where the conference was held.

Three Chicago television stations carried the unusual meeting as a public service. Officials of the three stations in the Chicago area watched the proceedings.

Principals in the conference were Doyle, a Democrat, and Sheriff John E. Babb, a Republican. A local newspaper suggested the joint meeting and Boyle asked that it be televised for the benefit of the public. Babb agreed.

In the midst of the meeting, O'Keefe began shouting. TV cameramen said he had seated himself on a spotlight truck after thrusting himself between the camera and the conference table.

When he was asked to move, O'Keefe began shouting:

"I'm trying to make Boyle governor.

"I've got a son in the Marines."

Accord Reached On 5-Point Agenda

U. N. ADVANCE HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Friday, July 27 (AP) — The eleventh — and brasstacks — meeting toward an armistice in the Korean war adjourned today after an hour and 15 minute session.

There was no immediate announcement of developments during the conference — in which United Nations and Communist delegations tackled four vital issues on which a cease-fire depends.

It was announced the conference will be resumed at 10 a.m. tomorrow (7 p.m., EST, Friday).

Today's meeting began promptly in Kaesong — at 10 a.m.

In a 58-minute session Thursday the conferees agreed on a five-point agenda in nine minutes, and spent the remaining time in preliminary discussion of the basic issues.

A sharp warning against overoptimism for an early end of the 13-month-old war was issued, however, by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's United Nations Advance Headquarters.

"It is much too early to predict either the success or the rate of progress to be obtained," said the headquarters communique.

Wide Divergence Of Views

At present there is a wide divergence of views, it stated.

It said there were "numerous basic points" on which agreement must be found before hostilities can end.

Furthermore, the communique warned:

"It must be fully realized that mutual acceptance of the agenda is merely the initial step toward the final goal of a military armistice and resultant cease-fire, which must be achieved under conditions giving every reasonable assurance against the resumption of hostilities."

The United Nations command apparently wanted to make sure that the Reds would not use an armistice and cease-fire to mask another effort to drive the Allies into the sea.

In Washington, Secretary of State Acheson expressed similar concern. He said that if the armistice talks should collapse "we should be ready for a major Communist assault . . . the enemy has been building up his forces throughout this period."

Agenda Points Listed

In seeking an armistice, the U. N. and Red delegations have agreed to discuss these points:

1. Adopt an agenda — which they did immediately.

2. Fix a military demarcation line and establish a de-militarized zone between the two belligerents. This buffer zone would be a basic condition for ending hostilities.

3. Make firm arrangements for realization of a cease-fire and armistice in Korea, including the composition, authority and function of a supervising organization for carrying out the terms of the cease-fire. This referred to creation of a neutral international group to see that neither side violates the terms of the armistice.

4. Make arrangements relating to the exchange of prisoners of war.

5. Make recommendations to the governments of the countries concerned on both sides. This last item apparently covered future discussion of the Communist demands that all foreign troops be withdrawn from Korea "as a practical condition" for a final peace.

Experiment Ends As Raft Overturns

BELLAIRE, O., July 26 (AP) — A raft with two bachelors and two women aboard, conducting what was described as a socialogical experiment, turned over near here this evening.

It has not yet been confirmed that all aboard were saved.

In charge of the party was Mary Ellin McGrady, 24, a University of Michigan student, who had said during a stop in Wheeling last night that she would keep a record of the adjustments made by the four while living together in a confined space.

Others reported aboard the craft named "Lethargia," were listed as Geraldine Garcia, 23, Boston artist; Milton Borden, 30, New Bedford, Mass., and Don Brown, 24, a Michigan student from Detroit.

An unidentified witness told a newsman he believed he saw one of the victims swimming toward the West Virginia shore. He said he thought a passing towboat, the John Rankin, picked up two others, while another vessel picked up the fourth.

The party set out from New Kensington, Pa., and was headed for New Orleans via the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers.

Another brother, Henry, 21, now living in Munich with his parents, recently completed schooling as a waiter and in the near future expects to become a director of waiters.

Served On Carrier

Carder, who attended Oldtown High School, enlisted in the U. S. Navy in May of 1945 and after boot training at Bainbridge Md. was assigned to the USS Randolph, an aircraft carrier, and saw sea duty in the Atlantic. He was a Seaman 1c upon discharge in July 1946 and joined the Naval Reserves.

The following year he enlisted in the regular army and received training at Fort George G. Meade, Fort Dix, N. J., and Arlington Hall Station in Virginia where he was a member of the Army Security Agency.

May 10, 1947 he left Camp Kilmer, N. J. and landed in Bremenhaven, Germany, 11 days later. He enlisted for another year while in Europe and the Army extended his stay one year more. His discharge date is scheduled July 22 of next year but he said yesterday he plans to make a career of military life.

Leave For America

The Carder family left for America on July 12 of this year, landed in New York Harbor, received processing at Fort Hamilton, N. Y., and arrived here in Cumberland early yesterday morning.

Carder remarked of the plentiful supply of food now seen in German markets although he said the automobile and other luxuries are at a premium. Manufacturing is definitely on the uptrend in Europe, he added.

When questioned on his marriage of his pretty wife he said the various papers and visas necessary for him to bring her to America took quite a while to come through. About the only thing on young Stanton's mind yesterday afternoon was getting a bit of "shut-eye." As to Carder and his wife they plan to see the sights prior to the end of his 15 days delay enroute, at which time he will be reassigned pending his orders.

Important To Continue

"At the present time," he said, "it is more important than ever that you pursue your agricultural education through college to prepare yourselves to meet the challenges of the industry."

drafted into the German occupation forces in France, escaped through the French guerilla underground to England where he served during World War II with the English army. Another brother, Henry, 21, now living in Munich with his parents, recently completed schooling as a waiter and in the near future expects to become a director of waiters.

Served On Carrier

Carder, who attended Oldtown High School, enlisted in the U. S. Navy in May of 1945 and after boot training at Bainbridge Md. was assigned to the USS Randolph, an aircraft carrier, and saw sea duty in the Atlantic. He was a Seaman 1c upon discharge in July 1946 and joined the Naval Reserves.

The following year he enlisted in the regular army and received training at Fort George G. Meade, Fort Dix, N. J., and Arlington Hall Station in Virginia where he was a member of the Army Security Agency.

May 10, 1947 he left Camp Kilmer, N. J. and landed in Bremenhaven, Germany, 11 days later. He enlisted for another year while in Europe and the Army extended his stay one year more. His discharge date is scheduled July 22 of next year but he said yesterday he plans to make a career of military life.

Leave For America

The Carder family left for America on July 12 of this year, landed in New York Harbor, received processing at Fort Hamilton, N. Y., and arrived here in Cumberland early yesterday morning.

Carder remarked of the plentiful supply of food now seen in German markets although he said the automobile and other luxuries are at a premium. Manufacturing is definitely on the uptrend in Europe, he added.

When questioned on his marriage of his pretty wife he said the various papers and visas necessary for him to bring her to America took quite a while to come through. About the only thing on young Stanton's mind yesterday afternoon was getting a bit of "shut-eye." As to Carder and his wife they plan to see the sights prior to the end of his 15 days delay enroute, at which time he will be reassigned pending his orders.

American Church Membership Increased 56% Last Year

NEW YORK — (AP) — American church membership in 1950 rose to 85,705,280—an unparalleled 55.9 per cent of the population, an annual survey showed today.

The new figure represents a membership gain of 2,950,987.

The report, compiled by the Christian Herald Magazine which makes the only comprehensive, regular survey of church membership in the United States, disclosed these counts for the major faiths:

Protestant membership increased 1,409,045 to 50,083,686, or 2.89 per cent over the previous year.

Roman Catholics gained 859,784 to bring their total to 28,470,092, up 3.1 per cent.

Jewish Stays Same

Jewish congregations, minus any new statistics, stayed at 5,000,000.

"The major faiths," the report said, "continue in about the same proportion to each other.

"Protestants are still well in the lead, with 58.5 per cent of all church members. Roman Catholics claim 33.2 per cent of the total, while Jewish congregations account for 5.8 per cent."

Other groups make up the remaining 2.5 per cent.

Altogether, memberships of the various faiths climbed 3.56 per cent last year, while population grew only 1.67 per cent—thus putting church membership at an all-time record of 55.9 per cent of the nation.

At present, 44.1 per cent do not belong to any church. Fifty years ago, 65.3 per cent were in this category.

The 1950 overall increase in membership of 2,950,987 compares with lesser gains of 2,426,723 in 1949, and 2,190,264 in 1948. However, the report said of the 1950 gains:

"There was no spectacular turning to religion, no spiritual upheaval. Religion fought for every foot of gain; there were no easy, sweeping advances. But there was a continuation of even growth x x."

Besides membership gains, 3,214 new congregations were formed last year, raising the total to 278,479.

Biggest membership gains by any single Protestant denomination was by the Southern Baptist, which added 318,624 members.

With 7,079,889 members, the Southern Baptist now is the "fastest growing denomination in the United States," the report said, and within 10 years, "may well be our largest."

The Methodist church, still the largest Protestant denomination, had the second highest membership gain, adding 143,078, to bring its total to 8,935,647.

The survey, which covered 221 Protestant and 32 non-Protestant religious bodies, noted that 13 of the top Protestant bodies have 76 per cent of the total membership, and that 38 have 95 per cent of the membership.

Small Churches Grow

Although the larger churches accounted for a "lion's share" of the numerical increase, the report said, the small churches grew faster percentagewise—indicating they "were doing the best job of evangelism."

In comparing the three major religious groups, the report noted that roughly one out of every three persons was a Protestant, one out of every five a Catholic, and one out of 20 Jewish or member of some other non-Protestant group.

However, the report said statistical strengths of Protestants and Roman Catholics do not give an entirely accurate picture because:

1. Catholics count all baptized persons, from infant up, as members, while most Protestant churches count only those who have come to full membership, usually from the age of 13 up.

2. The Catholic church never drops a member from its rolls except in "rare instances" while most Protestant churches "at least make a gesture" toward weeding out non-participants.

"If a more accurate comparison were to be made," the report said, "either approximately 25 per cent should be deducted from the Catholic figure, or at least 20 per cent added to the Protestant figure."

Spain And The Allies

Foreign offices of Great Britain, France, and other Western European nations understandably hope that the new military agreement between the United States and Spain will not lead eventually to a formal alliance between those two nations. Any such alliance, they fear, would dilute American interest in the defense of their countries.

The Western European leaders probably fear also that the United States will buy the cooperation of Spain with funds that would otherwise go to other European nations. Congress was asked by President Truman on May 24 for $8.5 billion—plus a $1 billion increase in the lending power of the Export-Import Bank—for economic and military aid for foreign nations. Not included was any provision for military aid to Spain.

European nations were to get more than $5 billion in military aid alone. The British and French governments evidently fear that now Congress will be tempted to earmark some of those funds for military assistance to Spain.

Secretary of State Acheson on July 18 issued a statement designed to allay these fears. In the event of war, the United States would not plan to pull European defense line behind the Pyrenees, as some Europeans fear. "It has been and is our firm intention to see to it that if Western Europe is attacked it will be defended—and not liberated."

Nevertheless, the Administration's decision to aid Spain at all represents a complete about-face. Secretary Acheson as recently as May, 1949, called the roll of basic individual rights enjoyed under Western European governments and in this country but not enjoyed in Spain. Then he said: "None of them (the Western European governments) say, nor do we say, that Spain, which has never been a full-flowered democracy, must become so. But they all say that there must be some move toward that situation."

Perhaps Franco's newly scrambled cabinet will make "some move" toward democracy. Secretary Acheson's statement on July 18 hinted that the State Department expects a gesture in that direction.

The United States had supported at the San Francisco conference on the United Nations charter in 1945 a motion to bar any regime which had been affiliated with the enemies of the Allies. That meant Spain. But on November 4, 1950, the United States was among 38 nations voting for a UN General Assembly resolution lifting the boycott on diplomatic relations with Spain.

Even so, President Truman said it would be a "long time" before the United States sent an ambassador to Madrid. One month and three days later, the President named Stanton Griffis to that post.

Britain and France have since exchanged ambassadors with Spain. And by 1949, the United Kingdom and France had outranked the United States in trade with Spain.

Some doubt obtains as to the effectiveness of Spain's 22 organized divisions of ground troops. General Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, spoke for American military men in general on June 2 when he said the Atlantic bloc "would be better off" with Spain, Greece, and Turkey in the alliance.

In presenting his credentials to President Truman on January 17, Spanish Ambassador Lequerica said Spain was ready to defend Europe against aggression. Spain's 400,000-man army, he added, could be expanded to 1,000,000 men within two weeks. But the troops which paraded on April 12 in the 12th anniversary of Franco's victory in the Spanish Civil war displayed only pre-World War II weapons.

Summers Are Different

Perhaps it's only temporary, but there seems to be a paucity of those worth-while items from near and far that formerly made up the summer news budget. Oh, yes, the Channel swimmers are up to full strength, and there are the usual hot weather warnings to avoid lightening, cramps and sunstroke.

Loch Ness hasn't let the reading public down, either, and the customary monster has been reported by the customary fishermen in time for the tourist trade.

A Massachusetts farmer is sued because his horse ran into and damaged an automobile, a socially significant item which reenforces a growing conviction that the automobile, modern vintage, is not here to stay at that.

New York City is having its usual and unmetered water shortage, although with reservoirs at 88 per cent of capacity it can be seen this is a diluted shortage at that. Naples contributes a heart-rending yarn about an ex-American economist, Lucky Luciano, whose shoes used to retail at $500 a pair, living in a $2 hotel room, sans tub and shower, also subpoenas.

Still, the old solid stuff isn't there. Why, Cape May and Cape Cod between them haven't produced a single worth-while monster all year. Not a fish, equipped with horns and tail lights, has been sighted along the whole Jersey coast. New England has done no better.

From Texas not even a run of the mill two-headed steer has been adopted by a family Airedale. And the younger generation knows nothing about temperatures that formerly set sweaty gentlemen to frying eggs on the sidewalks of New York.

Nope, save for the cost of living, it's been flat everywhere without a flying saucer to punctuate the running story about the out again, in again Reds and their mysterious bail. Nary a word about midgets sitting on financiers' laps anymore, which may be due to the fact that both midgets and financiers are now working for the internal revenue department like the rest of us. Ah, well, it's probably going to be a short summer anyway.

Editorial Paragraphs

Scientists are attempting to ascertain what keeps the mink warm in the coldest weather. It could be the coat he wears, the sort recently mentioned in an RFC hearing.

In New York pearl necklaces have been reduced from $20,000 to half that figure, but there are no reports of mobs storming the stores to grab the bargains.

Now it is proposed to establish a training course in Washington to teach government officials the value of money. In the primary grades, presumably, they would start at the bottom, with millions.

A member of Congress charges the government is trying to make honesty illegal. Perhaps on the theory more people then would want to be honest.

Kansas, former home of the dust bowl, has been plagued by floods all spring and summer. Kansas weather cannot be accused of being sot in its ways.

Heavy Legs

Many of our readers would like to know how to reduce fat legs. This question is difficult to answer because few women provide all the essential details. After all, enlargement may be a glandular or circulatory disturbance, dropsy, infection, or ordinary fat.

Because obesity usually is associated with heavy legs most women recognize this cause. Fewer calories and less salt often will take care of this problem. Exercising the legs may help to increase the tone of the muscles and improve the shape of the legs but shifting fat from one area to another is not as easy as we have been led to believe by those utilizing rolling pins, massage, or vibrators.

Lipedema, a somewhat similar condition, is traceable to fatty deposits and the accumulation of fluid. The individual may be stout but even if weight is lost the legs and buttocks remain the same. Swelling is accentuated by standing and walking, especially in warm weather. The majority of victims are women and both legs are involved. Altho bed rest may decrease the size of the limbs they never return to normal proportions as does milk leg. The feet usually escape; the skin is soft and pliable but pressure over the distended part is painful. Many lipedema sufferers complain of aching of the enlarged parts, particularly during activity.

The defect is not pleasant and may lead to anxiety and tension. Many are ashamed of their legs or feel that their life is ruined because of their size. They wear long skirts and seldom if ever go to the beach. These women generally stand behind chairs at parties and rarely walk by a full length mirror without taking a peak at their legs.

Treatment is unsatisfactory. Losing weight is recommended because it tends to keep the overall size of the body at a minimum. Heat and massage may relieve tenderness. An elastic stocking or bandage is advised when the individual must be up and about for long periods of time. The only consoling feature is that the condition is not hazardous to life or health.

Some individuals develop enlargement of one or both legs early in life because of a defect in the lymphatic system (lymphedema). As is lipedema females are favored especially in teen-age. Puffiness begins about the feet and ankles and spreads gradually to the legs and thighs. It is worse in warm weather and the menses and has a tendency to subside temporarily after bed rest. Heredity may play a role because many state that other members of the family are affected in a similar manner.

Lymphedema is acquired later in life. It is brought on by a disturbance of the lymphatic system. The same type of enlargement occurs when a leg or vein becomes obstructed thru inflammation. Only one leg is involved as a rule in these two disturbances. In the majority of instances the enlargement appears after operation, childbirth, or infection elsewhere in the body.

TOMORROW: Feline scratches.

Mrs. E. writes: Will golf harm a person with a spastic bowel? I mean walking so much and swinging the clubs.

REPLY

No. Exercise is a good antidote provided the player does not take the game too seriously. The 19th hole probably is harder on the spastic bowel than the other 18.

NASAL LESION

M. V. writes: I have a sore in my right nostril and whenever I blow my nose it bleeds. Could this lead to cancer?

REPLY

This possibility always exists. Why not have the lesion treated?

MISHAP TO WART

N. M. writes: I scratched a wart off my skin accidentally. Will any harm result?

REPLY

Probably not, but the chances are that if you knocked off only the top the lesion will return.

NASAL CONGESTION

L. M. writes: What causes rhinitis?

REPLY

Inflammation of the nose usually is caused by infection, such as the common cold. Allergy also is a causative factor, especially in individuals who are sensitive to dust or react to changes in temperature.

CAUSTIC

L. D. writes: I have been told that dietetically I have type O blood and that all my food turns to caustic acid in my system. Can you give me more information about this?

REPLY

I haven't heard about this socalled dietetian but this type of misinformation is similar to the balderdash disseminated by quacks along this line.

Secretary Chapman Sees Possible Gas Rationing, Heatless Days This Winter; Shortages Here Show Importance To U. S. Of Events In Near East

WASHINGTON.—A grim prospect of fuel shortages this winter was presented to President Truman in a sober, hour-long meeting by Secretary of Interior Oscar Chapman recently. Chapman, who is no "wolf" crier, pointed out the following chances of gas rationing and heatless days this winter:

For Oil and Gasoline—Iranian oil production, which supplies five per cent to the needs outside the iron curtain, may be halted for weeks and even months. In addition, Soviet agents are trying to stir up trouble in other Near East oil areas. Since the Near East supplies fuel for Western European defenses, the difference will have to be made up from the Americas—if Soviet agitation succeeds.

Chapman explained that the oil industry could not increase domestic production unless it gets more steel.

"We need 2,135,000 tons of steel pipe," he said, "if we are going to meet the increasing demands of this country."

Some 300,000 barrels of crude oil production are already backed up in the West Texas Mexico basin for lack of pipe, the Secretary of Interior continued, and a 100,000-barrel a day production in the Rocky Mountains is awaiting completing of the Platte pipeline. One hope, however, was more oil from Mexico, and that was why he was flying to Mexico, Chapman explained.

Ban On Gas Furnaces

Natural Gas — The industry has overexpanded and already does not have the pipe to bring gas to all its customers. An order prohibiting further installation of natural gas homeheating units is a must. Without such a stop-order, the Appalachian area will have a serious shortage in case next winter has even two weeks of sub-normal cold weather. Defense factories, in this case, would come first,, homes last.

Coal—There is plenty of coal in the ground for both domestic and West European rearmament, but a big bottleneck is gondola coal cars. Chapman estimated there must be an increase of 150,000 such railroad cars next year. Again, steel is involved.

Aluminum — Secretary Chapman estimated that we will need a stepup of nearly 1,000,000 tons a year. He has been negotiating for six months to bring smaller companies into the industry and break the hold of the three major producers.

NOTE—The above is why events in the Near East, including oil troubles in Iran, the assassination of King Abdullah in Trans-Jordan, and riots in Egypt are so important to the U.S.A.

Missing Witness

The real reason Irving Sherman gave himself up and agreed to testify before the Senate Crime Committee is that he is sore at his former friend, ex-Mayor O'Dwyer of New York City, now ambassador to Mexico. Sherman is the long-missing fitness alleged to be the link between O'Dwyer and racketeer Frankie Costello. In fact, FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover testified that Sherman is "one of the most prominent criminals of the underworld," and the man who helped O'Dwyer win the mayorality election in 1945.

After offering through his attorney to testify, Sherman finally met face-to-face behind closed doors with the most crusading member of the committee, New Hampshire's Bible-quoting Sen. Charles Tobey. Here's what happened at that dramatic meeting:

Tobey demanded curtly why Sherman had been hiding out from a Senate subpoena. With a shrug, Sherman, explained that he had been staying at the Saxony Hotel in Miami Beach. He admitted reading that the committee was looking for him, but insisted that he hadn't kept his whereabouts a secret.

Sherman's lawyer, Louis Waldman,, then announced that his client was ready to make a complete statement. Waldman explained blandly that Sherman felt he had been wronged by O'Dwyer. Breaking in, Sherman also explained that his garment business suffered financially from all the bad publicity. The lawyer and client then requested a "few days" to prepare a "detailed statement."

So far, however, no statement has been submitted.

GI Mailbag

This column tries to investigate and answer the many GI gripes that pour in from military camps and bases around the world. Here are some recent gripes from the GI mailbag:

A Sergeant with the Eighth Army in Korea: "I read that General Mark Clark thinks American enlisted men are spoiled with luxuries. If anyone is spoiled in this man's army, it's the brass hats. Why don't you investigate how many personal servants some of the top brass have?"

Answer: Gen. Mark Clark, chief of the Army's field forces, has four enlisted men assigned to him as personal servants—one driver, one Cook and two house orderlies. Army Chief of Staff General Collins has six servants—two drivers, one cook and three orderlies. Air Force Chief of Staff General Vandenberg has four—two drivers and two enlisted handymen. But the prize goes to whoever becomes chief of naval operations. He automatically gets two drivers, two chefs, two orderlies, one supervisor and a boat crew of six to do handy jobs around the house—total 13. These enlisted servants are all able bodied, and qualified for more important fighting assignments than waiting on the brass.

Mrs. Eleanor Johnson, Washington, D. C.: "I am writing you in behalf of my son, Private John L. Johnson of Fort Meade, Maryland. He had an automobile accident in Fairfax, Virginia, and has been put in jail because he didn't have a driver's permit. Now the army has listed him as AWOL, and will not let me have his pay. I am under doctor's care."

Answer: Private Johnson is caught in a difficult squeeze be-

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

The Perils Of Pauline

WASHINGTON

As these words are written, the outlook again seems hopeful for a cease-fire in Korea. It would be foolish to go much further than this in trying to predict the future It does seem worthwhile, however, to point out a rather major fact about the recent post which has gone oddly unnoticed, although it ought to have been just about as noticeable as a rogue elephant in a drawing room.

In plain language, during the few days when the Kaesong talks were interrupted, the danger of the immediate outbreak of a third great war hung over the whole world like a very visible dark cloud. People cheerfully followed their summertime pursuits. They talked of anything but the danger hanging over them. But the war danger was plainly there all the same.

The facts, indeed, speak for themselves. The American government was firmly determined not to throw away our Korean victory by acceding to the Communist demand for immediate withdrawal of troops. The Communist leaders, including the leaders in Moscow, said there could be no cease-fire until troop withdrawal had been agreed to. They appeared firm; and their attitude was taken so seriously in the highest American circles that Secretary of State Dean G. Acheson and Secretary of Defense George C. Marshall both issued the sternest warnings, just before the Communists indicated they might compromise the issue after all.

Suspected A Trap

Until the compromise offer, moreover, at least a strong minority of the American policy makers actually suspected that the Kaesong talks were turning out to be a Communist trap, intended to soften up our troops in Korea for a major Chinese and North Korean offensive.

The arguments for this view were indisputably logical. Long before the Malik radio overture, the Chinese and North Koreans began the most important of all their successive build-ups of strength on the ground. This build-up has gone forward continuously, until a most massive force has now been assembled. Altogether, the enemy is now believed to have over 300,000 troops on the line in Korea; the same number or more in reserve; a powerful air force of over a thousand jet fighters and fighter-bombers in Manchuria; substantial increments of artillery; and an important, entirely new armored force variously estimated from 200 to 600 tanks.

Even although Gen. Ridgway's UN armies now hold the Iron Triangle, this greatly strengthened enemy force constituted (and indeed still constitutes) a most serious threat, especially after the relaxation of effort and vigilance resulting from the opening of truce talks. The Kremlin and Peking were clearly hoping to win the prize of general troop withdrawal from Korea in peaceful discussion at Kaesong. Failing this, however, it was also clear that they might be intending to fight for the prize if need be. And it was wholly logical to expect that this time, the large Communist air force in Manchuria would be thrown into the fight; and that American reprisals against the Manchurian air bases would thus become unavoidable.

Shrewd Soviet Line

These facts in turn constituted the danger of immediate war already referred to. No policy makers in Washington, any more than in London, supposes that the Korean fighting can be contained anywhere, once it starts to spread at all. In short, until the compromise offer, the sequence of events that would lead to third World War was all too easy to imagine.

Even so, these facts were less meaningful than the lighthearted inattention to this war danger, even during the few doubtful days when the issue hung publicly in the balance. This cheerful complacency, in America and elsewhere, in turn shows the extreme shrewdness of the new Soviet line that began with the move to end the Korean fighting. As the experts now unanimously agree, the new Soviet line is to lull the Western powers to sleep, and to salt Western rearmament by judiciously administered doses of sweet reasonableness. If whole nations can be dozy when the war danger is immediate, they are certainly likely to slumber when all seems peaceful. And then will come the time for the sleepers to be cheaply and safely destroyed.

The trouble is that world politics are getting to be much like "Perils of Pauline." When Pauline has been snatched from the railroad tracks, from the very jaws of the onrushing locomotive, for 18 times hand-running, you stop believing in the train, and the tracks, and even Pauline herself. But tracks, train and Pauline are all absolutely real, none the less, and if the Marines do not bestir themselves the 19th time, Pauline, who in this instance is both world peace and world freedom, is going to the pretty decisively mangled. On the other hand, the good aspect of recent events is the proof that if the Marines keep on their toes, Pauline can be saved.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—No more serious mistake in strategy could have been made by the Republican party in the House of Representatives than to support an amendment to the pending appropriation bill seeking to cut off the salary of the Secretary of State, Dean Acheson.

It was a mistake because, while the Secretary formulated the foreign policy of the United States, President Truman has taken full responsibility for every phase of it. If, therefore, it is because of disagreement on foreign policy that it now is sought to force removal of Mr. Acheson, then the courageous and direct thing for the Republicans to do is to propose a resolution impeaching the President.

The Republicans have frequently contended that Mr. Truman violated the Constitution when he failed to seek ratification from both houses of Congress and carried on a prolonged war in Korea, although the Constitution states specifically that only the Congress can declare war.

Under a parliamentary system of government such as prevails in Canada and Britain, it would be the head of the government as well as the secretary of state who would be voted out of office. Simply changing a Cabinet officer would not be enough if the issues were fundamental.

Worked Together

The opposition to Secretary Acheson is, in fact, opposition to President Truman. That is one of the reasons why the President has never felt justified in listening to the demands whoch have come from his own party to remove Secretary Acheson or to permit him to resign. For, after all, if Mr. Acheson has erred, so has the President. The two men together have worked out every important step in our world policies.

Efforts to cut off salaries of officials in executive agencies have been made before but have not been upheld in the courts because the legislation has seemed to be aimed at a particular department or bureau. This time a novel approach has been used by the opponents of Mr. Acheson. The amendment reads as follows:

"None of the money appropriated in this act shall be paid to the head of any executive department who, within a period of five years preceding his appointment, was a partner in, or a member of, a professional firm which derived any part of its income from representing or acting for a foreign government, or who, acting as an individual, derived income from such representation, unless submitted or resubmitted by the President to the Senate for confirmation."

The fact is that the law firm of which Mr. Acheson used to be a member represented some foreign governments in connection with legal claims and other technical questions before agencies of the executive branch of the government. Many reputable law firms here do this kind of work. To penalize any citizen and prevent him from holding public office because he once was employed in his profession by a particular type of client would be as unfair as for labor groups to ask Congress to declare by law that nobody should ever be appointed to the federal bench who had been employed by a law firm representing a corporation. There is no limit to the injustice which that precedent would create.

Obviously there is no intent in Congress to besmirch the work of or the members of the law firm of which Mr. Acheson was a partner—namely, Covington & Burling—which happens to be one of the finest in the country and is composed of many eminent men in the field of law. The real purpose is to find some indirect way of removing Dean Acheson from public office.

Slated For Defeat

The attempt, of course, was slated for defeat because a substantial number of Republicans in the House of Representatives did not vote with their colleagues in the party conference held on the subject. Such an item should never have come before a party conference, anyway. No political party can in the long run justify sponsorship of that sort of amendment.

There are plenty of members of the House — both Republicans and Democrats — who feel that Dean Acheson should resign. This correspondent has called attention before to the political factors which cause some Democratic members to feel that Mr. Acheson's continuance in office is a liability to them. But the answer lies in a change of policies and in the system of administering the Department of State, and this is something that the President is as much responsible for as is Mr. Acheson.

The Secretary is a conscientious man. He may have been deceived by subordinates or misled by their reports, but nobody can justly question his loyalty to the United States. His judgment may be severely criticized and his mistaken policies have been responsible for American failures in the Far East. But the legal remedy for this is for the House, by majority vote, to propose a removal of the President by impeachment. Then, if there is no two-thirds vote for it in the Senate—which there is not—the step fails and the question of a successor can be decided inside the Democratic party at the national convention and subsequently at the polls.

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Spain

One of our most severe national problems is to eliminate from our political affairs the effects of the violent intervention of Soviet Russia into American life from 1934 to 1945. During this period, news was slanted to be pro-Russian; the radio battered the minds of our people with a constant rhythm of exaltation of the paradise of the worker; the motion picture industry was almost dominated by Russian commissars some of whom are now under indictment; textbooks for our children in the public schools were rewritten with emphasis on preference for Russia and its Marxian practices.

One of the results of this total subservience to Russian policy and purposes is a general assumption that something is extraordinarily bad about Spain. True, Franco produced a dictatorship, but so did Stalin, Hitler, Mussolini, Kemal Ataturk, Chiang Kai-Shek, Pilsudski, and a number of others who were thrown up by war, revolution, civil disturbances and a breakdown in Europe of a thousand years of tradition at the end of World War I.

This is no defense of dictatorship. It is rather a statement of an historic trend during an era which is not yet ended. Franklin D. Roosevelt assumed that he could distinguish between a good and a bad dictator, which neither he nor anyone else could do because there are no good dictators. The autocrat, even with the best intentions, becomes a prisoner of his own powers.

Really, it was none of our business to make such distinctions. If the people of any country were willing to tolerate autocracy, that was strictly within their own rights. We Americans prefer a representative republic and take what comes with it.

The Rusisans hate Franco because he licked them in a fight. The Spaniards are the only Europeans who have shown enough courage to stand up to a proxy Russian force and drive them out of their country. Most of the other Europeans thought that they could compromise with Stalin and some of them were turned into satellites for their pains.

It is curious that even some intelligent Americans accepted Stalin's propaganda that Stalin was a good dictator and Franco a bad one.

The only difference between these two countries is that Soviet Russia has since 1917 been the enemy of the United States, constantly and consistently; Spain, on the other hand, has desired since 1936 to establish friendly and realistic relations with the United States.

Part of the Communist propaganda against Spain has been to emphasize the anti-Semitism of the Franco regime. Yet, during the war, Spain was open to Jewish refugees from Germany while in Soviet Russia, Judaism, as a religion, was suppressed.

(In this connection, I wish to recommend to those who really desire to know something on the subject a new book, "The Jews In The Soviet Union," by Professor Solomon M. Schwarz, published by Syracuse University Press. This is an invaluable study of spiritual genocide as practiced by Stalin).

The Navy, the Air Force and nearly all students of the military problems which beset this country as a result of our failure in World War II to win a peace insist that the United States requires bases in Spanish territory. Their argument runs that the Iberian Peninsula is our surest gateway to Europe and that should Northern Europe be overrun, we shall have to defend ourselves from Spain and North Africa.

The argument in favor of this subject is technical from a military standpoint and is out of my field. It is obvious, however, from past history that the country which dominates the Mediterranean, can dominate Europe. That argument ran throughout World War II and it will be recalled that Churchill wanted the Allies to invade Europe from the Mediterranean, which Stalin and George Marshall opposed. Roosevelt eventually sided with Stalin and Marshall and that is why we lost the peace.

From that experience, we can assume that the expert's desire for bases in Spain is a correct view. The late Admiral Forrest Sherman negotiated such a contract with Franco on a strictly business basis without the romantic elements general in such transactions. That is all the good, because if we do business with Europeans without romance, we shall get somewhere.

Our task is to do the best we can to save ourselves from more wars and the killing of our sons in futilities such as we have experienced in Korea. If bases in Spain will help in this direction, a deal with Franco is sound.

Spain And The Allies

Foreign offices of Great Britain, France, and other Western European nations understandably hope that the new military agreement between the United States and Spain will not lead eventually to a formal alliance between those two nations. Any such alliance, they fear, would dilute American interest in the defense of their countries.

The Western European leaders probably fear also that the United States will buy the cooperation of Spain with funds that would otherwise go to other European nations. Congress was asked by President Truman on May 24 for $8.5 billion—plus a $1 billion increase in the lending power of the Export-Import Bank—for economic and military aid for foreign nations. Not included was any provision for military aid to Spain.

European nations were to get more than $5 billion in military aid alone. The British and French governments evidently fear that now Congress will be tempted to earmark some of those funds for military assistance to Spain.

Secretary of State Acheson on July 18 issued a statement designed to allay these fears. In the event of war, the United States would not plan to pull European defense line behind the Pyrenees, as some Europeans fear. "It has been and is our firm intention to see to it that if Western Europe is attacked it will be defended—and not liberated."

Nevertheless, the Administration's decision to aid Spain at all represents a complete about-face. Secretary Acheson as recently as May, 1949, called the roll of basic individual rights enjoyed under Western European governments and in this country but not enjoyed in Spain. Then he said: "None of them (the Western European governments) say, nor do we say, that Spain, which has never been a full-flowered democracy, must become so. But they all say that there must be some move toward that situation."

Perhaps Franco's newly scrambled cabinet will make "some move" toward democracy. Secretary Acheson's statement on July 18 hinted that the State Department expects a gesture in that direction.

The United States had supported at the San Francisco conference on the United Nations charter in 1945 a motion to bar any regime which had been affiliated with the enemies of the Allies. That meant Spain. But on November 4, 1950, the United States was among 38 nations voting for a UN General Assembly resolution lifting the boycott on diplomatic relations with Spain.

Even so, President Truman said it would be a "long time" before the United States sent an ambassador to Madrid. One month and three days later, the President named Stanton Griffis to that post.

Britain and France have since exchanged ambassadors with Spain. And by 1949, the United Kingdom and France had outranked the United States in trade with Spain.

Some doubt obtains as to the effectiveness of Spain's 22 organized divisions of ground troops. General Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, spoke for American military men in general on June 2 when he said the Atlantic bloc "would be better off" with Spain, Greece, and Turkey in the alliance.

In presenting his credentials to President Truman on January 17, Spanish Ambassador Lequerica said Spain was ready to defend Europe against aggression. Spain's 400,000-man army, he added, could be expanded to 1,000,000 men within two weeks. But the troops which paraded on April 12 in the 12th anniversary of Franco's victory in the Spanish Civil war displayed only pre-World War II weapons.

Summers Are Different

Perhaps it's only temporary, but there seems to be a paucity of those worth-while items from near and far that formerly made up the summer news budget. Oh, yes, the Channel swimmers are up to full strength, and there are the usual hot weather warnings to avoid lightening, cramps and sunstroke.

Loch Ness hasn't let the reading public down, either, and the customary monster has been reported by the customary fishermen in time for the tourist trade.

A Massachusetts farmer is sued because his horse ran into and damaged an automobile, a socially significant item which reenforces a growing conviction that the automobile, modern vintage, is not here to stay at that.

New York City is having its usual and unmetered water shortage, although with reservoirs at 88 per cent of capacity it can be seen this is a diluted shortage at that. Naples contributes a heart-rending yarn about an ex-American economist, Lucky Luciano, whose shoes used to retail at $500 a pair, living in a $2 hotel room, sans tub and shower, also subpoenas.

Still, the old solid stuff isn't there. Why, Cape May and Cape Cod between them haven't produced a single worth-while monster all year. Not a fish, equipped with horns and tail lights, has been sighted along the whole Jersey coast. New England has done no better.

From Texas not even a run of the mill two-headed steer has been adopted by a family Airedale. And the younger generation knows nothing about temperatures that formerly set sweaty gentlemen to frying eggs on the sidewalks of New York.

Nope, save for the cost of living, it's been flat everywhere without a flying saucer to punctuate the running story about the out again, in again Reds and their mysterious bail. Nary a word about midgets sitting on financiers' laps anymore, which may be due to the fact that both midgets and financiers are now working for the internal revenue department like the rest of us. Ah, well, it's probably going to be a short summer anyway.

Editorial Paragraphs

Scientists are attempting to ascertain what keeps the mink warm in the coldest weather. It could be the coat he wears, the sort recently mentioned in an RFC hearing.

In New York pearl necklaces have been reduced from $20,000 to half that figure, but there are no reports of mobs storming the stores to grab the bargains.

Now it is proposed to establish a training course in Washington to teach government officials the value of money. In the primary grades, presumably, they would start at the bottom, with millions.

A member of Congress charges the government is trying to make honesty illegal. Perhaps on the theory more people then would want to be honest.

Kansas, former home of the dust bowl, has been plagued by floods all spring and summer. Kansas weather cannot be accused of being sot in its ways.

Heavy Legs

Many of our readers would like to know how to reduce fat legs. This question is difficult to answer because few women provide all the essential details. After all, enlargement may be a glandular or circulatory disturbance, dropsy, infection, or ordinary fat.

Because obesity usually is associated with heavy legs most women recognize this cause. Fewer calories and less salt often will take care of this problem. Exercising the legs may help to increase the tone of the muscles and improve the shape of the legs but shifting fat from one area to another is not as easy as we have been led to believe by those utilizing rolling pins, massage, or vibrators.

Lipedema, a somewhat similar condition, is traceable to fatty deposits and the accumulation of fluid. The individual may be stout but even if weight is lost the legs and buttocks remain the same. Swelling is accentuated by standing and walking, especially in warm weather. The majority of victims are women and both legs are involved. Altho bed rest may decrease the size of the limbs they never return to normal proportions as does milk leg. The feet usually escape; the skin is soft and pliable but pressure over the distended part is painful. Many lipedema sufferers complain of aching of the enlarged parts, particularly during activity.

The defect is not pleasant and may lead to anxiety and tension. Many are ashamed of their legs or feel that their life is ruined because of their size. They wear long skirts and seldom if ever go to the beach. These women generally stand behind chairs at parties and rarely walk by a full length mirror without taking a peak at their legs.

Treatment is unsatisfactory. Losing weight is recommended because it tends to keep the overall size of the body at a minimum. Heat and massage may relieve tenderness. An elastic stocking or bandage is advised when the individual must be up and about for long periods of time. The only consoling feature is that the condition is not hazardous to life or health.

Some individuals develop enlargement of one or both legs early in life because of a defect in the lymphatic system (lymphedema). As is lipedema females are favored especially in teen-age. Puffiness begins about the feet and ankles and spreads gradually to the legs and thighs. It is worse in warm weather and the menses and has a tendency to subside temporarily after bed rest. Heredity may play a role because many state that other members of the family are affected in a similar manner.

Lymphedema is acquired later in life. It is brought on by a disturbance of the lymphatic system. The same type of enlargement occurs when a leg or vein becomes obstructed thru inflammation. Only one leg is involved as a rule in these two disturbances. In the majority of instances the enlargement appears after operation, childbirth, or infection elsewhere in the body.

No. Exercise is a good antidote provided the player does not take the game too seriously. The 19th hole probably is harder on the spastic bowel than the other 18.

NASAL LESION

Secretary Chapman Sees Possible Gas Rationing, Heatless Days This Winter; Shortages Here Show Importance To U. S. Of Events In Near East

WASHINGTON.—A grim prospect of fuel shortages this winter was presented to President Truman in a sober, hour-long meeting by Secretary of Interior Oscar Chapman recently. Chapman, who is no "wolf" crier, pointed out the following chances of gas rationing and heatless days this winter:

For Oil and Gasoline—Iranian oil production, which supplies five per cent to the needs outside the iron curtain, may be halted for weeks and even months. In addition, Soviet agents are trying to stir up trouble in other Near East oil areas. Since the Near East supplies fuel for Western European defenses, the difference will have to be made up from the Americas—if Soviet agitation succeeds.

Chapman explained that the oil industry could not increase domestic production unless it gets more steel.

"We need 2,135,000 tons of steel pipe," he said, "if we are going to meet the increasing demands of this country."

Some 300,000 barrels of crude oil production are already backed up in the West Texas Mexico basin for lack of pipe, the Secretary of Interior continued, and a 100,000-barrel a day production in the Rocky Mountains is awaiting completing of the Platte pipeline. One hope, however, was more oil from Mexico, and that was why he was flying to Mexico, Chapman explained.

Ban On Gas Furnaces

Natural Gas — The industry has overexpanded and already does not have the pipe to bring gas to all its customers. An order prohibiting further installation of natural gas homeheating units is a must. Without such a stop-order, the Appalachian area will have a serious shortage in case next winter has even two weeks of sub-normal cold weather. Defense factories, in this case, would come first,, homes last.

Coal—There is plenty of coal in the ground for both domestic and West European rearmament, but a big bottleneck is gondola coal cars. Chapman estimated there must be an increase of 150,000 such railroad cars next year. Again, steel is involved.

Aluminum — Secretary Chapman estimated that we will need a step-up of nearly 1,000,000 tons a year. He has been negotiating for six months to bring smaller companies into the industry and break the hold of the three major producers.

NOTE—The above is why events in the Near East, including oil troubles in Iran, the assassination of King Abdullah in Trans-Jordan, and riots in Egypt are so important to the U.S.A.

Missing Witness

The real reason Irving Sherman gave himself up and agreed to testify before the Senate Crime Committee is that he is sore at his former friend, ex-Mayor O'Dwyer of New York City, now ambassador to Mexico. Sherman is the long-missing fitness alleged to be the link between O'Dwyer and racketeer Frankie Costello. In fact, FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover testified that Sherman is "one of the most prominent criminals of the underworld," and the man who helped O'Dwyer win the mayorality election in 1945.

After offering through his attorney to testify, Sherman finally met face-to-face behind closed doors with the most crusading member of the committee, New Hampshire's Bible-quoting Sen. Charles Tobey. Here's what happened at that dramatic meeting:

Tobey demanded curtly why Sherman had been hiding out from a Senate subpoena. With a shrug, Sherman, explained that he had been staying at the Saxony Hotel in Miami Beach. He admitted reading that the committee was looking for him, but insisted that he hadn't kept his whereabouts a secret.

Sherman's lawyer, Louis Waldman., then announced that his client was ready to make a complete statement. Waldman explained blandly that Sherman felt he had been wronged by O'Dwyer. Breaking in, Sherman also explained that his garment business suffered financially from all the bad publicity. The lawyer and client then requested a "few days" to prepare a "detailed statement."

So far, however, no statement has been submitted.

GI Mailbag

This column tries to investigate and answer the many GI gripes that pour in from military camps and bases around the world. Here are some recent gripes from the GI mailbag:

A Sergeant with the Eighth Army in Korea: "I read that General Mark Clark thinks American enlisted men are spoiled with luxuries. If anyone is spoiled in this man's army, it's the brass hats. Why don't you investigate how many personal servants some of the top brass have?"

Answer: Gen. Mark Clark, chief of the Army's field forces, has four enlisted men assigned to him as personal servants—one driver, one Cook and two house orderlies. Army Chief of Staff General Collins has six servants—two drivers, one cook and three orderlies. Air Force Chief of Staff General Vandenberg has four—two drivers and two enlisted handymen. But the prize goes to whoever becomes chief of naval operations. He automatically gets two drivers, two chefs, two orderlies, one supervisor and a boat crew of six to do handy jobs around the house—total 13. These enlisted servants are all able bodied, and qualified for more important fighting assignments than waiting on the brass.

Mrs. Eleanor Johnson, Washington, D. C.: "I am writing you in behalf of my son, Private John L. Johnson of Fort Meade, Maryland. He had an automobile accident in Fairfax, Virginia, and has been put in jail because he didn't have a driver's permit. Now the army has listed him as AWOL, and will not let me have his pay. I am under doctor's care."

The Perils Of Pauline

WASHINGTON

As these words are written, the outlook again seems hopeful for a cease-fire in Korea. It would be foolish to go much further than this in trying to predict the future It does seem worthwhile, however, to point out a rather major fact about the recent post which has gone oddly unnoticed, although it ought to have been just about as noticeable as a rogue elephant in a drawing room.

In plain language, during the few days when the Kaesong talks were interrupted, the danger of the immediate outbreak of a third great war hung over the whole world like a very visible dark cloud. People cheerfully followed their summertime pursuits. They talked of anything but the danger hanging over them. But the war danger was plainly there all the same.

The facts, indeed, speak for themselves. The American government was firmly determined not to throw away our Korean victory by acceding to the Communist demand for immediate withdrawal of troops. The Communist leaders, including the leaders in Moscow, said there could be no cease-fire until troop withdrawal had been agreed to. They appeared firm; and their attitude was taken so seriously in the highest American circles that Secretary of State Dean G. Acheson and Secretary of Defense George C. Marshall both issued the sternest warnings, just before the Communists indicated they might compromise the issue after all.

Suspected A Trap

Until the compromise offer, moreover, at least a strong minority of the American policy makers actually suspected that the Kaesong talks were turning out to be a Communist trap, intended to soften up our troops in Korea for a major Chinese and North Korean offensive.

The arguments for this view were indisputably logical. Long before the Malik radio overture, the Chinese and North Koreans began the most important of all their successive build-ups of strength on the ground. This build-up has gone forward continuously, until a most massive force has now been assembled. Altogether, the enemy is now believed to have over 300,000 troops on the line in Korea; the same number or more in reserve; a powerful air force of over a thousand jet fighters and fighter-bombers in Manchuria; substantial increments of artillery; and an important, entirely new armored force variously estimated from 200 to 600 tanks.

Even although Gen. Ridgway's UN armies now hold the Iron Triangle, this greatly strengthened enemy force constituted (and indeed still constitutes) a most serious threat, especially after the relaxation of effort and vigilance resulting from the opening of truce talks. The Kremlin and Peking were clearly hoping to win the prize of general troop withdrawal from Korea in peaceful discussion at Kaesong. Failing this, however, it was also clear that they might be intending to fight for the prize if need be. And it was wholly logical to expect that this time, the large Communist air force in Manchuria would be thrown into the fight; and that American reprisals against the Manchurian air bases would thus become unavoidable.

Shrewd Soviet Line

These facts in turn constituted the danger of immediate war already referred to. No policy makers in Washington, any more than in London, supposes that the Korean fighting can be contained anywhere, once it starts to spread at all. In short, until the compromise offer, the sequence of events that would lead to third World War was all too easy to imagine.

Even so, these facts were less meaningful than the lighthearted inattention to this war danger, even during the few doubtful days when the issue hung publicly in the balance. This cheerful complacency, in America and elsewhere, in turn shows the extreme shrewdness of the new Soviet line that began with the move to end the Korean fighting. As the experts now unanimously agree, the new Soviet line is to lull the Western powers to sleep, and to salt Western rearmament by judiciously administered doses of sweet reasonableness. If whole nations can be dozy when the war danger is immediate, they are certainly likely to slumber when all seems peaceful. And then will come the time for the sleepers to be cheaply and safely destroyed.

The trouble is that world politics are getting to be much like "Perils of Pauline." When Pauline has been snatched from the railroad tracks, from the very jaws of the onrushing locomotive, for 18 times hand-running, you stop believing in the train, and the tracks, and even Pauline herself. But tracks, train and Pauline are all absolutely real, none the less, and if the Marines do not bestir themselves the 19th time, Pauline, who in this instance is both world peace and world freedom, is going to the pretty decisively mangled. On the other hand, the good aspect of recent events is the proof that if the Marines keep on their toes, Pauline can be saved.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—No more serious mistake in strategy could have been made by the Republican party in the House of Representatives than to support an amendment to the pending appropriation bill seeking to cut off the salary of the Secretary of State, Dean Acheson.

It was a mistake because, while the Secretary formulated the foreign policy of the United States, President Truman has taken full responsibility for every phase of it. If, therefore, it is because of disagreement on foreign policy that it now is sought to force removal of Mr. Acheson, then the courageous and direct thing for the Republicans to do is to propose a resolution impeaching the President.

The Republicans have frequently contended that Mr. Truman violated the Constitution when he failed to seek ratification from both houses of Congress and carried on a prolonged war in Korea, although the Constitution states specifically that only the Congress can declare war.

Under a parliamentary system of government such as prevails in Canada and Britain, it would be the head of the government as well as the secretary of state who would be voted out of office. Simply changing a Cabinet officer would not be enough if the issues were fundamental.

Worked Together

The opposition to Secretary Acheson is, in fact, opposition to President Truman. That is one of the reasons why the President has never felt justified in listening to the demands whoch have come from his own party to remove Secretary Acheson or to permit him to resign. For, after all, if Mr. Acheson has erred, so has the President. The two men together have worked out every important step in our world policies.

Efforts to cut off salaries of officials in executive agencies have been made before but have not been upheld in the courts because the legislation has seemed to be aimed at a particular department or bureau. This time a novel approach has been used by the opponents of Mr. Acheson. The amendment reads as follows:

"None of the money appropriated in this act shall be paid to the head of any executive department who, within a period of five years preceding his appointment, was a partner in, or a member of, a professional firm which derived any part of its income from representing or acting for a foreign government, or who, acting as an individual, derived income from such representation, unless submitted or resubmitted by the President to the Senate for confirmation."

The fact is that the law firm of which Mr. Acheson used to be a member represented some foreign governments in connection with legal claims and other technical questions before agencies of the executive branch of the government. Many reputable law firms here do this kind of work. To penalize any citizen and prevent him from holding public office because he once was employed in his profession by a particular type of client would be as unfair as for labor groups to ask Congress to declare by law that nobody should ever be appointed to the federal bench who had been employed by a law firm representing a corporation. There is no limit to the injustice which that precedent would create.

Obviously there is no intent in Congress to besmirch the work of or the members of the law firm of which Mr. Acheson was a partner—namely, Covington & Burling—which happens to be one of the finest in the country and is composed of many eminent men in the field of law. The real purpose is to find some indirect way of removing Dean Acheson from public office.

Slated For Defeat

The attempt, of course, was slated for defeat because a substantial number of Republicans in the House of Representatives did not vote with their colleagues in the party conference held on the subject. Such an item should never have come before a party conference, anyway. No political party can in the long run justify sponsorship of that sort of amendment.

There are plenty of members of the House — both Republicans and Democrats — who feel that Dean Acheson should resign. This correspondent has called attention before to the political factors which cause some Democratic members to feel that Mr. Acheson's continuance in office is a liability to them. But the answer lies in a change of policies and in the system of administering the Department of State, and this is something that the President is as much responsible for as is Mr. Acheson.

The Secretary is a conscientious man. He may have been deceived by subordinates or misled by their reports, but nobody can justly question his loyalty to the United States. His judgment may be severely criticized and his mistaken policies have been responsible for American failures in the Far East. But the legal remedy for this is for the House, by majority vote, to propose a removal of the President by impeachment. Then, if there is no two-thirds vote for it in the Senate—which there is not—the step fails and the question of a successor can be decided inside the Democratic party at the national convention and subsequently at the polls.

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Spain

One of our most severe national problems is to eliminate from our political affairs the effects of the violent intervention of Soviet Russia into American life from 1934 to 1945. During this period, news was slanted to be pro-Russian; the radio battered the minds of our people with a constant rhythm of exaltation of the paradise of the worker; the motion picture industry was almost dominated by Russian commissars some of whom are now under indictment; textbooks for our children in the public schools were rewritten with emphasis on preference for Russia and its Marxian practices.

One of the results of this total subservience to Russian policy and purposes is a general assumption that something is extraordinarily bad about Spain. True, Franco produced a dictatorship, but so did Stalin, Hitler, Mussolini, Kemal Ataturk, Chiang Kai-Shek, Pilsudski, and a number of others who were thrown up by war, revolution, civil disturbances and a breakdown in Europe of a thousand years of tradition at the end of World War I.

This is no defense of dictatorship. It is rather a statement of an historic trend during an era which is not yet ended. Franklin D. Roosevelt assumed that he could distinguish between a good and a bad dictator, which neither he nor anyone else could do because there are no good dictators. The autocrat, even with the best intentions, becomes a prisoner of his own powers.

Really, it was none of our business to make such distinctions. If the people of any country were willing to tolerate autocracy, that was strictly within their own rights. We Americans prefer a representative republic and take what comes with it.

The Rusisans hate Franco because he licked them in a fight. The Spaniards are the only Europeans who have shown enough courage to stand up to a proxy Russian force and drive them out of their country. Most of the other Europeans thought that they could compromise with Stalin and some of them were turned into satellites for their pains.

It is curious that even some intelligent Americans accepted Stalin's propaganda that Stalin was a good dictator and Franco a bad one.

The only difference between these two countries is that Soviet Russia has since 1917 been the enemy of the United States, constantly and consistently; Spain, on the other hand, has desired since 1936 to establish friendly and realistic relations with the United States.

Part of the Communist propaganda against Spain has been to emphasize the anti-Semitism of the Franco regime. Yet, during the war, Spain was open to Jewish refugees from Germany while in Soviet Russia, Judaism, as a religion, was suppressed.

(In this connection, I wish to recommend to those who really desire to know something on the subject a new book, "The Jews In The Soviet Union," by Professor Solomon M. Schwarz, published by Syracuse University Press. This is an invaluable study of spiritual genocide as practiced by Stalin).

The Navy, the Air Force and nearly all students of the military problems which beset this country as a result of our failure in World War II to win a peace insist that the United States requires bases in Spanish territory. Their argument runs that the Iberian Peninsula is our surest gateway to Europe and that should Northern Europe be overrun, we shall have to defend ourselves from Spain and North Africa.

The argument in favor of this subject is technical from a military standpoint and is out of my field. It is obvious, however, from past history that the country which dominates the Mediterranean, can dominate Europe. That argument ran throughout World War II and it will be recalled that Churchill wanted the Allies to invade Europe from the Mediterranean, which Stalin and George Marshall opposed. Roosevelt eventually sided with Stalin and Marshall and that is why we lost the peace.

From that experience, we can assume that the expert's desire for bases in Spain is a correct view. The late Admiral Forrest Sherman negotiated such a contract with Franco on a strictly business basis without the romantic elements general in such transactions. That is all the good, because if we do business with Europeans without romance, we shall get somewhere.

Our task is to do the best we can to save ourselves from more wars and the killing of our sons in futilities such as we have experienced in Korea. If bases in Spain will help in this direction, a deal with Franco is sound.

ALONG THE POTOMAC TO WASHINGTON

(By Representative J. Glenn Beall, Sixth Maryland District)

In spite of what the Administration stated in its propaganda bombardment of the public on the price controls legislation, there is not a representative in Congress who does not want to do something about the sky-high cost of living.

Rep. Jesse P. Wolcott (R) of Michigan, ranking minority member of the Banking and Currency Committee, stated the situation when he said, "The action of the House, and particularly of Republican members of the House, on control legislation, is being badly misrepresented to the country . . . If the American people were being correctly informed, they would realize that the Truman Administration has endangered the entire controls program by attempting to use the current emergency to grab new powers that would be palatable only to a British socialist."

There is no question but that inflation is eating at the vitals of our economy but it cannot be corrected when the Administration itself insists upon inflationary procedures. The biggest cause of inflation is deficit financing over a period of 20 years, with the exception of the 80th Republican Congress, coupled with printing-press money; enormous bond issues floated whch gives more money for the Administration to squander; and the encouragement of the Administration to banks and other financial institutions to load themselves up with government securities which only promotes further spending.

Congress passed a good control law last August—almost a year ago—authorizing controls on prices, wages and credit. Mr. Truman did not favor such legislation, declaring in his press conference on August 10, that the government was capable of handling the inflation with existing machinery. According to a signed story in the Washington Post, August 11, 1950, written by Edward T. Folliard, Mr. Truman's attitude was expressed as follows, "He (President Truman) still doesn't think the time is in sight for using price and wage controls, which Congress seems ready to give him on a stand-by basis. He thinks the federal government, thanks to reorganization and improvement over the last five years, has an administrative set-up that can meet any emergency. Replying to a question, he said that the reporter could take that to mean that there would be no revival of OPA."

Between June 27, 1950, and January 26, 1951, the cost of living went up 7.0 per cent and the cost of food 8.0 per cent. When the President imposed controls on January 27, Minority Leader Joe Martin (R) of Mass. said, "The Administration has only frozen the hole in the consumer's pocketbook."

Since January 26 and to June 1, 1951, the cost of living and the cost of food has gone up another 2 per cent each. Then when the controls act was expiring, the Administration and its socialist planners decided that this was an opportunity to put over some of its pet schemes. The result was a bill which was not related to the consumer's problem of price, wage and credit controls but contained authority to set up government-owned plants, to set up government corporations to compete with private industry, to move existing privately-owned plants to other parts of the country by government edict, to impose marketing quotas, and to sneak in the dscredited Brannan Plan by so-called production subsidies.

There is a deliberate campaign to make it appear that certain members of the House are sabotaging price, wage and credit controls by any changes made in the bill. The truth is that 93 per cent of Republican voting on August 10, 1950, voted in favor of the enactment. I voted for the act, as did 140 of my Republcan colleagues.

Naturally, the President will claim this isn't his bill—the one he wanted—and any and all failures will be charged to Congress although his own party is in the majority in both Houses. The whole situation is a definte failure on the part of the Administration that tried to write a successful political controls measure that the American people will not accept.

UNDER THE DOME

Farmers of Allegany County asked my help in getting baler twine for their hay crops. I requested that sufficient twine be allocated to Allegany County and was advised that this would be done.

I have also been in touch with officials of the Civil Aeronautics Board relative to continuance of the air service to Cumberland and the possibility of improving the Cumberland air strip. All American Airways has made application to discontinue service to Cumberland and I am doing everything possible to see that the airport is improved and that the service will be continued.

The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department has made application for a priority to buy some equipment. This application has gone to the National Production Authority and I have asked that favorable action be taken.

I have attended daily meetings of the Public Works Committee when the St. Lawrence Seaway Project was discussed.

ALONG THE POTOMAC TO WASHINGTON

(By Representative J. Glenn Beall, Sixth Maryland District)

In spite of what the Administration stated in its propaganda bombardment of the public on the price controls legislation, there is not a representative in Congress who does not want to do something about the sky-high cost of living.

Rep. Jesse P. Wolcott (R) of Michigan, ranking minority member of the Banking and Currency Committee, stated the situation when he said, "The action of the House, and particularly of Republican members of the House, on control legislation, is being badly misrepresented to the country . . . If the American people were being correctly informed, they would realize that the Truman Administration has endangered the entire controls program by attemptng to use the current emergency to grab new powers that would be palatable only to a British socialist."

There is no question but that inflation is eating at the vitals of our economy but it cannot be corrected when the Administration itself insists upon inflationary procedures. The biggest cause of inflation is deficit financing over a period of 20 years, with the exception of the 80th Republican Congress, coupled with printing-press money; enormous bond issues floated whch gives more money for the Administration to squander; and the encouragement of the Administration to banks and other financial institutions to load themselves up with government securities which only promotes further spending.

Congress passed a good control law last August—almost a year ago—authorizing controls on prices, wages and credit. Mr. Truman did not favor such legislation, declaring in his press conference on August 10, that the government was capable of handling the inflation with existing machinery. According to a signed story in the Washington Post, August 11, 1950, written by Edward T. Folliard, Mr. Truman's attitude was expressed as follows, "He (President Truman) still doesn't think the time is in sight for using price and wage controls, which Congress seems ready to give him on a stand-by basis. He thinks the federal government, thanks to reorganization and improvement over the last five years, has an administrative set-up that can meet any emergency. Replying to a question, he said that the reporter could take that to mean that there would be no revival of OPA."

Between June 27, 1950, and January 26, 1951, the cost of living went up 7.0 per cent and the cost of food 8.0 per cent. When the President imposed controls on January 27, Minority Leader Joe Martin (R) of Mass. said, "The Administration has only frozen the hole in the consumer's pocketbook."

Since January 26 and to June 1, 1951, the cost of living and the cost of food has gone up another 2 per cent each. Then when the controls act was expiring, the Administration and its socialist planners decided that this was an opportunity to put over some of its pet schemes. The result was a bill which was not related to the consumer's problem of price, wage and credit controls but contained authority to set up government-owned plants, to set up government corporations to compete with private industry, to move existing privately-owned plants to other parts of the country by government edict, to impose marketing quotas, and to sneak in the discredited Brannan Plan by so-called production subsidies.

There is a deliberate campaign to make it appear that certain members of the House are sabotaging price, wage and credit controls by any changes made in the bill. The truth is that 93 per cent of Republican voting on August 10, 1950, voted in favor of the enactment. I voted for the act, as did 140 of my Republcan colleagues.

Naturally, the President will claim this isn't his bill—the one he wanted—and any and all failures will be charged to Congress although his own party is in the majority in both Houses. The whole situation is a definte failure on the part of the Administration that tried to write a successful political controls measure that the American people will not accept.

UNDER THE DOME

Farmers of Allegany County asked my help in getting baler twine for their hay crops. I requested that sufficient twine be allocated to Allegany County and was advised that this would be done.

I have also been in touch with officials of the Civil Aeronautics Board relative to continuance of the air service to Cumberland and the possibility of improving the Cumberland air strip. All American Airways has made application to discontinue service to Cumberland and I am doing everything possible to see that the airport is improved and that the service will be continued.

The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department has made application for a priority to buy some equipment. This application has gone to the National Production Authority and I have asked that favorable action be taken.

I have attended daily meetings of the Public Works Committee when the St. Lawrence Seaway Project was discussed.

DeMolay To Crown Queens At Summer Dance August 17

Chapter Receives Shrine Invitation

Cumberland Chapter, Order of DeMolay, completed plans for its mid-summer dance, discussed the pre-Conclave meeting, the Conclave and received an invitation from the Shrine, at the regular business session Wednesday evening at the temple.

August 17 was selected as the date of the dance. It is to be held at Ali Ghan Country Club, will be semi-formal and is open to the public.

The features of the dance will be the crowning of the fourth DeMolay Queen and election of the Queen of the Year.

Semi-annually a DeMolay Queen is crowned; she is the partner of the chapter member having earned the most points for DeMolay work during the preceding six months The new Queen and the three former Queens will be guests at the dance and from one of the four the Queen of the Year is to be elected by a group of judges, including James J. Kave, dad of the chapter.

Dancing is to be from 9 until 12 o'clock, with music by Douglas Ritchie's Orchestra.

An invitation was received to attend the awarding of the Legion of Honor to Lewyn C. Davis September 26 at the temple.

William Burke presided at the business session. Announcement was made that registrations for the State Conclave are to be sent to Baltimore by August 1. The conclave will be held in Baltimore September 1, 2 and 3, at which time state officers are to be elected. Routine business was transacted and it was reported that jerseys for the softball team were purchased with the proceeds from the recent rummage sale.

Initiation will be held September 15.

Princesses In My Past

BY JOHN WHITE

Royalty? Pouf! !

I have fooled around with them all — dukes, earls, duchesses, lords, ladies. . .I was going to say kings and queens, but that would be a lie. Princesses, yes. I even kissed a princess once.

JOHN WHITE

You live in Washington and you haven't got a harelip or a clubfoot and you have a dinner jacket and you are a bachelor and you'll meet them. Yep.

First princess I ever met (not the one I kissed) was very pretty. Small, brown-eyed, with a blue ribbon in her hair and freckles. It was at a party.

I had met a prince, several months before. At a lunch. We had spoken but few words, as follows:

Prince (to hostess): Why does that young man cut his steak with a butter knife?

Hostess: I don't know I'm sure. Ask him.

Prince (to me): Why do you cut your meat with a butter knife?

Me: Because I can do it neater that way.

Prince: Oh.

I thought I had got the better of him. But he didn't show any embarrassment or confusion. Thick-skinned foreigner. . . .

He soured me on royalty. I never saw him again.

When I met this freckle-faced princess I said to her "You know why I don't like royalty?"

She smiled at me — lovely smile — and said, "Will you have zome ize cream?" She had only the faintest, most attractive accent. She handed me her dish of ize cream. I ate it, being careful to spill none. Again I said, "Do you want to know why I hate princes and princesses?"

She smiled again and said "Let me get you a cake."

It was a fine cake. With lots of icing. Those parties are very good that way. Plenty of everything.

I ate the cake, in very small bites, and said, "Princes and princesses and I suppose kings and queens—ha."

She smiled and nodded with much dignity.

I said, "Well, do you know why I don't like princesses?"

She spoke.

"No," she said, "I don't."

"And," she said, "I don't give a d- - -."

Ha.

Is it any wonder that the next princess I met I kissed?

She was rather short and dumpy, I am afraid, but so motherly. She had just been divorced. She wanted affection. So did I. (I always do.) I met her at the wrestling matches; she had lost her man, I had come by myself anyway; we went on to a tavern and she told me her sorrows and I told her I was sad that her fellow princes and princesses, as far as I could see, were having such a tough time in America.

We took the street car home and I kissed her on the doorstep.

The next night I came to take her out — oh what a fine house she had, in Georgetown, of course — and she was sick. And the next week she went back to Andorra or Andalucia or wherever, and I lost her address.

Once before in this column I wrote of the first countess I ever met, and how she called me a very bad name because I got tangled up in her corsage at her daughter's wedding.

The first lord I met was a jolly fellow with long dank hair and a handsome profile. He was working as a waiter in the daytime and an undertaker's assistant at night.

He said he used to make death masks of famous persons. You put hot wax over the face, he said, and lift it — the wax — off when it is cool. Once he was in a hurry and ripped it off too fast — an ear came with it.

"And to this day no one in the whole world except me — and now you," he confided to me, "knows that Senator ——— ——— of the state of ——— went into his grave with his left ear stuck on with chewing gum."

I asked him how he liked being a lord.

He said he liked it all right, he only wished he had a castle or something to go with it. He said lords usually did have — it was the princes and such who came from Europe who were the worst off.

I met an earl who could play the piano with his feet, without taking off his socks, and a lady who could beat the whey out of me at ping-pong or darts or canasta (except when she let me score), and an old, old countess who used to draw pretty little pictures in bright colors on her ear trumpet, and say in a low voice, "My husband never took so much butter as the men do nowadays."

Oh I've seen them come and go, these royalties. Good and bad.

And my small plump princess — I think of her — where can she be? ? ? If I could only find her — I might become a prince! !

Do you have more work than you ever feel you can do? Follow an expert's plan for relieving the pressure!

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

In hot weather especially, your energy and your zest for life can easily be flagged to zero when you are worrying for fear your strength and time won't be equal to the tasks with which you find yourself charged. Pressure from increased responsibilities of jobs, homes and communities is taking a serious toll from women everywhere today.

Expert's Plan

Even though you cannot lighten your work load, the chances are that you can lighten the pressure. If you do, you will have more leisure to enjoy life — and more effective energy to spend on your tasks, which will, in turn, ease them.

Do you start each day with a plan? Are you ever depressed by the amount of work to be done? Do you ever accomplish more than one thing at a time? How often do you just plain "play out" and have to give up?

Think of your answer to these questions as you study the work procedures outlined to me by one of the nation's leading industrial efficiency experts:

1. Never start a day without a really disciplined plan. Spend a few moments each evening outlining on paper your next day's activities. Put the most important things first and do them in that order. If you fail to finish the less important tasks, simply carry them over to the next day's list. Pigeonhole your worries about getting them done as you jot down your reminders.

2. Never set more tasks for yourself than you have found in the past you could complete. Cut out all extraneous items. Learn to say "no" to the things and people that hamper your accomplishments.

Make Energy Effective

3. Never try to do more than one thing at a time. Then, concentrate on it. You waste time and energy when you worry about the next obstacle.

4. Never let yourself become fatigued to the breaking point. Take a breather when you need it.

Save those four points. Carry them out to the letter for one week. If you do, you'll make it your daily plan forever. There's nothing more valuable to you than your energy. Never let it be a wasted expenditure!

The Old Second Guesser

Is The Russians' Bark Worse Than Their Bite?

Admiral William H. Standley, an old sea dog now retired, was in New York the other day to attend a directors' meeting of Pan American World Airways. After he had finished with official business and declared a dividend, he had lunch with me and proved to be a very interesting companion. He was the American Ambassador to Russia during the war years and probably traveled more extensively there than any other United States representative since the revolution.

"Do you think we will have a war with the Soviet Union soon?" I asked.

"No," he replied without hesitation. "They are not prepared for it, and the leaders are practical men. Even though Stalin is a dictator, he needs the support of the people, and he won't get it for an aggressive war. If the country were invaded, it would be different. Most Russians are land conscious and will fight to defend their homes. That is what the Germans ran into, although some of the villagers welcomed them at first as liberators. they made the mistake of abusing those they had conquered."

"Why wouldn't it be a temptation for their armies to march now while we are getting ready?"

"They are not prepared either industrially or militarily to support a war. They cannot produce the goods they need, because they lack the know-how and facilities."

I suggested the help of German scientists.

"They didn't get many," went on the Admiral. "The British and we picked up the best ones. Their rolling stock is obsolete, they are short of gasoline, and have no reserves to replace worn-out equipment. When I traveled across Siberia, there would be broken-down freight cars on nearly every siding. They probably have a pretty good air force, but not the fuel to maintain it. Finally, I don't believe they have the atom bomb, and the explosion recorded was a premature one, an accident."

"Do you mind if I publish your views?" I asked.

"Go ahead," he answered. "I've been talking this way for a long time."

The Admiral has a great background. He was chief of naval operations when General MacArthur was chief of staff. It will be recalled when the Russians were bellyaching about our failure to start a second front, he threw it in their teeth by asking them where they would be now without American lend lease. Stalin swallowed a couple of times, and then publicly admitted he would probably be a noodle in Hitler's soup.

Wendell Willkie was not Standley's pin-up boy by any means. It will be recalled he made a trip to Moscow with a lot of flourishes and a retinue shortly after the people decided he was not going to be president of the United States. According to the then American ambassador, Mr. Willkie by-passed him in making appointments to see Stalin and other Russian big shots, as if he had never heard the State Department maintained a representative there. This hurt the Admiral's standing and made a difficult job harder. He says, incidentaly, Molotov is not nearly as tough as he looks.

However, don't misunderstand his attitude or think he is a victim of overconfidence. He believes it was a mistake to disband our forces so soon after the last war and is sure we should re-arm as quickly and as thoroughly as possible. When he started off down the street, he walked like an old sea dog, and he is a man we are lucky and should be proud to have on our team.

The above is not funny, but George Ade once said,

"A humorist can't go to bat every day and knock out a three-bagger."

Spending a weekend at East Hampton recently, John O'Hara, the writing guy and his wife, together with several others came to dinner. From the hors-d'oeuvre until 11:30, I have never been in such complete disagreement with most of the group. First we took sides on General MacArthur, and I found myself more or less alone. They got around to Aaron Burr just before I took off. The question seemed to be whether he was honest, and, as I didn't know anything about it, I faded away to bed. If these views are held by many Americans, it struck me I was very much out of step. Along about 1915, Theodore Roosevelt wrote some articles for us, and I was discussing politics with him one day.

"I don't suppose I'll ever be a candidate again," he remarked. "I feel I am out of step with the country." He seemed to be a little sad about it.

However, had he lived, many astute politicians felt he would have run in 1920 and been elected. Things had changed meanwhile, and maybe they will by 1952.

Even though Stalin is a dictator, he needs the support of the people, and he won't get it for an aggressive war. If the country were invaded, it would be different. Most Russians are land conscious and will fight to defend their homes. That is what the Germans ran into, although some of the villagers welcomed them at first as liberators. they made the mistake of abusing those they had conquered."

"Why wouldn't it be a temptation for their armies to march now while we are getting ready?"

"They are not prepared either industrially or militarily to support a war. They cannot produce the goods they need, because they lack the know-how and facilities."

I suggested the help of German scientists.

"They didn't get many," went on the Admiral. "The British and we picked up the best ones. Their rolling stock is obsolete, they are short of gasoline, and have no reserves to replace worn-out equipment. When I traveled across Siberia, there would be broken-down freight cars on nearly every siding. They probably have a pretty good air force, but not the fuel to maintain it. Finally, I don't believe they have the atom bomb, and the explosion recorded was a premature one, an accident."

"Do you mind if I publish your views?" I asked.

"Go ahead," he answered. "I've been talking this way for a long time."

The Admiral has a great background. He was chief of naval operations when General MacArthur was chief of staff. It will be recalled when the Russians were bellyaching about our failure to start a second front, he threw it in their teeth by asking them where they would be now without American lend lease. Stalin swallowed a couple of times, and then publicly admitted he would probably be a noodle in Hitler's soup.

Wendell Willkie was not Standley's pin-up boy by any means. It will be recalled he made a trip to Moscow with a lot of flourishes and a retinue shortly after the people decided he was not going to be president of the United States. According to the then American ambassador, Mr. Willkie by-passed him in making appointments to see Stalin and other Russian big shots, as if he had never heard the State Department maintained a representative there. This hurt the Admiral's standing and made a difficult job harder. He says, incidentaly, Molotov is not nearly as tough as he looks.

However, don't misunderstand his attitude or think he is a victim of overconfidence. He believes it was a mistake to disband our forces so soon after the last war and is sure we should re-arm as quickly and as thoroughly as possible. When he started off down the street, he walked like an old sea dog, and he is a man we are lucky and should be proud to have on our team.

The above is not funny, but George Ade once said,

Spending a weekend at East Hampton recently, John O'Hara, the writing guy and his wife, together with several others came to dinner. From the hors-d'oeuvre until 11:30, I have never been in such complete disagreement with most of the group. First we took sides on General MacArthur, and I found myself more or less alone. They got around to Aaron Burr just before I took off. The question seemed to be whether he was honest, and, as I didn't know anything about it, I faded away to bed. If these views are held by many Americans, it struck me I was very much out of step. Along about 1915, Theodore Roosevelt wrote some articles for us, and I was discussing politics with him one day.

"I don't suppose I'll ever be a candidate again," he remarked. "I feel I am out of step with the country." He seemed to be a little sad about it.

However, had he lived, many astute politicians felt he would have run in 1920 and been elected. Things had changed meanwhile, and maybe they will by 1952.

U. N. Health Experts Hit Present Methods Of Medical Education

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

GENEVA—(AP)—A virtual revolution in the training of doctors is suggested by the World Health Organization of the United Nations.

A report published by WHO sharply criticized present medical and nursing education methods throughout the world and urged that doctors should learn to pay as much heed to the welfare of the community as to that of the individual patient.

The report was prepared by a committee of experts meeting here under WHO auspices to examine present medical training methods in the light of modern needs.

The committee found that "considerable modification of the education of the potential doctor is needed. . . . to train a man capable of supervising the physical, social and mental well-being of the community within which he works."

The report declared: "There is at present much emphasis on physics and chemistry . . . too little attention is given to such subjects as psychology, anthropology and sociology.

"Nurses and doctors, since the aim is that they should work as a team, should have planned opportunities to study together the total care of the patient. Students should get to know the surroundings in which the patient lives and works. x x x From the very first x x x the mind of the student must be turned towards disease as a community problem."

The report urged that doctors, nurses, social workers, public health experts and sanitary engineers should be trained in different sections of the same school, and be taught to work as a team.

At present, the committee declared, the medical profession, hospitals, medical schools and teachers are working in isolation. "Confined within the narrow limits of the individual practice of curative medicine, too many practitioners are heedless of the public health experts and remain deaf to the voice of public opinion and of the authorities who are calling upon them to work more actively for the preservation of public health."

The experts said that hospitals should "cultivate both preventive and social medicine" and medical faculties should cooperate closely with sanitary services, social security organizations and the medical professon generally. They should "teach young people how to study, observe, think, pass judgment, how to approach marriage and the education of children and how to carry out their professional and civic duties."

The report quoted an address by Dr. Andrija Stampar of Yugoslavia, first WHO president and one of the founders of the organization. "More often than not," Dr. Stampar declared, "our present medical education still concentrates on training physicians to cure individual patients from actual disease and fails to impart to them a healthy outlook on the nation's life and the physician's role in society.

"The medical student learns much and in the end knows little. . . . Institutions for medical education must rid themselves of the isolation which now often surrounds them and they must become centers of learning, science and skill that will train doctors more for collective than for individual needs x x x."

India's Annual Floods Hamper Famine Battle

By SELIG S. HARRISON

NEW DELHI (AP) — India's fight against famine will be far from won when the first American wheat ships drop anchor late this month.

If nature runs true to form, monsoon rains in the next seven weeks will swamp railway tracks and back roads at key points all along the ship to mouth route.

Meanwhile, leaders of the All-India Railwaymen's Federation have issued an Aug. 27 strike threat.

Floodwaters of the Kosi River in Bihar State already are racing on their annual spree, cutting countless new channels across a 400 square mile area.

Bihar officials have been busily storing foodgrains in commandeered buildings on high ground. They must rely on flatboat transport of supplies from storage depots to isolated areas.

"Country boats and bullock carts aren't exactly what you'd call a sure-fire transportation system," commented Dr. Clifford Taylor, agricultural counselor of the New Delhi American embassy.

In fair weather sturdy jeeps average eight miles a day over north Bihar roads. Heavy rainfall turns these ruts and paths into long muddy pools. Some villages are even cut off from supplies.

Many of the 2,000,000 peasants in the "Kosi pocket" face lean days if stocks now stored run out before the monsoon's end, said Bihar Food Minister Anugrah Narain Sinha.

Syed Mahmud, Bihar development minister, has so far pressed unsuccessfully for a bridge spanning the Ganges, which stretches a wide as six miles at flood crest.

Despite the government's network of 75,000 ration shops with price controls, thriving black markets in every state have pushed the price of rice up to 45 rupees ($9.45) per maund (82 pounds).

Before the passage of the $190,000,000 U. S. loan legislation, the figure was higher. The prospect of American grain has made it possible for most states to hike the individual daily ration to 12 ounces of grain from a former maximum nine ounces.

With thousands of impoverished peasants unable to meet even the ration shop control price, Bihar officials have launched a 95,400,000 rupee ($40,000,000) public works program to strengthen purchasing power and provide additional direct relief.

Although India's food shortage has been nationwide, Bihar and Madras have felt the pinch most sharply.

Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, who visited Bihar recently, surveying the Kosi region by air, said his administration hoped to start work in October on the projected $340,000,000 Kosi valley program, a 12-year irrigation and hydroelectric development project, bigger than Boulder Dam in scope.

Until the Kosi's whims are controlled, he said in an interview, "I fear we will always have a flood problem there, at the very least a problem of getting it into the hands of the people."

Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia have tidewater frontage but no seacoasts.

Greene Street Soldier Killed In Korean War

An 18-year-old Cumberland soldier previously wounded in action in the Korean war has been killed.

He is Pfc. Lloyd Edward Steele, son of Milford Clinton and Lillian (Layton) Steele, 218 Green Street, who paid the supreme sacrifice July 11 according to official word received by relatives.

Pfc. Steele was wounded February 7 and returned to duty March 6. He enlisted in the armed forces in April, 1950, and received basic training at Fort Knox, Ky., before going to Seattle for overseas duty.

Born in Lonaconing, Pfc. Steele came to Cumberland with his family in 1935 and attended Allegany High School prior to entering the service.

Surviving, besides his parents, are four brothers, Richard E. Steele, Baltimore; Robert Francis, James Milford and Ronald Martin, all of this city, and three sisters, Mrs. Grace I. Cline and Mrs. Virginia Lee Teeter, both of Baltimore, and Alma Louise Steel, at home.

Raisin Cookies Rank High On Recipe "Swap" List

May I borrow the recipe?

There's no more complimentary query to any homemaker than this. For when a friend takes time out to copy directions for making the cookies or cakes you serve, you usually know she's doing more than passing around sheer flattery.

Ranking high on the recipe "swap" list are raisin cookies — crisp, lacy cakes enlivened with piquant bits of fruit. And when they're easy-to-make drop cookies, they're all the more popular.

Raisin Drops

- ½ cup seedless raisins
- ½ cup shortening
- ½ cup water
- ¾ cup sifted all-purpose flour
- ½ teaspoon baking soda
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- 1½ cups quick-cooking rolled oats
- 1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
- ⅓ cup chopped nuts
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Heat raisins with shortening and water until shortening is melted. Cool. Sift flour, soda, salt and spices into mixing bowl; add oats, sugar and nuts. Mix well. Add cooled raisin mixture and vanilla. Blend well. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a greased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 20 minutes. Remove at once from pan. This eggless recipe makes 2 dozen lacy, chewy cookies.

CRISP LACY RAISEN DROPS . . . together with tall glasses of cold milk make tempting snack-time fare.

Jumbo Raisin Cookies

- 1 cup water
- 2 cups raisins
- 4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1½ teaspoons cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- ¼ teaspoon allspice
- 1 cup shortening
- 2 cups sugar
- 3 eggs
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup chopped nuts

Add water to raisins and boil for 5 minutes or until liquid is decreased to ½ cup. Cool. Sift together flour, baking powder, soda, salt, and spices. Cream shortening. Add sugar and blend well. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add vanilla, nuts and cooled raisin mixture. Add sifted dry ingredients and blend well. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a greased baking sheet. Bake in a hot oven (375 degrees F.) for 12 minutes. Yield: 5 dozen cookies.

Chocolate and raisins pair up perfectly in these rich Raisin Fudge Squares.

Raisin Fudge Squares

- ½ cup shortening
- ⅔ cup sugar
- 2 eggs
- 2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ½ cup sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 cup seedless raisins

Cream shortening and sugar until fluffy. Add eggs and beat well. Add melted chocolate and vanilla and blend well. Add flour and raisins and mix well. Pour into a greased 8-inch square shallow pan, and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about 25 to 30 minutes. Let cool in pan. Spread with fudge frosting if desired. Cut in squares and serve. Makes 25 squares.

Especially party-like are Seafoam Tea Cakes, crisp candy-like drops made with, of all things, a mixture of shredded cocoanut and all bran. Raisins again provide a delightful sunny fruit flavor.

Seafoam Tea Cakes

- 2 egg whites
- 1 cup dark brown sugar, firmly packed
- ½ teaspoon vanilla
- ¼ cup seedless raisins, chopped coarsely
- 1 cup moist, shredded coconut
- ¼ cup all bran

Beat egg whites until foamy. Add sugar, one tablespoon at a time, beating constantly. Beat in vanilla. Fold in remaining ingredients. Drop by spoonfuls onto well greased cookie sheet. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 15 to 20 minutes or until cookies are lightly browned. Remove immediately from cookie tray. Makes 2½ dozen cookies.

Frosting For Budget

In these days when everyone is looking for ways to stretch the food budget, an economical yet delicious cake frosting is a real find. A creamy French frosting that will add glamor to your summer cakes while remaining an inconspicuous item on your food bill.

Here's a basic frosting recipe that takes no butter, can be made in advance and kept on hand for unexpected guests or sudden family treats:

Creamy French Frosting

- 2⅓ cups confectioner's sugar
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 egg
- 2 tablespoons water
- ¼ cup granulated sugar
- ⅔ cup shortening
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix confectioner's sugar, salt, and egg. Boil the water and granulated sugar together for one minute, then blend with the sugar and egg mixture. Add shortening and vanilla. Beat until creamy.

VARIATIONS:

Raisin Cookies Rank High On Recipe "Swap" List

May I borrow the recipe?

There's no more complimentary query to any homemaker than this. For when a friend takes time out to copy directions for making the cookies or cakes you serve, you usually know she's doing more than passing around sheer flattery.

Ranking high on the recipe "swap" list are raisin cookies — crisp, lacy cakes enlivened with piquant bits of fruit. And when they're easy-to-make drop cookies, they're all the more popular.

Raisin Drops

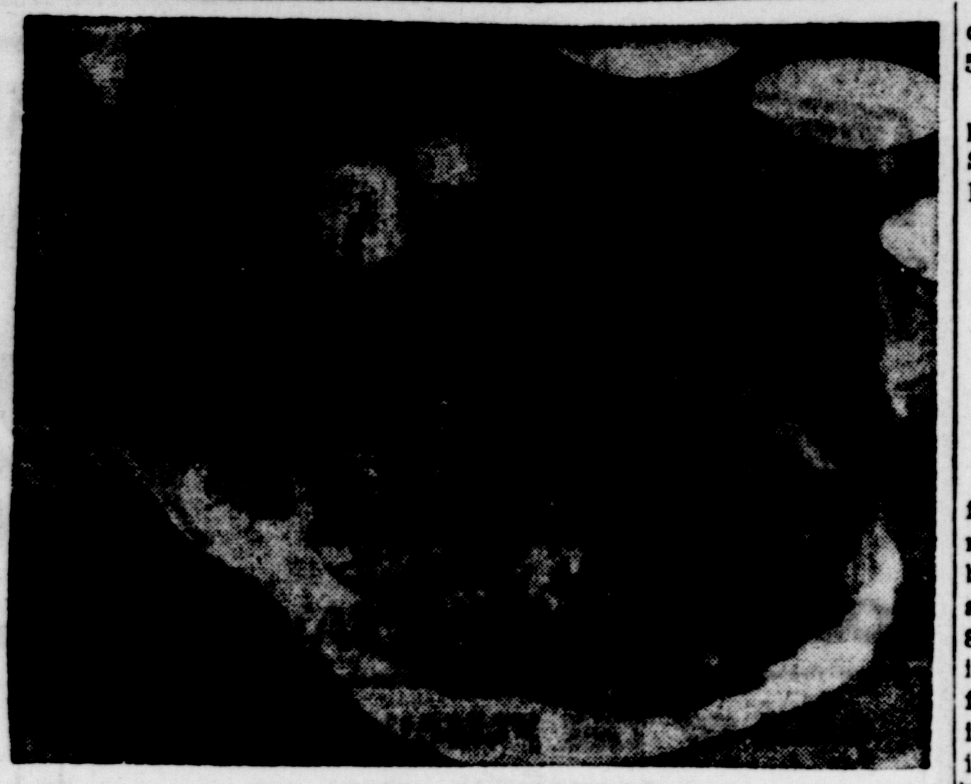
- ½ cup seedless raisins
- ½ cup shortening
- ½ cup water
- ¾ cup sifted all-purpose flour
- ½ teaspoon baking soda
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- 1½ cups quick-cooking rolled oats
- 1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
- ⅓ cup chopped nuts
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Heat raisins with shortening and water until shortening is melted. Cool. Sift flour, soda, salt and spices into mixing bowl; add oats, sugar and nuts. Mix well. Add cooled raisin mixture and vanilla. Blend well. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a greased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 20 minutes. Remove at once from pan. This eggless recipe makes 2 dozen lacy, chewy cookies.



CRISP LACY RAISEN DROPS . . . together with tall glasses of cold milk make tempting snack-time fare.

Jumbo Raisin Cookies

- 1 cup water
- 2 cups raisins
- 4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1½ teaspoons cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- ¼ teaspoon allspice
- 1 cup shortening
- 2 cups sugar
- 3 eggs
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup chopped nuts

Add water to raisins and boil for 5 minutes or until liquid is decreased to ⅓ cup. Cool. Sift together flour, baking powder, soda, salt, and spices. Cream shortening. Add sugar and blend well. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add vanilla, nuts and cooled raisin mixture. Add sifted dry ingredients and blend well. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a greased baking sheet. Bake in a hot oven (375 degrees F.) for 12 minutes. Yield: 5 dozen cookies.

Chocolate and raisins pair up perfectly in these rich Raisin Fudge Squares.

Raisin Fudge Squares

- ½ cup shortening
- ⅔ cup sugar
- 2 eggs
- 2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ½ cup sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 cup seedless raisins

Cream shortening and sugar until fluffy. Add eggs and beat well. Add melted chocolate and vanilla and blend well. Add flour and raisins and mix well. Pour into a greased 8-inch square shallow pan, and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about 25 to 30 minutes. Let cool in pan. Spread with fudge frosting if desired. Cut in squares and serve. Makes 25 squares.

Especially party-like are Seafoam Tea Cakes, crisp candy-like drops made with, of all things, a mixture of shredded cocoanut and all bran. Raisins again provide a delightful sunny fruit flavor.

Seafoam Tea Cakes

- 2 egg whites
- 1 cup dark brown sugar, firmly packed
- ½ teaspoon vanilla
- ¼ cup seedless raisins, chopped coarsely
- 1 cup moist, shredded coconut
- ¼ cup all bran

Beat egg whites until foamy. Add sugar, one tablespoon at a time, beating constantly. Beat in vanilla. Fold in remaining ingredients. Drop by spoonfuls onto well greased cookie sheet. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 15 to 20 minutes or until cookies are lightly browned. Remove immediately from cookie tray. Makes 2½ dozen cookies.

Frosting For Budget

In these days when everyone is looking for ways to stretch the food budget, an economical yet delicious cake frosting is a real find. A creamy French frosting that will add glamor to your summer cakes while remaining an inconspicuous item on your food bill.

Here's a basic frosting recipe that takes no butter, can be made in advance and kept on hand for unexpected guests or sudden family treats:

Creamy French Frosting

- 2⅓ cups confectioner's sugar
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 egg
- 2 tablespoons water
- ¼ cup granulated sugar
- ⅔ cup shortening
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix confectioner's sugar, salt, and egg. Boil the water and granulated sugar together for one minute, then blend with the sugar and egg mixture. Add shortening and vanilla. Beat until creamy.

VARIATIONS:

Cool Off, Calm Down With Ice Tea

It's time to honor that favorite American thirst quencher, iced tea. National Iced Tea Time, July 13th to 20th, will be the week of official recognition, but there's hardly a family in the U.S.A. who won't be appreciating those tall, tinkling glasses of refreshment all summer long, whenever a really cooling, relaxing beverage is in order.

It's no accident that iced tea has become the favorite American cooler-off-er, it's a beverage that goes with any food at any hour of a summer's day. Refreshing as a cool shower, and as inexpensive as it is soothing, iced tea costs less—much less—than any other summertime beverage you can serve and that's an important item in these days of soaring food prices.

For the housewife, hot, bothered and "under pressure" in summer, there's no chore to making 4 tall, tinkling glasses of iced tea. Just pour 4 cups of boiling water over 6 teaspoons of tea or 6 tea bags. Let stand for 3 to 5 minutes. Stir, strain and pour into ice-filled glasses. Add sugar and lemon to taste. Wonderful! That's the experts' formula for perfect iced tea. Be sure to use this base for any punches or tea variations you might want to serve. And remember Iceman's Ice in our tea. Inexpensive and easy to order, this type of ice is clear, taste free and hard frozen. The Iceman's Ice helps maintain that "homemade flavor" in your iced tea longer because it melts much more slowly.

Mid Morning Cooler

You can take a lot of the pressure out of summertime if you remember the value of short, relaxing rest periods. See what iced tea will do to give you that refreshing pick-me-up you need to go on with your chores or play. Keep in mind that you should eat less in the summer, but more often. For a mid-morning cooling snack try mixing Borden's Cream Cheese with just enough Gerber's Junior Applesauce to make a creamy spread. Serve with Ritz Crackers and tall, frost-beaded glasses of iced tea. Invite the lady next door to join you. Pretty up the table, use your best iced tea set. If you don't have one, investigate Dunbar's lovely sets. They're inexpensive, handy and, of course, beautiful. Then relax and you'll begin to feel that summer is really a wonderful time of year, after all.

Iced Tea for Lunch

Your husband probably comes home for lunch, most American husbands do. Have something quick and satisfying for your man. On sultry days he'll need one hot dish, such as soup. Here's a lunch that will guarantee him a stimulating pick-me-up.

Tomato Soup

Garden Salad with Patio Dressing. Hawaiian Pineapple, Cocoa Flake Squares. Iced Tea with Mint Sprigs.

Garden Salad with Patio Dressing:—To a mixture of greens fresh from the garden add Patio Dressing. This dressing can be stored in the ice box for later use. To ½ cup of French Dressing add ¾ teaspoon chili powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon Mustard, 2 teaspoons grated onion, 2 tablespoons catsup, few drops of Tabasco.

Cocoa Flake Squares: ½ cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, well beaten, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup cocoa, ⅔ cup sifted flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 cups corn flakes, ½ cup chopped nutmeats.

Blend shortening and sugar. Stir in eggs and flavoring. Sift cocoa, flour and salt together. Combine with corn flakes crushed into fine crumbs and nutmeats. Add to egg mixture and beat well. Spread in greased baking pan and bake in moderate oven (350°F.) about 30 minutes. Yield: 16 two-inch squares.

Iced Tea with Mint Spriggs:—Make iced tea by recipe given above. Try brewing it in a china pot, you'll find the flavor much better. Hall China Teapot Company makes many attractive, inexpensive models. Pick one up at your local department store and see the difference in the flavor of your tea. After the tea is poured into ice-filled glasses, garnish with fresh, green sprigs of mint and a lemon wedge. The taste is exquisite, the appearance as cool and green as a woodland garden.

How to Cut Lemon Wedges: A lemon wedge is easier to squeeze than a slice. It therefore gives more juice. Cut a lemon lengthwise into 6 or 8 sections. If you cut the pulp diagonally the wedge will fit on the lip of the glass.

Macaroni Crabmeat Salad

(Makes 6-8 servings)

One tablespoon salt; 3 quarts boiling water; 8 ounces elbow macaroni; 1 6½-ounce can crabmeat; 1 cup chopped celery; ½ cup chopped green pepper; ¼ cup chopped pimientos; ¼ cup slivered almond; 3 hard-cooked eggs, chopped; ½ cup mayonnaise; 2 teaspoons salt; freshly ground pepper.

Add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add macaroni so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Rinse with cold water; drain again. Remove cartilage from crabmeat and flake. In a large bowl, combine cooked macaroni, crabmeat and remaining ingredients. Mix thoroughly but lightly. Chill several hours before serving.

Nevada is the least populous of the states.

Refreshing as a cool shower, and as inexpensive as it is soothing, iced tea costs less—much less—than any other summertime beverage you can serve and that's an important item in these days of soaring food prices.

For the housewife, hot, bothered and "under pressure" in summer, there's no chore to making 4 tall, tinkling glasses of iced tea. Just pour 4 cups of boiling water over 6 teaspoons of tea or 6 tea bags. Let stand for 3 to 5 minutes. Stir, strain and pour into ice-filled glasses. Add sugar and lemon to taste. Wonderful! That's the experts' formula for perfect iced tea. Be sure to use this base for any punches or tea variations you might want to serve. And remember Iceman's Ice in our tea. Inexpensive and easy to order, this type of ice is clear, taste free and hard frozen. The Iceman's Ice helps maintain that "homemade flavor" in your iced tea longer because it melts much more slowly.

Mid Morning Cooler

You can take a lot of the pressure out of summertime if you remember the value of short, relaxing rest periods. See what iced tea will do to give you that refreshing pick-me-up you need to go on with your chores or play. Keep in mind that you should eat less in the summer, but more often. For a mid-morning cooling snack try mixing Borden's Cream Cheese with just enough Gerber's Junior Applesauce to make a creamy spread. Serve with Ritz Crackers and tall, frost - beaded glasses of iced tea. Invite the lady next door to join you. Pretty up the table, use your best iced tea set. If you don't have one, investigate Dunbar's lovely sets. They're inexpensive, handy and, of course, beautiful. Then relax and you'll begin to feel that summer is really a wonderful time of year, after all.

Iced Tea for Lunch

Your husband probably comes home for lunch, most American husbands do. Have something quick and satisfying for your man. On sultry days he'll need one hot dish, such as soup. Here's a lunch that will guarantee him a stimulating pick-me-up.

Tomato Soup

Garden Salad with Patio Dressing. Hawaiian Pineapple, Cocoa Flake Squares. Iced Tea with Mint Sprigs.

Garden Salad with Patio Dressing:—To a mixture of greens fresh from the garden add Patio Dressing. This dressing can be stored in the ice box for later use. To ½ cup of French Dressing add ¾ teaspoon chili powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon Mustard, 2 teaspoons grated onion, 2 tablespoons catsup, few drops of Tabasco.

Cocoa Flake Squares: ½ cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, well beaten, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup cocoa, ⅔ cup sifted flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 cups corn flakes, ½ cup chopped nutmeats.

Blend shortening and sugar. Stir in eggs and flavoring. Sift cocoa, flour and salt together. Combine with corn flakes crushed into fine crumbs and nutmeats. Add to egg mixture and beat well. Spread in greased baking pan and bake in moderate oven (350°F.) about 30 minutes. Yield: 16 two-inch squares.

Iced Tea with Mint Spriggs:—Make iced tea by recipe given above. Try brewing it in a china pot, you'll find the flavor much better. Hall China Teapot Company makes many attractive, inexpensive models. Pick one up at your local department store and see the difference in the flavor of your tea. After the tea is poured into ice-filled glasses, garnish with fresh, green sprigs of mint and a lemon wedge. The taste is exquisite, the appearance as cool and green as a woodland garden.

How to Cut Lemon Wedges: A lemon wedge is easier to squeeze than a slice. It therefore gives more juice. Cut a lemon lengthwise into 6 or 8 sections. If you cut the pulp diagonally the wedge will fit on the lip of the glass.

Macaroni Crabmeat Salad

(Makes 6-8 servings)

One tablespoon salt; 3 quarts boiling water; 8 ounces elbow macaroni; 1 6½-ounce can crabmeat; 1 cup chopped celery; ½ cup chopped green pepper; ¼ cup chopped pimientos; ¼ cup slivered almond; 3 hard-cooked eggs, chopped; ½ cup mayonnaise; 2 teaspoons salt; freshly ground pepper.

Add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add macaroni so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Rinse with cold water; drain again. Remove cartilage from crabmeat and flake. In a large bowl, combine cooked macaroni, crabmeat and remaining ingredients. Mix thoroughly but lightly. Chill several hours before serving.

Nevada is the least populous of the states.

Hints For Hot Weather

Here's good news for all homemakers looking for tall, refreshing coolers for hot summer days! Fresh California oranges and lemons are at their juicy best now! Popular Valencia oranges, so well-known for their abundant supply of sweet juice are in the markets in large quantities — and are top quality. Fresh lemons, the basic ingredient in American's most popular summer beverage are packed with tiny cells of the tangy juice that makes lemonade seem so refreshing on a warm, humid day.

ORANGE BLOSSOM PUNCH

Combine 6 cups fresh orange juice, 1 cup fresh lemon juice, ½ cup maraschino cherry or raspberry juice, 4 cups water or ginger ale and ½ cup sugar. Add lots of ice cubes and citrus fruit garnishes. Makes 25-30 punch cups.

GOLDEN STATE PUNCH

Combine 4 cups of hot tea with 1 cup sugar, 1 cup of fresh lemon juice, 1 quart of fresh orange juice, and 2¼ cups pineapple juice. Chill. Just before serving, add ice cubes and 3 quarts of ginger ale. Garnish with orange and lemon slices. Makes approximately 50 punch cup servings.

FROSTED CITRUS PUNCH

READY-MIX CITRUS PUNCH

Here's a party punch that you can prepare in advance and keep it in half-gallon or gallon glass jars. For each gallon of punch, you will need 1½ cups grape juice, 2 cups fresh lemon juice, 3 cups fresh orange juice, 1½ cups sugar and 2 quarts water. Cover and keep in refrigerator several hours, or until needed. Then pour over block of ice in punch bowl, and top with orange slices. This quantity makes approximately 30 punch cup servings.

SNOWY CITRUS COOLER

A wonderful, refreshing pick-up on a scorching hot day is this cool fresh orange-lemon cooler, topped with a scoop of lemon sherbet! Always a favorite thirst-quencher with adults, this type of beverage also rates top honors with the younger generation. Try it on your children and your kitchen will give their favorite soda fountain keen competition for the rest of the summer.

Be sure to keep lots of California oranges and lemons on hand so you will be able to whip up these coolers at a moment's notice. Here's all you have to do. Combine 2 cups of fresh orange juice with ½ cup fresh lemon juice, ½ cup sugar and 1 cup water. Pour into tall glasses and top with a generous scoop of lemon sherbet. To make it look even more appealing, garnish each glass with orange and lemon slice, plus a large strawberry.

CHILLED CITRUS TEA

¾ cup fresh orange juice
¾ cup fresh lemon juice
¾ cup sugar
1 quart cold tea
orange and lemon slices
ice cubes.

Squeeze orange and lemon juice; add cold tea. Pour into tall glasses that have been filled with ice cubes. Have several orange and lemon slices float in each glass for a decorative effect. Serve with cookies or sandwiches as a mid-afternoon snack.

Serve Fruit Dumplings

It is time to revive the old-fashioned custom of serving crisp-crusted fruit dumplings. They are particularly satisfying this time of the year when the family is beginning to eat warmer weather fare.

Banana caramel dumplings can be made quick as a wink with your own favorite biscuit mix or recipe. A hot brown sugar syrup is poured over the dumplings just before placing them in the oven. There the sirup is cooked to caramely perfection and the dumplings pick up its delightful flavor.

Serve banana caramel dumplings while warm with some of the caramel sauce, chilled thick cream, or top with a scoop of smooth vanilla ice cream.

Banana Caramel Dumplings

1 recipe biscuit dough: Filling: 6 slices banana (1-inch thick); ¾ cup brown sugar; 6 tablespoons fortified margarine; Sirup; Cook together for 2 to 3 minutes; 1⅓ cups brown sugar; ⅔ cups hot water.

Roll out bicuit dough ¼-inch thick. Cut into rounds using saucer. Place a banana slice in center of each round. Top with 1 tablespoon fortified margarine and 2 tablespoons brown sugar. Pull edges of each round together in center and pinch edges to form dumpling. Place dumplings in a well-margarined baking dish. Pour sirup over dumplings and bake in a 425 degree oven for 20 to 25 minutes. Serve warm with cream or a little ice cream.

Yield: 6 dumplings.

Keep Cool Inside When It's Hot Outside

It's a neat trick, but frozen concentrated juices make it easy! In less than a jiffy you'll have cooling refreshment for that hot afternoon pick-up. Yet, invigorating pleasure is yours when you choose frozen concentrates for the real fresh flavor of fruit juices.

And that's not all—you can have fun concocting new flavors! Here are a few to try:

GRAPE-LEMONADE — o-o-o-o lush! Reconstitute one can frozen concentrated lemonade and one can frozen concentrated grape juice according to directions on each can. Combine the two for something new!

Fruity Cookies Taste Good On A Picnic

When picnic food is being planned, don't forget the cookies These pineapple flavored drop cookies are easy to make and will disappear like magic.

Pineapple-Nut Drops

One-third cup butter, or margarine; ½ cup sugar; 1 egg; ½ cup crushed pineapple; ½ cup chopped nuts; 1¼ cups sifted flour; ¼ teaspoon salt; ¼ teaspoon soda.

Cream butter, sugar and beaten egg together. Add well drained pineapple and nuts. Sift flour, salt and soda together. Add to creamed mixture and stir until smooth. Drop by teaspoons on greased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate over (375° F) 10 to 15 minutes. Makes approximately 3 dozen cookies.

Combine 2 cups of fresh orange juice with ½ cup fresh lemon juice, ½ cup sugar and 1 cup water. Pour into tall glasses and top with a generous scoop of lemon sherbet. To make it look even more appealing, garnish each glass with orange and lemon slice, plus a large strawberry.

CHILLED CITRUS TEA

¾ cup fresh orange juice
¾ cup fresh lemon juice
¾ cup sugar
1 quart cold tea
orange and lemon slices
ice cubes.

Squeeze orange and lemon juice; add cold tea. Pour into tall glasses that have been filled with ice cubes. Have several orange and lemon slices float in each glass for a decorative effect. Serve with cookies or sandwiches as a mid-afternoon snack.

Serve Fruit Dumplings

It is time to revive the old-fashioned custom of serving crisp-crusted fruit dumplings. They are particularly satisfying this time of the year when the family is beginning to eat warmer weather fare.

Banana caramel dumplings can be made quick as a wink with your own favorite biscuit mix or recipe. A hot brown sugar syrup is poured over the dumplings just before placing them in the oven. There the sirup is cooked to caramely perfection and the dumplings pick up its delightful flavor.

Serve banana caramel dumplings while warm with some of the caramel sauce, chilled thick cream, or top with a scoop of smooth vanilla ice cream.

Banana Caramel Dumplings

1 recipe biscuit dough: Filling: 6 slices banana (1-inch thick); ¾ cup brown sugar; 6 tablespoons fortified margarine; Sirup; Cook together for 2 to 3 minutes; 1⅓ cups brown sugar; ⅔ cups hot water.

Roll out bicuit dough ¼-inch thick. Cut into rounds using saucer. Place a banana slice in center of each round. Top with 1 tablespoon fortified margarine and 2 tablespoons brown sugar. Pull edges of each round together in center and pinch edges to form dumpling. Place dumplings in a well-margarined baking dish. Pour sirup over dumplings and bake in a 425 degree oven for 20 to 25 minutes. Serve warm with cream or a little ice cream.

Yield: 6 dumplings.

Keep Cool Inside When It's Hot Outside

It's a neat trick, but frozen concentrated juices make it easy! In less than a jiffy you'll have cooling refreshment for that hot afternoon pick-up. Yet, invigorating pleasure is yours when you choose frozen concentrates for the real fresh flavor of fruit juices.

And that's not all—you can have fun concocting new flavors! Here are a few to try:

GRAPE-LEMONADE — o-o-o-o lush! Reconstitute one can frozen concentrated lemonade and one can frozen concentrated grape juice according to directions on each can. Combine the two for something new!

Fruity Cookies Taste Good On A Picnic

When picnic food is being planned, don't forget the cookies These pineapple flavored drop cookies are easy to make and will disappear like magic.

Pineapple-Nut Drops

One-third cup butter, or margarine; ½ cup sugar; 1 egg; ⅓ cup crushed pineapple; ½ cup chopped nuts; 1¼ cups sifted flour; ¼ teaspoon salt; ¼ teaspoon soda.

Cream butter, sugar and beaten egg together. Add well drained pineapple and nuts. Sift flour, salt and soda together. Add to creamed mixture and stir until smooth. Drop by teaspoons on greased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate over (375° F) 10 to 15 minutes. Makes approximately 3 dozen cookies.

Allies Averted U. N. Breakdown, Truman Asserts

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP) — President Truman told Congress today that the "resolute" defense of Korea against Communist aggression prevented a breakdown of the global conflict.

Submitting a report on American participation in the U.N., he said the whole postwar system of collective security was at stake when the United States decided to act quickly at the time of the North Korean attack.

"I was convinced then, and I am convinced now, that to have ignored the appeal of Korea for aid, to have stood aside from the assault upon the charter, would have meant the end of the United Nations as a shield against aggression," Mr. Truman said. "It might have meant the end of any possibility that collective security could be made to work."

He said also that in Korea thousands of men have sacrificed their lives "to the end that millions may not lose their lives in a world of war."

"There is much to indicate that the resolute resistance of United Nations troops has given pause to those aggressive forces which cold-bloodedly brought the tragedy to Korea," the President added.

De Gasperi And New Cabinet Take Office

ROME, July 26 (AP) — Premier Alcide De Gasperi and his seventh cabinet took office today pledged to "loyal support" of the North Atlantic pact.

The 70-year-old Christian Democrat leader announced his reshuffled cabinet to end Italy's 10-day government crisis. A major change involved De Gasperi taking over at least temporarily as foreign minister from Count Carlo Sforza, who became a minister without portfolio.

After President Luigi Einaudi swore in the new ministers in Quirinale Palace, De Gasperi told reporters his taking over as foreign minister assures continuance of "loyal support of the Atlantic pact, instrument of peace and security x x x."

Prices Of East German Goods Cut 10 To 45%

BERLIN, July 26 (AP) — The East German government today announced price reductions from 10 to 45 per cent for goods on sale in its ration-free chain store system.

Items affected by the cut range from sugar and jam to typewriters and automobiles.

However, the new prices generally are still three times as high as those in Western Germany.

Vaughan Has Quip To Go With Medal

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)— President Truman's much-decorated military aide, Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughn, got a new medal today —and had a quip to go with it.

The General was awarded the highest honor of the Dominican Republic: The Order of Juan Pablo Durate in the degree of grand officer.

The citation hailed Vaughn for "serving your country with competence, loyalty and distinction."

A reporter asked Vaughn how many decorations he had now received from foreign countries.

Said the wise-cracking General: "I've got a dozen now—and it still costs me a dime for a cup of coffee."

Four District Offices Of VA Consolidated

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)— Veterans Administrator Carl R. Gray, Jr., said today the Boston, New York and Richmond district VA offices will be abolished and their work transferred to the Philadelphia district office.

Merger of the four district offices, he said, will result in a saving of nearly $2,000,000 a year in salaries, rent and other expenses.

Gray said the three offices to be closed have 3,090 employes. The new office at Philadelphia will be able to use 2,798 of them, he said, thus eliminating 292 jobs.

The Boston office served New England. The New York office had New York State and Puerto Rico and the Richmond office handled North Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia.

Spreading Cage Scandal May Hit More Colleges

NEW YORK, July 25 (AP) —More teams may be involved in the spreading college basketball scandal, District Attorney Frank S. Hogan said today as he named Fred Schlictman, a Bradley player who has been living with the university president, as the recipient of a bribe to fix a game.

Hogan said Schlictman's own teammates put the finger on him as the fourth man in on the point-rigging of the Oregon State game in the Bradley field house, Dec. 7, 1950. The others in on that deal, said Hogan, were Gene (Squeaky) Melchiorre, the stocky, brilliant little All-America; Aaron Preece and Jim Kelly.

The mushrooming investigation already has enveloped some 30 players from six schools and Hogan said "it is conceivable other teams are involved" in the tangle.

"I cannot say more than that now," said the prosecutor. "That is why the investigation is continuing. We have leads, and the information may turn out to be worthless or it may have substance."

West Va. To Enforce Truck Weight Limits

Harriman Seeks To Clarify New Iran Oil Offer

TEHRAN, Iran, July 26 (AP) — W. Averell Harriman and British Ambassador Sir Francis Shepherd tried to find out tonight if the new Iranian offer to negotiate may really mean a break in the bitter deadlock over oil nationalization.

President Truman's personal trouble-shooter and Shepherd both kept busy calling on government and political leaders to pin down the exact nature of the offer to Britain.

Harriman met with Iran's oil board after returning from a sightseeing flight over the huge Kruzistan oil fields.

The latest move followed Harriman's statement that he is hopeful the two countries will negotiate again and start the flow of oil from the huge Abadan refinery.

The British cabinet in London was considering Iran's offer to renew talks broken off a month ago but delayed deciding whether to accept, pending a further report from Shepherd.

Harriman's statement indicated he may have succeeded in getting Iran to modify its interpretation of the nationalization law.

Harriman transmitted Iran's message to London Tuesday offering to negotiate with a British mission. Details of the offer were not disclosed.

The Hawker Aircraft Company said the Royal Air Force placed orders months ago while it was still on the drawing board. Now it has made first test flights.

Thousands Of Soldiers Called Up By India

NEW DELHI, India, July 26 (AP) —India has ordered thousands of national guard troops to active duty for what a military spokesman today called training exercises.

He said the move is not connected with the hot talk between India and Pakistan over who will rule the old princely state of Kashmir—scene of 1948 warfare between the two countries.

The spokesman would not disclose the number of soldiers called up. A usually informed source said orders went out to 20,000 railway troops, 20,000 infantrymen and a number of engineers.

Linda Breaks Vow

HOLLYWOOD, July 26 (AP)—For 10 years, Linda Darnell kept her promise not to permit bathing suit pictures—"cheesecake," as Hollywood calls it.

But her role in a new picture required that she swim at the beach. Result: Her vow had to be broken.

Slayer Of Children Faces Mental Tests

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., July 26 (AP)—A judge here today ordered a psychiatric observation of Raymond Wilson Conley, the father who police say admitted he shot one of his three infant children and slashed the throats of the other two.

Two of the children were buried Wednesday, and the third, three-month-old Linda Sue Conley, held to life by a thread tonight as hospital attendants kept a close vigil by her oxygen-tent crib.

Judge R. Watson Sadler, of corporation court here, ordered the father, Raymond Wilson Conley, committed to Southwestern State Hospital at Marion .The commitment was on the motion of Conley's court appointed attorney, Allan N. Spitzer, but over Conley's objections.

Thousands Of Soldiers Called Up By India

NEW DELHI, India, July 26 (AP)—India has ordered thousands of national guard troops to active duty for what a military spokesman today called training exercises.

He said the move is not connected with the hot talk between India and Pakistan over who will rule the old princely state of Kashmir—scene of 1948 warfare between the two countries.

The spokesman would not disclose the number of soldiers called up. A usually informed source said orders went out to 20,000 railway troops, 20,000 infantrymen and a number of engineers.

Linda Breaks Vow

HOLLYWOOD, July 26 (AP)—For 10 years, Linda Darnell kept her promise not to permit bathing suit pictures—"cheesecake," as Hollywood calls it.

Slayer Of Children Faces Mental Tests

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., July 26 (AP)—A judge here today ordered a psychiatric observation of Raymond Wilson Conley, the father who police say admitted he shot one of his three infant children and slashed the throats of the other two.

Two of the children were buried Wednesday, and the third, three-month-old Linda Sue Conley, held to life by a thread tonight as hospital attendants kept a close vigil by her oxygen-tent crib.

Judge R. Watson Sadler, of corporation court here, ordered the father, Raymond Wilson Conley, committed to Southwestern State Hospital at Marion. The commitment was on the motion of Conley's court appointed attorney, Allan N. Spitzer, but over Conley's objections.

Fifth Raines-Arnone Duel Expected At Midland Today

1st Place At Stake In Legion Junior Loop Tilt At 5:30

The leadership of the Mountain District, American Legion Junior Baseball League will be at stake today when Midland Post plays host to Victory Post of Westernport in the fourth and final game of their series. "Play Ball" will be called at 5:30 p.m.

Westernport, managed by George "Curly" Foster, leads the league at present with a 7-2 record. Midland trails with eight wins and three losses. Cumberland (3-6) and Grantsville (2-9) are out of the race.

Pitchers who have figured in three 1-0 duels and a 3-2 battle in 3 innings are slated to hook up for the fifth time this season.

In three Legion games Bobby Raines, Westernport ace, holds two 1-0 decisions while dropping a 1-0 verdict to "Moose" Arnone, Midland's southpaw ace. Arnone, pitching for Beall High, defeated Raines, of Bruce High, in the overtime contest, 3-2. So they're all square now at two wins each.

The game is a "natural" and is expected to attract a large crowd to the Midland Ball Park.

Oliver Is Leader In St. Paul Open

"Porky" Turns In 66 For One Stroke Edge

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 26 (AP) — Genial Ed "Porky" Oliver of Wilmington, Del., nonchalantly stepped up and sank a three-foot putt today for a 66, six strokes under par, and the lead in the first day of play in the St. Paul Open Golf Tournament.

His score climaxed a day of blasting by the experts that made a farce of par figures for the 6,557-yard Keller Municipal Course.

The 220-pound professional who has been playing in the St. Paul open for 11 years, grabbed the lead from seven players who had been tied at 67. Another eight players were tied at 68. In all, 47 players were under par of 72.

A stroke behind Oliver were such notables as Jimmy Demaret, Ojai, Calif.; Cary Middlecoff, the Memphis, Tenn., dentist; Dick Mayer, St. Petersburg, Fla.; Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago; Gene Sarazen, the Germantown, N. Y., veteran; Jackie Burke of Houston, Texas, and Bill Nary of Prairie View, Ill.

Grouped at 68 were Skee Riegel of Tulsa, Okla., Fred Haas, Jr., of New Orleans, Doug Ford of Harrison, N. Y., Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Texas, Otto Greiner of Baltimore, Md., Pete Fleming of Hot Springs, Ark., Loddie Kempa of Kansas City, and "Dutch" Harrison of St. Andres, Ill.

CHICAGO, July 26 (AP) — Burly Don Newcombe pitched his ninth straight victory over the Chicago Cubs today as the Brooklyn Dodgers pounded out a 9 to 1 triumph before 16,962 at Wrigley Field.

The Dodger's sixth straight victory was also the eighth in a row for Newcombe who has won 14 and lost four this season.

Held to one run and three hits by Omar Lown the first six innings, the Dodgers shook loose for three runs in the seventh to rout Lown.

They added two off relief hurler Johnny Klippstein on Roy Campanella's 17th homer with a mate aboard and scored their last three in the ninth inning at the expense of Klippstein and Joe Hatten. Box:

Vollmer Hits Three Homers

Boston Is Winner Over Chisox, 13-10

BOSTON, July 26 (AP) — Clutch-hitting specialist Clyde Vollmer lashed his third homer of the game, a three run clout, today to give the Boston Red Sox a 13-10 victory and Ellis Kinder his 17th straight pitching triumph over the Chicago White Sox.

Vollmer, whose timely hitting has kept the Red Sox high in the American league pennant fight for the past three weeks, spotted his 17th circuit blow of the season against Harry Dorish to break a 10-10 deadlock in the sixth inning. That game winning blow found Bobby Doerr and Billy Goodman on base with two out.

In the previous frame, when the Red Sox appeared doomed to be overpowered in a slugfest that eventually totaled 31 hits of all sorts, Vollmer put his forces back in the contention by homering against Randy Gumpert.

Vollmer's first four bagger of the day was at the expense of Luis Aloma, the second of the four Chicago flingers. It also found Doerr on base and it climaxed a Red Sox five-run first-inning rally.

Dom DiMaggio and Ted Williams also hit for the circuit as the Red sox put on a 17-hit barrage.

TOLTECA was hustled into a clear lead, raced extremely wide entering the stretch, then held on gamely. ELEGANT LAD outbroke his rider but was quickly sent in pursuit of the pace, saved ground and loomed boldly at the head of the stretch but hung. CEDAR BUNNIE could not reach the front and quit early.

MELFORD FIRST, much the best, was hustled into a commanding lead at once, widened on the field without need of pressure and was taken in hand for the last stages. BUSY BONES gradually worked forward on the outside and finished well. WISE BET was urged in closest attendance to the pace and weakened. GALA BLENHEIM, hard ridden throughout, lacked a rally. BILLYHOFF was shuffled back on the first turn. DR. WRIGHT had brief speed and quit.

BEST RULE, under strong restraint while prominently placed, came through on the inside after a half-mile, bumped NEDDIES DOLL wresting command on the far turn and then drew out. An objection lodged against the winner was not allowed. MISS PIDGEON slipped forward gradually between horses, was forced out slightly on the far turn, then finished determinedly. JANELLA as carried wide in the drive and could not get up. NEDDIES DOLL held a long early lead, then was tiring when forced back sharply from between BEST RULE and MISS PIDGEON on the far turn. SPEAKER raced on the outside.

HULLIE, outrun for a half-mile, moved up fast thereafter but had to be taken in hand when running up behind horses on the final turn, was then sent to the inside and closed fast to be up at the finish. SKY ROAMER closed rapidly and wrested command between calls in the stretch, then just failed to last. TIZ TIZ IT had the most speed, repulsed a challenge from LITTLE HUSSY to again open a clear lead, but then weakened in the drive. DREIST, rushed into blind quarters after a slow beginning, had to be taken back sharply, bothering VACUUM and TOWN BETTY, then gave a fair effort.

COURAGE ROAD raced closest to the pace, assumed command when urged at the half-mile and established a clear lead that was maintained under steady pressure. # Indians Shake New York Jinx

Tribe Cuts Yankees' Lead By Winning, 9-4

NEW YORK, July 26 (AP)—It took the Cleveland Indians exactly 12 months and 12 days to win a game at Yankee Stadium. They accomplished the feat today, in their 14th attempt, by routing former teammate Allie Reynolds in six innings to hammer out 9-4 victory over the league-leading New York Yankees.

In salvaging the last of the three-game set, the third-place Indians moved back to within a game of the Yankees, who had their lead shaved to a scant two percentage points over Boston. The Red Sox are breathing down the necks of the defending champions after winning a 13-10 slugfest from Chicago's White Sox.

It was Cleveland's first win here in nine games this season. The Yankees also won the last five games in the Stadium last year following a July 14 defeat by Bob Lemon.

The victory tasted extra sweet to the Tribe since it came at the expense of Reynolds, who had beaten them four straight times. He shut them out three times and held them runless and hitless the last time he faced the Indians.

Bob Feller, the victim of Reynold's 1-0 no hitter, got some measure of revenge he was awarded the victory—his 15th—although he was forced to retire because of the oppressive heat after working five innings. Reasonably Rapid Robert yielded all Yankee runs and all but one of their nine hits. Box:

Cumberland Owned Filly Wins, Pays $14.40; Betting Off $15,299

4,700 Wager $208,453, Melford First, Best Rule Annex Features

One of the smallest Cumberland Day crowds in the 27-year history of running race meets at Fairgo saw a Cumberland-owned thoroughbred win the first race yesterday when Louis Waingold's Hal's Play, a $14.40 for $2 bet, whipped Royal Smile and Be By, the first choice of the bettors, in a five furlongs dash.

The four-year-old chestnut filly, ridden by Willie Clark and trained by Bill Irvine, Sr., had finished second and sixth in her two previous starts at the local half mile racing strip.

Betting Is Off $15,299

A crowd of approximately 4,700 persons turned out for the eighth day's program of the Cumberland Fair Association's 10-day meet and wagered $208,453 or $15,299 less than the handle of the second Thursday card of 1950. It marked the first time at the current session that the betting has not shown an increase over the same days of a year ago. However, the mutuel total soared to $1,635,897 and that's $178,976 above the handle for eight days in 1950.

Robert F. Duffy of Bel Air, who tied Mrs. George A. Saportas, Jr., of Monkton, Md., for the title of leading winning trainer a year ago, forged into first place yesterday by saddling a pair of winners, one second and one third.

Duffy Leads Trainers

Duffy kited his total points to 29 and passed Mrs. Saportas who sent four nags postward but garnered only one point for a third. The popular woman trainer now trails Duffy by one point in the race for the gold wrist watch.

1st Place At Stake In Legion Junior Loop Tilt At 5:30

The leadership of the Mountain District, American Legion Junior Baseball League will be at stake today when Midland Post plays host to Victory Post of Westernport in the fourth and final game of their series. "Play Ball" will be called at 5:30 p.m.

Westernport, managed by George "Curly" Foster, leads the league at present with a 7-2 record. Midland trails with eight wins and three losses. Cumberland (3-6) and Grantsville (2-9) are out of the race.

Pitchers who have figured in three 1-0 duels and a 3-2 battle in 3 innings are slated to hook up for the fifth time this season.

In three Legion games Bobby Raines, Westernport ace, holds two 1-0 decisions while dropping a 1-0 verdict to "Moose" Arnone, Midland's southpaw ace. Arnone, pitching for Beall High, defeated Raines, of Bruce High, in the overtime contest, 3-2. So they're all square now at two wins each.

The game is a "natural" and is expected to attract a large crowd to the Midland Ball Park.

Oliver Is Leader In St. Paul Open

"Porky" Turns In 66 For One Stroke Edge

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 26 (AP) — Genial Ed "Porky" Oliver of Wilmington, Del., nonchalantly stepped up and sank a three-foot putt today for a 66, six strokes under par, and the lead in the first day of play in the St. Paul Open Golf Tournament.

His score climaxed a day of blasting by the experts that made a farce of par figures for the 6,557-yard Keller Municipal Course.

The 220-pound professional who has been playing in the St. Paul open for 11 years, grabbed the lead from seven players who had been tied at 67. Another eight players were tied at 68. In all, 47 players were under par of 72.

A stroke behind Oliver were such notables as Jimmy Demaret, Ojai, Calif.; Cary Middlecoff, the Memphis, Tenn., dentist; Dick Mayer, St. Petersburg, Fla.; Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago; Gene Sarazen, the Germantown, N. Y., veteran; Jackie Burke of Houston, Texas, and Bill Nary of Prairie View, Ill.

Grouped at 68 were Skee Riegel of Tulsa, Okla., Fred Haas, Jr., of New Orleans, Doug Ford of Harrison, N. Y., Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Texas, Otto Greiner of Baltimore, Md., Pete Fleming of Hot Springs, Ark., Loddie Kempa of Kansas City, and "Dutch" Harrison of St. Andres, Ill.

The Dodger's sixth straight victory was also the eighth in a row for Newcombe who has won 14 and lost four this season.

Held to one run and three hits by Omar Lown the first six innings, the Dodgers shook loose for three runs in the seventh to rout Lown.

They added two off relief hurler Johnny Klippstein on Roy Campanella's 17th homer with a mate aboard and scored their last three in the ninth inning at the expense of Klippstein and Joe Hatten. Box:

Boston Is Winner Over Chisox, 13-10

BOSTON, July 26 (AP) — Clutch-hitting specialist Clyde Vollmer lashed his third homer of the game, a three run clout, today to give the Boston Red Sox a 13-10 victory and Ellis Kinder his 17th straight pitching triumph over the Chicago White Sox.

Vollmer, whose timely hitting has kept the Red Sox high in the American league pennant fight for the past three weeks, spotted his 17th circuit blow of the season against Harry Dorish to break a 10-10 deadlock in the sixth inning. That game winning blow found Bobby Doerr and Billy Goodman on base with two out.

In the previous frame, when the Red Sox appeared doomed to be overpowered in a slugfest that eventually totaled 31 hits of all sorts, Vollmer put his forces back in the contention by homering against Randy Gumpert.

Vollmer's first four bagger of the day was at the expense of Luis Aloma, the second of the four Chicago flingers. It also found Doerr on base and it climaxed a Red Sox five-run first-inning rally.

Dom DiMaggio and Ted Williams also hit for the circuit as the Red sox put on a 17-hit barrage.

BUSY BONES gradually worked forward on the outside and finished well. WISE BET was urged in closest attendance to the pace and weakened. GALA BLENHEIM, hard ridden throughout, lacked a rally. SKY ROAMER closed rapidly and wrested command between calls in the stretch, then just failed to last. TIZ TIZ IT had the most speed, repulsed a challenge from LITTLE HUSSY to again open a clear lead, but then weakened in the drive. DREIST, rushed into blind quarters after a slow beginning, had to be taken back sharply, bothering VACUUM and TOWN BETTY, then gave a fair effort.

Indians Shake New York Jinx

Tribe Cuts Yankees' Lead By Winning, 9-4

NEW YORK, July 26 (AP)—It took the Cleveland Indians exactly 12 months and 12 days to win a game at Yankee Stadium. They accomplished the feat today, in their 14th attempt, by routing former teammate Allie Reynolds in six innings to hammer out 9-4 victory over the league-leading New York Yankees.

In salvaging the last of the three-game set, the third-place Indians moved back to within a game of the Yankees, who had their lead shaved to a scant two percentage points over Boston. The Red Sox are breathing down the necks of the defending champions after winning a 13-10 slugfest from Chicago's White Sox.

It was Cleveland's first win here in nine games this season. The Yankees also won the last five games in the Stadium last year following a July 14 defeat by Bob Lemon.

The victory tasted extra sweet to the Tribe since it came at the expense of Reynolds, who had beaten them four straight times. He shut them out three times and held them runless and hitless the last time he faced the Indians.

Bob Feller, the victim of Reynold's 1-0 no hitter, got some measure of revenge he was awarded the victory—his 15th—although he was forced to retire because of the oppressive heat after working five innings. Reasonably Rapid Robert yielded all Yankee runs and all but one of their nine hits. Box:

Cumberland Owned Filly Wins, Pays $14.40; Betting Off $15,299

4,700 Wager $208,453, Melford First, Best Rule Annex Features

One of the smallest Cumberland Day crowds in the 27-year history of running race meets at Fairgo saw a Cumberland-owned thoroughbred win the first race yesterday when Louis Waingold's Hal's Play, a $14.40 for $2 bet, whipped Royal Smile and Be By, the first choice of the bettors, in a five furlongs dash.

A crowd of approximately 4,700 persons turned out for the eighth day's program of the Cumberland Fair Association's 10-day meet and wagered $208,453 or $15,299 less than the handle of the second Thursday card of 1950. It marked the first time at the current session that the betting has not shown an increase over the same days of a year ago. However, the mutuel total soared to $1,635,897 and that's $178,976 above the handle for eight days in 1950.

Robert F. Duffy of Bel Air, who tied Mrs. George A. Saportas, Jr., of Monkton, Md., for the title of leading winning trainer a year ago, forged into first place yesterday by saddling a pair of winners, one second and one third.

Duffy Leads Trainers

Duffy kited his total points to 29 and passed Mrs. Saportas who sent four nags postward but garnered only one point for a third. The popular woman trainer now trails Duffy by one point in the race for the gold wrist watch.

Braves Trip Reds

CINCINNATI, July 26 (AP)—The Boston Braves pounded out a 6-2 victory over the slumping Cincinnati Reds today to move into fifth place in the National League.

Vern Bickford held the local club to four hits until the ninth inning. Then he was relieved after two runners had crossed the plate and two were out, Bob Chipman finishing.

Bickford got credit for his 11th victory of the season, however, as against seven setbacks. Ewell Blackwell was the losing hurler—his 10th defeat against nine victories. Score:

3 Suits Totaling $37,000 Docketed In Auto Crash

A Cleveland family has docketed three suits in Allegany County Circuit Court against two county men for $37,000 damages as a result of an auto accident July 4, 1950.

The suits were entered by Harry Marks, and his insurance company, Ruth Marks, his wife, and their infant son, Daniel Marks.

The collision occurred on Route 40, about 23 miles east of Cumberland, between the Marks car and a motor vehicle operated by Earl Lester Walsh, of Mt. Savage, and Louis R. Baker, of Allegany Inn, the owner of the car driven by Walsh.

Mrs. Marks is seeking $30,000 as a result of injuries which the suits say left her permanently partially disabled.

She contends that she suffered fractures of five ribs on her left side, seriously injured her left shoulder, and had contusions, lacerations and abrasions.

Mrs. Marks declared her injuries caused her to be hospitalized for one week and resulted in continual confinement at her home for a lengthy period.

Marks, suing for his own use and to the use of the Manufacturers and Merchants Indemnity Company, seeks $5,000.

He claims he suffered a left shoulder injury, lacerations, contusions and abrasions over most of his body. He said his nervous system was seriously shocked and permanently injured.

This suit states the insurance company, under its policy agreement with Marks, paid $1,071.75 to have the Cleveland man's car repaired.

The infant son, through his father, is seeking $2,000 from Walsh and Baker. He claims injuries to one of his knees and various parts of his body and nervous system.

The Marks are represented by Bruce Herzbrun, of Cleveland, and the local law firm of Cobey, Carscaden and Gilchrist.

Dummy Weapon Found In Cell

SOMERSET, Pa.—Sheriff Karl I. Hare is believed to have averted an attempted jailbreak recently when he found a fake gun in the Somerset County Jail cell of Clayton Albert Terhune, of Paterson, N. J.

The actions of Terhune, who is being held in the slaying of Clayton E. Jenkins, Dowington architect, aroused Sheriff Hare's suspicions and when he examined Terhune's cell he found a gun moulded from soap and a slip noose made from a sheet.

Sheriff Hare said he believes the gun and noose were made with the intention of using them as ruses for an attempted break for freedom.

Jenkins was beaten to death May 1 in a cabin at Emerald Park, near Stoystown, and Terhune was picked up nearby on the following day. The Paterson man is a self-confessed ex-convict and his case goes before the Somerset County Grand Jury at the August term of court.

Enlist In Army

Two Allegany County men have enlisted in the Regular Army for three years each and have been dispatched to Fort Meade for assignment.

They are Dale O. Campbell, of Mt. Savage, and Russell B. Iser, of Rawlings, according to M-Sgt. Clarence Biehn, local Army and Air Force recruiter.

Contestants In Soap Box Derby Will Be Guests At Dinner Aug. 8

Boys who participated in Cumberland's fourth annual Soap Box Derby two Saturdays ago will be guests of The Times-News at a dinner Wednesday evening, August 8, at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Prizes won in the Derby will be awarded following the dinner by Eiler Chevrolet, Inc., with Frederic W. Eiler making the presentations.

The Derby was co-sponsored by The Times-News, Eiler Chevrolet, the Junior Association of Commerce and the South End Business Men's Association.

The August 8 affair, scheduled to get under way at 6:30 p. m., will be part of the Jaycees' monthly dinner meeting.

Every contestant in the Derby will receive a prize, with the top award going to the winner, 12-year-old Ricardo (Rickey) Mellon of McCoole.

Mellon will receive a four-day trip to Akron, Ohio, at the expense of The Times-News to take part in the All-American Derby. He will leave several hours after the dinner via the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, accompanied by J. Suter Kegg, director of the Cumberland Derby. The All-American event is scheduled for Sunday, August 12.

Robert Gero, runnerup in the local races and champion of Class A, will be the recipient of a bicycle. The list of the other prizes, Eiler said, will be announced later.

The Shell Oil Company tool board for the best-constructed car goes to Billy Mills, Potomac Park, while the Collins and Aikman three-in-one jig saw for best-upholstered racer goes to Galen McKenzie, also of Potomac Park.

Dummy Weapon Found In Cell

SOMERSET, Pa.—Sheriff Karl I. Hare is believed to have averted an attempted jailbreak recently when he found a fake gun in the Somerset County Jail cell of Clayton Albert Terhune, of Paterson, N. J.

The actions of Terhune, who is being held in the slaying of Clayton E. Jenkins, Dowington architect, aroused Sheriff Hare's suspicions and when he examined Terhune's cell he found a gun moulded from soap and a slip noose made from a sheet.

Sheriff Hare said he believes the gun and noose were made with the intention of using them as ruses for an attempted break for freedom.

Jenkins was beaten to death May 1 in a cabin at Emerald Park, near Stoystown, and Terhune was picked up nearby on the following day. The Paterson man is a self-confessed ex-convict and his case goes before the Somerset County Grand Jury at the August term of court.

tween the police and the army. He was confined to Fairfax County Jail for 70 days for reckless driving. The police refused to release him to the army until his fine of $85 is paid. However, the Army has placed him on the AWOL list and cut off his pay. So the boy can't draw any money to get out of jail, and the longer he stays in, the more penalties he faces for being AWOL. This column has asked the Army to look into the matter and be more human.

Pets Ahead of Wives

Mrs. W. T. King Jr., Mobile, Ala.: "This is a gripe letter from a GI wife. I just want a good and fair reason why a general's wife is going to Japan to join her husband, and I, a lieutenant's wife, cannot.. I also understand that automobiles and pets are being shipped to Japan, though there isn't room for dependents."

Answer: It is true that Gen. Matt Ridgway's wife and Gen. O. P. Weyland's family have been admitted to Japan, though all other dependents have been barred since July 14, 1950. It is also true that automobiles and pets are still shipped to Japan. This column could not find the exact number of pets, but 544 automobiles have been shipped since dependents were banned for lack of transportation.

A Recruit, Lackland Air Base, Texas: "The hospital here was overflowing with cases of ptomaine poisoning recently. It's a real scandal, and I hope you will investigate."

Answer: It wasn't ptomaine poisoning, but a diarrhea epidemic that swept Lackland Air Base. The diarrhea was caused by a virus which got into a leafy vegetable as a result of faulty drainage. A total of 590 cases were reported, some hospitalized, for three and four days. The air force is fixing the drainage, so it should not happen again.

tween the police and the army. He was confined to Fairfax County Jail for 70 days for reckless driving. The police refused to release him to the army until his fine of $85 is paid. However, the Army has placed him on the AWOL list and cut off his pay. So the boy can't draw any money to get out of jail, and the longer he stays in, the more penalties he faces for being AWOL. This column has asked the Army to look into the matter and be more human.

Pets Ahead of Wives

Mrs. W. T. King Jr., Mobile, Ala.: "This is a gripe letter from a GI wife. I just want a good and fair reason why a general's wife is going to Japan to join her husband, and I, a lieutenant's wife, cannot.. I also understand that automobiles and pets are being shipped to Japan, though there isn't room for dependents."

Answer: It is true that Gen. Matt Ridgway's wife and Gen. O. P. Weyland's family have been admitted to Japan, though all other dependents have been barred since July 14, 1950. It is also true that automobiles and pets are still shipped to Japan. This column could not find the exact number of pets, but 544 automobiles have been shipped since dependents were banned for lack of transportation.

A Recruit, Lackland Air Base, Texas: "The hospital here was overflowing with cases of ptomaine poisoning recently. It's a real scandal, and I hope you will investigate."

Answer: It wasn't ptomaine poisoning, but a diarrhea epidemic that swept Lackland Air Base. The diarrhea was caused by a virus which got into a leafy vegetable as a result of faulty drainage. A total of 590 cases were reported, some hospitalized, for three and four days. The air force is fixing the drainage, so it should not happen again.

Gloria Swanson

HOLLYWOOD, July 26 (INS)—Gloria Swanson, smartly turned out in a wrap-around summer dress which she designed, straw shoes and straw hat, was met at the station by Milton Bren, who with Edward G. Alperson is producing "Three For Bedroom C." In this Gloria plays a glamorous actress.

"Who do you want to direct you?" asked Milton.

"I think you'd be wonderful," Gloria said. "You have lived with the story, you know it." So it was then and there agreed that Milton would direct the picture, the first time in his career. Gloria, herself, will design all the clothes.

She won't have a chance to go to Europe as she had planned to see her daughter, Michele, because as soon as she finishes here she has to go back to New York to start rehearsals for "Nina," her stage play. That Swanson gal amazes me more and more. She is now more in demand than ever before as an actress.

If Patricia Neal had her fortune told, all her good cards would surely be coming up in love and business. It's no longer any secret that Pat is Gary Cooper's heart, and now here's a good break in her career.

Really, Pat gets the best break of her life in "Diplomatic Courier" opposite Tyrone Power at 20th. She plays the American girl in Ty's life with a foreign charmer yet to be selected as the other girl.

• — • — •

The ANTA will counteract some of the Russian propaganda by sending to Germany and other countries some important theatrical acts. Judith Anderson will take her play "Media" to Germany and "Porgy And Bess" will be played there with a top company.

This all happened when Ulinovia, Russia's famous ballerina, was such a hit at the Venice festival. Later, permission was obtained for the ballet dancer to also appear in Florence and other Italian cities, and there's no doubt that her performance is too important propaganda for us to ignore.

So, ANTA will see that our own American theater propaganda is circulated where it does the most good.

Harry Cohn has moved one step nearer to making Rita Hayworth's comeback picture.

He signed Vincent Sherman as director of the story Virginia Van Upp is now writing.

Vince has a way with these actresses and has directed many of the top stars, first Bette Davis then Ann Sheridan, and more recently Joan Crawford.

His last picture was "Lone Star," the Clark Gable western, but before that he made the last three Crawford dramas.

Whether or not Rita will return to Nevada before she checks in permanently at Columbia has not yet been determined.

I do believe when Irving Berlin gets ready to sell "Call Me Madame" for motion pictures, he'll sell it to his friend of many years. Joseph Schenck for 20th Century-Fox. But Joe tells me that no deal has yet been made.

It would be wonderful to have it for a musical with Russell Nype in the role that brought him fame.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Marta Toren flies to New York to meet her father who arrives Sunday from Stockholm It will be a red letter day in his life—he'll see Marta for the first time in several years and it's his birthday.

Steve Cochran couldn't be more furious. He's just back from Kentucky and without being made an honorary colonel.

Rita Hayworth brought only a suitcase of clothes from Nevada, so Jean Louis whipped her up some dresses in nothing flat for her to wear for wardrobe pictures. Virginia Van Upp is still working on Rita's first story.

Randy Scott has that very painful but unromantic ailment — an ingrown toenail—but fortunately he'll be riding a horse for the next few days in his movie.

Jeff Chandler and Piper Laurie a twosome at the "Mark Of The Renegade" premiere, and Howard Duff with the Mexican charmer, Miroslava, same place.

Ken Duncan, Hollywood's well-known badman cowboy, who has been appearing in the Kocksoi Theatre in Tokyo and breaking records, writes that Jack Benny gave an impromptu show in Tokyo for the Correspondents Club. Said Jack, "I've been here only one day and 100 yen (26 cents) went just like that! Next time I'm coming alone."

Mario Lanza's baby girl will be baptized in St. Paul's Church Sunday with Andy and Delia Russell as godparents. The young lady's name is Elyssa.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

Can you figure out why people like you?

Answer: Never positively, and it is usually unwise to try. The essential reason, anyhow, is that they believe you like them and are interested in them, and wondering "what they see in you" is a form of self-centeredness that tends to make you less attractive. Actually, all normal men and women are looking for people to like because friendly feelings are as pleasurable as unfriendly ones are painful, so most of the people whom you meet will like you if you give them a chance. But conversely, feeling that you do not deserve to be liked is a step toward feeling you are disliked, and toward making the idea come true.

Can you learn psychology in college?

Answer: There are many aspects of the science which are best learned in the classroom or the laboratory. But as Dr. Robert A. Young of the Judge Baker Guidance Center, Boston says, the psychologist who plans to do psychotherapy must turn to dynamic psychiatry for the ground work of his theoretical and practical training, and the only way to grasp dynamic psychiatry is to be psychoanalyzed yourself. The clinical psychologist must recognize his dependence on the medical profession for much of his training, and be willing to invest years of his own time in preparing himself to be able to help others.

Is preferring money to love "realistic"?

Answer: No, if only because love is real and money, a symbol. It may symbolize for you the pleasures which you think it can buy, and which, being largely childish, will eventually bore you. It may symbolize a sense of power over your neighbors which is likely in the end to make them hate you and want to destroy you. But most often of all, money is a symbol of security against essentially unreal dangers such as that of being rejected, ignored or perhaps even literally starved by your neighbors. The only abiding pleasure, power or security comes from the good will and affection of your fellow men and women.

Voice From The Past

Jack Pearl, who practically invented radio back in 1932, is back again on NBC with his Baron Munchausen tales, his German dialect puns, his double-takes and his stooge, Sharley. It just goes to show how far radio has progressed in 20 years, and in what direction it is progressing—namely, back to the crystal set. Next year we'll sit up all night trying to bring in KDKA in Pittsburgh, which, as I recall, was about all you could do with a radio in those days. There weren't any programs, a situation which, some cynics will tell you, has persisted to this very day.

John Crosby

German low comedy, it ought to be explained to the younger members in the audience, sprang up in this country in the '80s with Weber and Fields and the Rogers brothers, flourished through the great period of immigration which ended in 1910 and died—well, I guess it hasn't died if Pearl is still around. "Stage German Low Comedian On The Wane" runs a headline from the drama section of The New York Herald Tribune dated July 11, 1928. Back in 1928, they under-estimated the staying power of Jack Pearl and the patience of the rest of us.

•—•—•

The Pearl show is chiefly valuable as a museum piece, educational to you youngsters and nostalgic to the rest of us who vass dere, Sharley, when Pearl was an enormously popular radio comedian 20 years ago. It takes a man back to hear dialogue like this again:

Russ: Glad to know you Mr. Munchausen.

Sharley: Not Mr. Munchausen. Call him Baron.

Russ: Oh, I wouldn't think of calling a man I just met by his first name.

Sharley: Baron isn't his first name. It's his title.

Russ: Oh, the nobility! I'm honored to know you, your harness.

Munchausen: Harness! What am I, a horse?

Sharley: You'll have to excuse Mr. Emery, Baron. He's excited at meeting a peer.

Munchausen: First I'm a horse. Now I'm a dock.

Sharley: No, no. I'm referring to your rank.

Munchausen: Who's rank.

Sharley: Your rank.

Munchausen: You're kind of stagnant yourself.

That is what I like to refer to as the progressive joke, one which proceeds from a postulate to a conclusion as relentlessly as mathematics. No snickering in the back row there. This sort of thing is a very pure art form, bearing as little relationship to practical life around us as life in the outer stars from which this program may emanate, for all I know.

Jack Pearl is an enormously skilled and experienced comedian; his timing and inflection and vocal tricks have not been changed by the passage of years and neither has his material, which is almost a parody on itself. The only time Mr. Pearl caught me by surprise was during the following passage at arms between him and Sharley:

Sharley: He's a great maestro. In the musical world he has set a precedent.

Munchausen: Could I have a carbon copy of that?

Sharley: A precedent. You know what a precedent is, don't you?

Munchausen: Sure—haw haw—Harry Truman.

I rather thought he'd say William McKinley.

It's a little unfair to confront a man with what he said decades ago but I have at hand an interview Mr. Pearl granted back in 1926 which I find extraordinarily pertinent to his present show: "Laughter is going out of style. Quiet, calm little smiles have supplanted the jocose and hearty laughter of another day," Mr. Pearl declared back in 1926. The trouble, as he figured it then, was that we were getting too educated and civilized for anything so uncouth as the belly laugh. "The thing to do is to cultivate the wan, knowing smile of the sophisticate," according to Mr. Pearl.

That's me, kid, when I listen to the Pearl show—wan, knowing and civilized almost to the point of torpor.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

The Pearl show is chiefly valuable as a museum piece, educational to you youngsters and nostalgic to the rest of us who vass dere, Sharley, when Pearl was an enormously popular radio comedian 20 years ago. It takes a man back to hear dialogue like this again:

Russ: Glad to know you Mr. Munchausen.

Sharley: Not Mr. Munchausen. Call him Baron.

Russ: Oh, I wouldn't think of calling a man I just met by his first name.

Sharley: Baron isn't his first name. It's his title.

Russ: Oh, the nobility! I'm honored to know you, your harness.

Munchausen: Harness! What am I, a horse?

Sharley: You'll have to excuse Mr. Emery, Baron. He's excited at meeting a peer.

Munchausen: First I'm a horse. Now I'm a dock.

Sharley: No, no. I'm referring to your rank.

Munchausen: Who's rank.

Sharley: Your rank.

Munchausen: You're kind of stagnant yourself.

That is what I like to refer to as the progressive joke, one which proceeds from a postulate to a conclusion as relentlessly as mathematics. No snickering in the back row there. This sort of thing is a very pure art form, bearing as little relationship to practical life around us as life in the outer stars from which this program may emanate, for all I know.

Jack Pearl is an enormously skilled and experienced comedian; his timing and inflection and vocal tricks have not been changed by the passage of years and neither has his material, which is almost a parody on itself. The only time Mr. Pearl caught me by surprise was during the following passage at arms between him and Sharley:

Sharley: He's a great maestro. In the musical world he has set a precedent.

Munchausen: Could I have a carbon copy of that?

Sharley: A precedent. You know what a precedent is, don't you?

Munchausen: Sure—haw haw—Harry Truman.

I rather thought he'd say William McKinley.

It's a little unfair to confront a man with what he said decades ago but I have at hand an interview Mr. Pearl granted back in 1926 which I find extraordinarily pertinent to his present show: "Laughter is going out of style. Quiet, calm little smiles have supplanted the jocose and hearty laughter of another day," Mr. Pearl declared back in 1926. The trouble, as he figured it then, was that we were getting too educated and civilized for anything so uncouth as the belly laugh. "The thing to do is to cultivate the wan, knowing smile of the sophisticate," according to Mr. Pearl.

That's me, kid, when I listen to the Pearl show—wan, knowing and civilized almost to the point of torpor.

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear son, William James Grimm, who left us on July 27th, 1949, two years ago today.

Death changes all our thoughts of Heaven
At first we thought of streets of gold
Of shining wings and robes of white
Of pearly gates and dazzling light
But in the aftermath of years;
It is a more familiar place,
A home unhurt by sighs and tears,
Where waiteth many a well known
face.
With passing years it grows more real,
It draws us nearer day by day,
Not strange or cold but very dear,
The glad homeland not far away. . .
Truly to live on, in the hearts and minds of those we love and leave behind is not to die.

His Mother: Bessie B. Grimm

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear son, William James Grimm, who left us on July 27th, 1949, two years ago today.

Death changes all our thoughts of
Heaven
At first we thought of streets of gold
Of shining wings and robes of white
Of pearly gates and dazzling light
But in the aftermath of years;
It is a more familiar place,
A home unhurt by sighs and tears,
Where waiteth many a well known
face.
With passing years it grows more real,
It draws us nearer day by day,
Not strange or cold but very dear,
The glad homeland not far away. . .
Truly to live on, in the hearts and minds of those we love and leave
behind is not to die.
His Mother: Bessie B. Grimm

FAIRGO NOTES

By C. V. BURNS

The payoffs at the current meeting are probably the best since the 10-day sessions were inaugurated in 1935.

During the first eight days 31 of the 64 winners or 43 per cent paid $11 or more for $2 win tickets. Eight returned from $21.40 to $45.40 and the payoffs on three ranged from $91.20 to $50.80.

Seventy-five trainers have saddled at least one win, place or show horse since the local meeting opened. Thirty-one different riders had mounts during the first eight days.

●—●—●

Don Yates and Stanley Greene who are third and fifth in the race for the trainers' prize are headed for Randall Park, Ohio.

●—●—●

George Russell ran into tough luck en route from Cumberland to Randall Park. He was taking Beacon Bound and Gumptious there when one of the horses threw a van fit, both suffered injuries and one had to be destroyed.

●—●—●

Harry E. Flook, general manager of the local association, is limping about the plant. He suffered a knee injury on Wednesday.

●—●—●

Only 29.7 per cent of the favorites have won in the first 64 races. That is only 19 were in the winners' circle. If this keeps up there will be a new low established. The all-time high at Fairgo is 48 per cent, set in 1947. It rained on eight of the 10 days that year. In 1948 it was 43 per cent, in 1949 forty per cent and last year 37 per cent.

Cumberland Owned

Y., also became the new leader in the race for the jockeys' prize by booting home a first, two seconds and two thirds to amass 70 points for the eight days compared to Willie Downs' 67. The Baltimorean held a 4-point advantage prior to yesterday's program.

Melford First Winner

Mrs. C. C. Utterback's Melford First, a 3-year-old filly, ridden by Willie Clark, captured the first of a pair of feature races in which Trainer S. R. Utterback was presented the Carolan Tavern Trophy by George P. Mahoney, former chairman of the Maryland Racing Commission. Melford First, incidentally, paid the second best price of the day, $16 for $2. Trailing the winner home were Busy Bones, Wise Bet and Gala Blenheim.

The second feature, The Cumberland Purse, went to Best Rule, which carried top weight of 123 pounds in the sixth and defeated Miss Pidgeon, Janella and Neddie's Doll, owned by Enoch P. Price of Frostburg. Best Rule is the fifth thoroughbred to score two wins at the current session.

Objection Disallowed

Miss Shelia Fram, daughter of Morris Fram, manager of Harvey's Jewelry Store, presented Harvey's trophy to O. L. Follin, trainer of Best Rule.

Courage Road, winner of the final, returned the best price of the days — $17.80 for $2. The Chenoweth gelding beat Count Howard, the favorite, by 2½ lengths, with Penny Hill, third, Bonziah Seniah, owned by Enoch Price was 7th.

Enoch Price's Tiz Tiz It finished third back of Hullie, $13.20 for $2 winner, and Sky Roamer in the 7th event.

Other winners were Innersole in the second $5.80, Evenesta in the third $5.80 and Tufton in the fourth, at $5.40.

Three Favorites Register

Evenesta, Tufton and Best Rule were the favorites that registered on the eighth day of the 10-day meeting.

The winning daily double combination of Hal's Play (2) and Innersole (4) paid $36.80.

Today is Johnstown Day at Fairgo with the sixth race as the headliner. Post time for the first race is 2:30 p. m., E.D.T.

Sharply Advancing Issues In Stock Market Spotlight

NEW YORK, July 26 (AP)—There was a good robust stock market today with trading interest centered on a handful of sharply advancing issues.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 70 cents at $94.80 with industrials up 40 cents, railroads up $1.00 and utilities up 20 cents.

Nickel Plate jumped 10½ to 206. In Washington, Interstate Commerce Commission examiners recommended that the road be allowed to go ahead with its five-for-one split proposed last April.

Freeport Sulphur closed up 8 at 101½. Yesterday Freeport directors proposed a three-for-one split and boosted the dividend to $1.50 from $1.25 previously paid.

Among other high priced issues (always subject to hopes of a split) going higher were Texas Pacific Land Trust up 3 at 104¼, Texas Gulf Sulphur ¾ at 100½, U. S. Gypsum 1½ at 112½, Amerada Petroleum 7½ at 124½, Cities Service 1⅞ at 108⅞, and Santa Fe 1¼ at 157.

With a boost of three cents in the government ceiling on copper refined from foreign ores, copper shares came to life. American Smelting gained 3⅝ at 85⅞, and Kennecott Copper was up 1¾ at 75.

Motors, plagued with strikes, barely moved. General Motors and Chrysler gained ⅛, and Packard and Studebaker lost ⅛.

There was a lot of activity in Bethlehem Steel near the close. It was up ⅞ at 52¼. After the market closed Bethlehem reported first half earnings equal to $4.75 a share as against $5.63 a year ago.

The volume of business came to 1,480,000 shares as compared with 1,870,000 yesterday when the market closed irregularly lower.

The list narrowed down to 1,068 individual issues traded (1,134 issues yesterday) of which 551 advanced and 271 declined. There were 26 new highs and eight new lows for the year.

"The Authority on Authorities"

NOT NECESSARILY SO

YOU hear it said often, when squeeze plays are under discussion, that such a device will work for you only when you have already given up the tricks you can afford to lose and are using the squeeze to take all the remaining tricks. But that is not necessarily so. It is the case with squeeze plays of the various standard lineups, which are most widely understood. But with occasional unusual situations, a squeeze can operate when you still figure to lose another trick or two.

It was lucky for North and South that North made that shaded double. He did it largely because he knew West's penchant for weak third-hand bids when not vulnerable, to obstruct possibly strong vulnerable opponents. Except for that double, it is hard to see how South could ever have reached his spade game contract. That would not have been fortunate for an ordinary pair. But this chap was able to manage his difficult contract.

The heart Q lead was won by South's K, the diamond A was scored and the spade 3 led to the A. The heart 9 came back to the A. South ruffed a diamond, led to the spade K, ruffed a second diamond and led to the spade Q. All this time he had his eye on the target—avoidance of two club losers.

Those first eight tricks brought him to a position where dummy held the heart 4, diamond 10 and three clubs and South the spade 7, heart 5 and three clubs. The defenders discarded right, West retaining two hearts and three clubs, East two diamond honors and three clubs. Now South led dummy's 10, discarding a heart, as did West too. Now East dared not return a club, which would assure South of two club tricks. But his sole alternative was his diamond Q, which squeezed West. After South ruffed with the spade 7, West could not throw his heart J, which guarded against the 4, so he tossed his club 7 and dummy thereupon let go of the heart 4. This assured South two of the last three tricks in clubs. He led the J. If West covered, the A would win and a low one be led, the 10 becoming good. West played low, so the J went on to the Q. The 8 came back to the 2; now singleton K and A, and the 4 to the 10 then won.

FAIRGO NOTES

By C. V. BURNS

The payoffs at the current meeting are probably the best since the 10-day sessions were inaugurated in 1935.

During the first eight days 31 of the 64 winners or 43 per cent paid $11 or more for $2 win tickets. Eight returned from $21.40 to $45.40 and the payoffs on three ranged from $91.20 to $50.80.

Seventy-five trainers have saddled at least one win, place or show horse since the local meeting opened. Thirty-one different riders had mounts during the first eight days.

●—●—●

Don Yates and Stanley Greene who are third and fifth in the race for the trainers' prize are headed for Randall Park, Ohio.

●—●—●

George Russell ran into tough luck en route from Cumberland to Randall Park. He was taking Beacon Bound and Gumptious there when one of the horses threw a van fit, both suffered injuries and one had to be destroyed.

●—●—●

Harry E. Flook, general manager of the local association, is limping about the plant. He suffered a knee injury on Wednesday.

●—●—●

Only 29.7 per cent of the favorites have won in the first 64 races. That is only 19 were in the winners' circle. If this keeps up there will be a new low established. The all-time high at Fairgo is 48 per cent, set in 1947. It rained on eight of the 10 days that year. In 1948 it was 43 per cent, in 1949 forty per cent and last year 37 per cent.

Y., also became the new leader in the race for the jockeys' prize by booting home a first, two seconds and two thirds to amass 70 points for the eight days compared to Willie Downs' 67. The Baltimorean held a 4-point advantage prior to yesterday's program.

Melford First Winner

Mrs. C. C. Utterback's Melford First, a 3-year-old filly, ridden by Willie Clark, captured the first of a pair of feature races in which Trainer S. R. Utterback was presented the Carolan Tavern Trophy by George P. Mahoney, former chairman of the Maryland Racing Commission. Melford First, incidentally, paid the second best price of the day, $16 for $2. Trailing the winner home were Busy Bones, Wise Bet and Gala Blenheim.

The second feature, The Cumberland Purse, went to Best Rule, which carried top weight of 123 pounds in the sixth and defeated Miss Pidgeon, Janella and Neddie's Doll, owned by Enoch P. Price of Frostburg. Best Rule is the fifth thoroughbred to score two wins at the current session.

Objection Disallowed

Miss Shelia Fram, daughter of Morris Fram, manager of Harvey's Jewelry Store, presented Harvey's trophy to O. L. Follin, trainer of Best Rule.

Courage Road, winner of the final, returned the best price of the days — $17.80 for $2. The Chenoweth gelding beat Count Howard, the favorite, by 2½ lengths, with Penny Hill, third, Bonziah Seniah, owned by Enoch Price was 7th.

Enoch Price's Tiz Tiz It finished third back of Hullie, $13.20 for $2 winner, and Sky Roamer in the 7th event.

Other winners were Innersole in the second $5.80, Evenesta in the third $5.80 and Tufton in the fourth, at $5.40.

Three Favorites Register

Evenesta, Tufton and Best Rule were the favorites that registered on the eighth day of the 10-day meeting.

The winning daily double combination of Hal's Play (2) and Innersole (4) paid $36.80.

Today is Johnstown Day at Fairgo with the sixth race as the headliner. Post time for the first race is 2:30 p. m., E.D.T.

NOT NECESSARILY SO

YOU hear it said often, when squeeze plays are under discussion, that such a device will work for you only when you have already given up the tricks you can afford to lose and are using the squeeze to take all the remaining tricks. But that is not necessarily so. It is the case with squeeze plays of the various standard lineups, which are most widely understood. But with occasional unusual situations, a squeeze can operate when you still figure to lose another trick or two.

It was lucky for North and South that North made that shaded double. He did it largely because he knew West's penchant for weak third-hand bids when not vulnerable, to obstruct possibly strong vulnerable opponents. Except for that double, it is hard to see how South could ever have reached his spade game contract. That would not have been fortunate for an ordinary pair. But this chap was able to manage his difficult contract.

The heart Q lead was won by South's K, the diamond A was scored and the spade 3 led to the A. The heart 9 came back to the A. South ruffed a diamond, led to the spade K, ruffed a second diamond and led to the spade Q. All this time he had his eye on the target—avoidance of two club losers.

Those first eight tricks brought him to a position where dummy held the heart 4, diamond 10 and three clubs and South the spade 7, heart 5 and three clubs. The defenders discarded right, West retaining two hearts and three clubs, East two diamond honors and three clubs. Now South led dummy's 10, discarding a heart, as did West too. Now East dared not return a club, which would assure South of two club tricks. But his sole alternative was his diamond Q, which squeezed West. After South ruffed with the spade 7, West could not throw his heart J, which guarded against the 4, so he tossed his club 7 and dummy thereupon let go of the heart 4. This assured South two of the last three tricks in clubs. He led the J. If West covered, the A would win and a low one be led, the 10 becoming good. West played low, so the J went on to the Q. The 8 came back to the 2; now singleton K and A, and the 4 to the 10 then won.

Mine Lessee May Take Ties, Leave Rails

Judge Henderson Files Opinion

Although the lessee of a coal mine must leave his rails behind at the expiration of the lease, he is entitled to remove the railroad ties, Associate Judge George Henderson wrote in an opinion filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The opinion was written in an equity case which Walter E. Blank and Rosanna F. Blank, his wife, filed May 13, 1950, against William D. Williams, Lillian Williams, his wife, and Branson J. Nelson, constable.

Lease 365 Acres

The Blanks entered into a lease August 1, 1946, with the Williamses under which they leased 365 acres of land in Allegany County and Somerset County, Pa., for five years. Under terms of the lease, the Blanks were to pay royalties of 50 cents per ton of coal mined, with a minimum of $400 per month being provided. The mine property is in the vicinity of Mt. Savage.

Nelson became involved in the case because he had advertised the Blanks' mine property for sale, because they allegedly were in arrears in royalty payments.

Judge Henderson first entered an order in the case May 13, 1950, restraining the sale of mine property.

In his opinion filed yesterday, Judge Henderson quoted a provision from the lease. It provided:

"It is mutually agreed that any and all rails now on the property, or placed there by the lessee, shall remain there as the property of the lessors."

Agreed Facts

A number of agreed facts were stated in the opinion. Both parties agreed that at the time of the execution of the lease the ties in place in the mine were worth $20. At the present time, Blank values the ties at $207.50 and Williams at $87.50. It also is agreed that the lease terminates July 31 and that ties have been removed and stacked preparatory to selling, along with Blank's mining equipment. The rails are still in the mine along passageways. The rails in place at the time the lease was executed were worth $130, according to Blank, and $150, according to Williams. Both parties agree that the rails presently are worth $3,350, including switches.

Judge Henderson's opinion observes that the lease refers only to rails and does not provide that both rails and ties shall become the property of the lessee. He also notes that the rails placed in the mine by Blank, which the landlord is entitled to retain are worth $3,200.

Coupled with his opinion was an order providing that the Blanks retain title to the ties placed by them on the leased property.

The Blanks were represented by John T. Fey and William H. Geppert and the Williamses by Edward J. Ryan and William A. Gunter.

Police Continue To Probe Causes

State and county police investigators, probing into the causes of the fire which destroyed an unoccupied two-story frame dwelling at Phoenix Flat near Franklin yesterday, said last night it was a "definite case of arson."

Deputies William Chappell, Edgar M. Lewis and George Furstenburg of the sheriff's office and Trooper Milton G. Hart of Maryland State Police are still investigating the blaze.

Authorities said the house had been slightly damaged by fire earlier in the week and that "they came back and completed the job this time."

Although arson was discounted by the president of the Campbell Coal Company, Lonaconing, which owns the building, police, after making a complete investigation of the scene yesterday, said the fire had been set "by person or persons unknown." G. D. Campbell had expressed the belief that the blaze was of accidental origin and was probably caused by a group of boys playing there.

Sheriff's deputies also are working on the theory that the newest outbreak of vandalism and destruction might possibly be tied in with the recent explosions and fires set off at the Harris Powder Company, near Westernport.

Potomac Fire Company, Westernport and Tri-Towns Fire Company, Piedmont, responded to the alarm at 9 a. m. yesterday but said that inaccessibility of the house, located three miles north of Westernport, kept firemen from preventing the dwelling from being destroyed by the flames.

Fresh footprints on the ground made soft by recent rains were discovered by the investigators and police added they could trace where the arsonist entered and left the building although it had not yet been determined how the blaze had been set.

The home had been occupied until a month ago by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Green and their family but had been vacant since the Greens moved to nearby Franklin.

As the Statue of Liberty appeared out of an early morning haze last Friday it presented a welcome sight to Cpl. George E. Carder, his wife and their 15-month-old son, Stanton, on board ship enroute home to Oldtown from Germany.

To the young son, the entrance into the harbor probably meant little but it will certainly be food for thought in stories to his grandchildren. To the former Irene Schwonek, Munich, Germany, wife of Carder, it was her first glimpse of America and a memory to be cherished forever.

Cpl. Carder, 23, son of Mrs. Elsie Nield, RFD No. 1, Oldtown, has been serving with the U. S. Army in various cities throughout Germany for the past 39 months and was bringing his family back home.

Brother Makes Introduction

While working in an Army Post Office in Munich three years ago, Carder made the acquaintance of his future bride's brother and upon invitation to his home met Irene and the romance which followed budded into a happy marriage.

Their son, a chubby blonde haired boy of 30 pounds, was born to the couple in Regensburg, April 13, of last year. While observing the behavior of the boy yesterday at the home of his grandmother, it could plainly be seen that someday he may become a great band leader. The radio had caught his eye and his imitation of a maestro was near perfection.

Wife Born In France

Carder's wife was born in France where she resided throughout the war years and in 1945 was sent back to Germany with her parents who had not obtained proper papers to remain in France. She attended elementary school in France and completed a beauticians course while studying in Germany.

She speaks the English language with a most interesting accent. Text books of the French schools and the efforts of her American husband resulted in her possession of a broad understanding of the language.

When asked yesterday about a comment on her first visit to America she had little to say and appeared quite amazed as yet.

Cresaptown Railroader Is Missing

Last Seen Near Connellsville, Pa.

State Police said last night that a 36-year-old Western Maryland Railway brakeman has been reported missing by his family since Tuesday after he left for work at 6 o'clock that morning.

Mrs. Edna Smith, wife of Willard C. Smith, Brant Road, Cresaptown, told police that her husband left for work Tuesday morning as brakeman for a freight train bound for Connellsville, Pa., and would have returned home the same evening.

When Smith failed to return she notified police and a teletype alarm for the missing man was immediately sent out to Pennsylvania and Maryland authorities.

State Police last night revealed the railroader had last been seen at Dickerson Run, Pa., a small town about six miles west of Connellsville and it is believed he may have gone to Connellsville.

Pennsylvania police said they were on the lookout for the six-foot blond-haired man at Connellsville and Connellsville authorities declared several men had been assigned to investigate the case.

Western Maryland dispatches said Smith left Cumberland Tuesday morning at 7 o'clock on a freight for Connellsville and had failed to make the return run. He has since been reported as "laying off," they added.

Smith's wife reported her husband is six feet one inch tall, weighs 175 pounds, has blue eyes and blond, wavy hair with ruddy complexion. He has a slim build and was wearing work clothes consisting of overalls, blue shirt, cap and work shoes when he left home.

COMING TO FAIR—This tremendous Aberdeen-Angus bull, owned by Longview Aberdeen-Angus Farm, Burlington, W. Va., will be on display again this year at the 34th annual Cumberland Fair, August 20 to 25, County Agent R. F. McHenry said yesterday. Envious Emulous, the bull, is too old to compete in the fair's beef cattle competition, which is limited to young animals. However, Envious Emulous attracted so much attention at last year's fair that McHenry is jumping at his owner's offer to exhibit him again this year at the fair. Envious Emulous has sired many show cattle, among them being Elisa of R. L. S., the 1947 International grand champion female; Envious Burgess H, the 1947 grand champion bull at the Fort Worth, Tex., Livestock Show and one of the herd sires in the Penney and James herd.

State Harvests 11,200 Acres Of Snap Beans

Free State farmers are completing the harvest of 11,200 acres of snap beans for canning and freezing this summer to keep Maryland in third place among the states in the amount of land planted with the vegetable, an American Can Company survey reveals.

The current Maryland snap bean acreage for processing represents a 10 per cent increase over last year's 10,500 acres, Dr. H. L. Stier, head of the Department of Markets, University of Maryland Extension Service, said. New York, in first place, planted 27,000 acres; Wisconsin, in second, 12,200.

L. M. Goodwin, Maryland district sales manager of the American Can Company, said that the 1951 acreage of snap beans for processing represented about 75 per cent of the total planted in the state for both the fresh and processing markets.

"The increasing importance to the farmer of the canning industry, which creates year-round markets for Maryland-produced vegetables, is evident from the nearly 800 per cent increase of the 1951 snap bean planting over the 1,300 acres grown in the state in 1918, the first year when records were kept," Mr. Goodwin said.

Baltimore County is the largest producer of snap beans in the state; most of the Eastern Shore counties as well as Carroll, Frederick and Arundel, also raise substantial amounts.

Formation Of Racket Squads Proposed At Crime Hearings

BALTIMORE, July 26—(AP)—A proposal to form special state police racket squads to aid counties in crime investigation needs "serious consideration," Col. Elmer F. Munshower, superintendent of State Police said today.

The suggestion came out in hearings at Hagerstown where a Legislative Committee is studying crime conditions in Western Maryland.

It got backing from two Circuit Court judges, George Henderson, of Allegany County, and Stedman Prescott, of Montgomery County.

Prescott contended that specially trained troopers could rescue state's attorneys who could not get local help.

Munshower said he would have to know more about the proposal before coming to a decision on it.

He pointed out that the recommendation was very general in nature. He said establishment of such racket squads would require a thorough understanding with the counties and a great deal of study to fit them in with the work of the subdivisions which have their own law enforcement groups.

He pointed out that state police plain clothesmen assist counties in investigations whenever called upon.

Building Nears Half-Million Mark For 1951

Total For July Reaches $24,945

Nearly half a million dollars has gone into construction in Cumberland since January, according to a monthly report released yesterday by the City Engineer's Office.

During July, the office granted permits for a total of $24,945 worth of building, bringing the total since January to $459,230.

New construction accounted for $22,595 of the total, while $2,350 was spent for additions and remodeling.

Of the new constructions, $21,800 was spent for houses and $795 for garages.

Although this month's total is considerably lower than the $56,800 recorded in June, it was noted that the difference was due largely to a single $25,000 permit granted last month to Potomac Edison for construction of a garage, shop and office.

Last month's total included $51,800 for new construction and $5,000 for additions and remodeling.

The July, 1950, total of $75,075 also was due in part to several large projects which were started at about the same time.

Youth Faces Forgery Charge

A 20-year-old Christie Road man, who has been confined in the Federal Reformatory at Petersburg, Va., nearly six months, is now lodged in the Allegany County Jail pending arraignment on a charge of forging a $13.25 check, which he allegedly cashed in a Cumberland grocery.

He is Raymond Everitt, RFD 2. He was committed to the Federal Reformatory after having been convicted on a federal charge of stealing a money order from a mail box, according to State Trooper William Baker. This offense was alleged to have happened January 31.

The warrant upon which Everitt now is being held in the county jail charges that on January 11 he forged the name of another man to a check which was cashed by the woman manager of an East Side grocery.

Everitt was brought from Petersburg to Cumberland Wednesday by Deputy Sheriff Edgar M. Lewis.

Besides the count he faces locally, Everitt also is wanted in Mineral County, W. Va., Circuit Court on a parole violation charge.

Zeller Explains His Reasons For Case Dismissal

Governor Terms Controversy Closed

BALTIMORE, July 26 (AP) — Magistrate Charles S. Zeller of Grantsville told Governor McKeldin that he dismissed a Garrett County truck weight case because of the way the charge was drawn.

McKeldin, who had asked for a complete report on the case, made public a letter from Zeller today. The Governor said he was satisfied with the magistrate's explanation.

Zeller dismissed a 7,100-pound overload charge against John O. Riley of Accident at a recent hearing, saying the new Maryland Truck Weight Law is "confusing, poorly written and a hardship."

Law Confusing

He told the Governor he does think the law is confusing, but he added:

"I assure you that at no time have I held the law in question up to ridicule and no such interpretation could have been placed on my statement by the reporter to whom I gave it."

He said he had dismissed the case on the ground that Riley's truck was not weighed in accordance with the law, which he said uses the term "axle load" without defining it.

The state has appealed the decision.

Imposes Hardship

Zeller also told the Governor that the law is imposing a hardship on operators in his area who haul mine posts. He said it is almost impossible to determine the weight of their loads because of varying factors, and as a result the men are underloading and therefore hauling unprofitable loads.

McKeldin said it is not his function to review the magistrate's decision, "but only to make certain that there has been no official misconduct."

"Certainly," the Governor added, "there is no evidence to indicate that the magistrate has not sincerely and conscientiously endeavored to perform his full duty, and the phase of the matter in which I was interested is closed."

Mine Lessee May Take Ties, Leave Rails

Judge Henderson Files Opinion

Although the lessee of a coal mine must leave his rails behind at the expiration of the lease, he is entitled to remove the railroad ties, Associate Judge George Henderson wrote in an opinion filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The opinion was written in an equity case which Walter E. Blank and Rosanna F. Blank, his wife, filed May 13, 1950, against William D. Williams, Lillian Williams, his wife, and Branson J. Nelson, constable.

Lease 365 Acres

The Blanks entered into a lease August 1, 1946, with the Williamses under which they leased 365 acres of land in Allegany County and Somerset County, Pa., for five years. Under terms of the lease, the Blanks were to pay royalties of 50 cents per ton of coal mined, with a minimum of $400 per month being provided. The mine property is in the vicinity of Mt. Savage.

Nelson became involved in the case because he had advertised the Blanks' mine property for sale, because they allegedly were in arrears in royalty payments.

Judge Henderson first entered an order in the case May 13, 1950, restraining the sale of mine property.

In his opinion filed yesterday, Judge Henderson quoted a provision from the lease. It provided:

"It is mutually agreed that any and all rails now on the property, or placed there by the lessee, shall remain there as the property of the lessors."

Agreed Facts

A number of agreed facts were stated in the opinion. Both parties agreed that at the time of the execution of the lease the ties in place in the mine were worth $20. At the present time, Blank values the ties at $207.50 and Williams at $87.50. It also is agreed that the lease terminates July 31 and that ties have been removed and stacked preparatory to selling, along with Blank's mining equipment. The rails are still in the mine along passageways. The rails in place at the time the lease was executed were worth $130, according to Blank, and $150, according to Williams. Both parties agree that the rails presently are worth $3,350, including switches.

Judge Henderson's opinion observes that the lease refers only to rails and does not provide that both rails and ties shall become the property of the lessee. He also notes that the rails placed in the mine by Blank, which the landlord is entitled to retain are worth $3,200.

Coupled with his opinion was an order providing that the Blanks retain title to the ties placed by them on the leased property.

The Blanks were represented by John T. Fey and William H. Geppert and the Williamses by Edward J. Ryan and William A. Gunter.

Police Continue To Probe Causes

State and county police investigators, probing into the causes of the fire which destroyed an unoccupied two-story frame dwelling at Phoenix Flat near Franklin yesterday, said last night it was a "definite case of arson."

Deputies William Chappell, Edgar M. Lewis and George Furstenburg of the sheriff's office and Trooper Milton G. Hart of Maryland State Police are still investigating the blaze.

Authorities said the house had been slightly damaged by fire earlier in the week and that "they came back and completed the job this time."

Although arson was discounted by the president of the Campbell Coal Company, Lonaconing, which owns the building, police, after making a complete investigation of the scene yesterday, said the fire had been set "by person or persons unknown." G. D. Campbell had expressed the belief that the blaze was of accidental origin and was probably caused by a group of boys playing there.

Sheriff's deputies also are working on the theory that the newest outbreak of vandalism and destruction might possibly be tied in with the recent explosions and fires set off at the Harris Powder Company, near Westernport.

Potomac Fire Company, Westernport and Tri-Towns Fire Company, Piedmont, responded to the alarm at 9 a. m. yesterday but said that inaccessibility of the house, located three miles north of Westernport, kept firemen from preventing the dwelling from being destroyed by the flames.

Fresh footprints on the ground made soft by recent rains were discovered by the investigators and police added they could trace where the arsonist entered and left the building although it had not yet been determined how the blaze had been set.

The home had been occupied until a month ago by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Green and their family but had been vacant since the Greens moved to nearby Franklin.

COMING TO FAIR—This tremendous Aberdeen-Angus bull, owned by Longview Aberdeen-Angus Farm, Burlington, W. Va., will be on display again this year at the 34th annual Cumberland Fair, August 20 to 25, County Agent R. F. McHenry said yesterday. Envious Emulous, the bull, is too old to compete in the fair's beef cattle competition, which is limited to young animals. However, Envious Emulous attracted so much attention at last year's fair that McHenry is jumping at his owner's offer to exhibit him again this year at the fair. Envious Emulous has sired many show cattle, among them being Elisa of R. L. S., the 1947 International grand champion female; Envious Burgess H, the 1947 grand champion bull at the Fort Worth, Tex., Livestock Show and one of the herd sires in the Penney and James herd.

TB Group Needs Volunteers For Mobile Unit

X-Ray Trailer To Arrive Wednesday

The Allegany County Tuberculosis Association needs several volunteer workers to help register Cumberlanders who will visit the mobile chest X-ray unit beginning next week.

Miss Jean Reinhard, executive secretary of the association, said those who desire to help may contact her at the office in the Union Street Building.

The unit will be at Fairgo again today, and will move on to Flintstone tomorrow, Zihlman Monday and Mt. Savage Tuesday, and will arrive in Cumberland Wednesday.

Noting a considerable decrease in this year's attendance elsewhere in the county, association officials urged Cumberlanders to take advantage of the unit's visit.

Patty Mulligan Crowned Queen

Twelve-year old Patty Mulligan was crowned Miss Pre-Teen of the West Side Playground in ceremonies last night.

Her princesses were Regina Cantone and Phyllis Young. Miss Pre-Teen was selected by popular vote among the playground patrons. The princesses were her nearest competitors for the honors. All three girls received prizes of jewelry.

William Soethe, president of the West Side Playground Association, crowned the queen and presented the prizes. A square dance, attended by about 400, followed the ceremonies.

Tuesday a doll show was the West Side Playground feature. Kay Smith won first prize for having the largest collection and oldest doll. Dixie Digman was awarded second prize with her foreign-dressed dolls. Third prize went to Amy Cantone with two infant dolls. About 15 competed.

"Wheels On Parade" was the special activity Monday. Prizes were won by Debbie Boden, first; Linda McMichael, second, and Marysl McMichael, third.

Mrs. Eva M. Hogan, playground director, reported that a picnic is held there each Wednesday. It is always concluded with a marshmallow toast, she added.

A games party has been carded for tonight.

Formation Of Racket Squads Proposed At Crime Hearings

BALTIMORE, July 26—(AP)—A proposal to form special state police racket squads to aid counties in crime investigation needs "serious consideration," Col. Elmer F. Munshower, superintendent of State Police said today.

The suggestion came out in hearings at Hagerstown where a Legislative Committee is studying crime conditions in Western Maryland.

It got backing from two Circuit Court judges, George Henderson, of Allegany County, and Stedman Prescott, of Montgomery County.

Prescott contended that specially trained troopers could rescue state's attorneys who could not get local help.

Munshower said he would have to know more about the proposal before coming to a decision on it.

He pointed out that the recommendation was very general in nature. He said establishment of such racket squads would require a thorough understanding with the counties and a great deal of study to fit them in with the work of the subdivisions which have their own law enforcement groups.

He pointed out that state police plain clothesmen assist counties in investigations whenever called upon.

Total For July Reaches $24,945

Nearly half a million dollars has gone into construction in Cumberland since January, according to a monthly report released yesterday by the City Engineer's Office.

During July, the office granted permits for a total of $24,945 worth of building, bringing the total since January to $459,230.

New construction accounted for $22,595 of the total, while $2,350 was spent for additions and remodeling.

Of the new constructions, $21,800 was spent for houses and $795 for garages.

Although this month's total is considerably lower than the $56,800 recorded in June, it was noted that the difference was due largely to a single $25,000 permit granted last month to Potomac Edison for construction of a garage, shop and office.

Last month's total included $51,800 for new construction and $5,000 for additions and remodeling.

The July, 1950, total of $75,075 also was due in part to several large projects which were started at about the same time.

Miss Alpha Phares, playground director, reports that the playground's next special event will be a stuffed animal parade at 7 p.m. Thursday, August 2.

Youth Faces Forgery Charge

A 20-year-old Christie Road man, who has been confined in the Federal Reformatory at Petersburg, Va., nearly six months, is now lodged in the Allegany County Jail pending arraignment on a charge of forging a $13.25 check, which he allegedly cashed in a Cumberland grocery.

He is Raymond Everitt, RFD 2. He was committed to the Federal Reformatory after having been convicted on a federal charge of stealing a money order from a mail box, according to State Trooper William Baker. This offense was alleged to have happened January 31.

The warrant upon which Everitt now is being held in the county jail charges that on January 11 he forged the name of another man to a check which was cashed by the woman manager of an East Side grocery.

Everitt was brought from Petersburg to Cumberland Wednesday by Deputy Sheriff Edgar M. Lewis.

Besides the count he faces locally, Everitt also is wanted in Mineral County, W. Va., Circuit Court on a parole violation charge.

Zeller Explains His Reasons For Case Dismissal

Governor Terms Controversy Closed

BALTIMORE, July 26 (AP) — Magistrate Charles S. Zeller of Grantsville told Governor McKeldin that he dismissed a Garrett County truck weight case because of the way the charge was drawn.

McKeldin, who had asked for a complete report on the case, made public a letter from Zeller today. The Governor said he was satisfied with the magistrate's explanation.

Zeller dismissed a 7,100-pound overload charge against John O. Riley of Accident at a recent hearing, saying the new Maryland Truck Weight Law is "confusing, poorly written and a hardship."

Law Confusing

He told the Governor he does think the law is confusing, but he added:

"I assure you that at no time have I held the law in question up to ridicule and no such interpretation could have been placed on my statement by the reporter to whom I gave it."

He said he had dismissed the case on the ground that Riley's truck was not weighed in accordance with the law, which he said uses the term "axle load" without defining it.

The state has appealed the decision.

Imposes Hardship

Zeller also told the Governor that the law is imposing a hardship on operators in his area who haul mine posts. He said it is almost impossible to determine the weight of their loads because of varying factors, and as a result the men are underloading and therefore hauling unprofitable loads.

McKeldin said it is not his function to review the magistrate's decision, "but only to make certain that there has been no official misconduct."

"Certainly," the Governor added, "there is no evidence to indicate that the magistrate has not sincerely and conscientiously endeavored to perform his full duty, and the phase of the matter in which I was interested is closed."

Yesterday afternoon, a dance team was chosen to represent the playground in tonight's City Folk Dancing Festival at Gephart Playground.

FORMAL CEASE-FIRE TALKS BEGIN

$1,045,940,115 Appropriation To Run Three Departments, Judiciary Voted

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—The House turned down the "get Acheson" amendment after angry debate today and then passed the State-Commerce-Justice Department appropriation bill.

It rejected numerous moves for big cuts in the measure to finance the three departments and the federal judiciary for the year which started July 1, including a proposal to slash funds for the "Voice Of America" to $70,000,000.

A total of $85,000,000 was voted for the "Voice" as compared with $115,000,000 asked by President Truman.

As it goes to the Senate the bill totals $1,045,940,115. Passage was by a voice vote. A motion to recommit the bill to committee with instructions to trim the "Voice Of America" appropriation by $70,000,000 was defeated on a roll call vote, 245 to 141.

Demos Charge "Sneak Attack"

The big fight was over a Republican-sponsored move to forbid use of any of the State Department's appropriation to pay any person with Secretary of State Dean Acheson's particular status and background. That lost 171 to 81 on a standing vote.

Before the ballot there was an hour of bitter quarreling over Democratic cries of "sneak attack" and challenges to the sponsors to try "straightforward impeachment."

The money is divided this way:

State: $226,357,000 instead of the $283,686,476 requested.

Justice: $181,567,000 instead of $184,346,000 requested.

Commerce: $612,098,000 instead of $763,763,925 requested.

Judiciary: $25,918,115 instead of $26,489,740 requested.

Jansen Amendment Added

The total is $212,356,026 below the overall budget requests of the President, but most of this cutting was done in committee and the House refused to make large additional reductions.

By standing votes the House added to the bill the now standard Jansen amendment aimed at cutting Civil Service personnel to 80 per cent of present levels, with some exceptions. It also voted to limit United States contributions to operational expenses of international organizations to one-third of the total cost.

Defeated by a tie vote, 154 to 154, was an amendment that would have cut the budget of domestic information and public relations employes by 25 per cent.

Field Says Army Intelligence Post Was Offered Him

Balks At Questions About Communists

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP) — Frederick Vanderbilt Field, wealthy New York leftist, balked today at questions designed to connect him with Communists. But he testified the U. S. Army offered him an intelligence commission during World War II which he failed to get.

Persons outside the Army blocked the commission, he said, because of a "certain problem."

He refused to say what the "problem" was, or to identify the Army officers he said had initiated efforts to get him a commission.

Questioned For Two Hours

Field, dressed in a striped gray suit, white shirt and black tie, was questioned for more than two hours in the Senate inquiry into whether subversive influences affected American Far Eastern policy.

He appeared before the Senate Internal Security Committee as a former official of the Institute of Pacific Relations (IPR), a private organization interested in the Far East.

The first question Field declined to answer, on grounds it might tend to incriminate him, was whether he posted bonds for Communist leaders. He has been serving a 90-day jail sentence for contempt in refusing to tell a New York federal judge who contributed to a $80,000 Civil Rights Congress bail fund for Communist who skipped following conviction with seven others for conspiracy to teach the overthrow of the government by violence.

Three Tried To "Break Jam"

Field was brought here by two federal prison officers.

Questioned about the Army commission, he said at least three persons tried to "break the jam" blocking the assignment.

The three were identified as William T. Stone, State Department officer; Edward C. Carter, a trustee of the IPR, and Owen Lattimore, one-time State Department consultant and now a professor at Johns Hopkins University.

West Berliners Raid Red Zone

BERLIN, July 26 (AP)—A dozen hardy West Berliners battled Communists in the Soviet sector for four hours today. They hurled bricks into the Russian area, crossed the border and beat up a German Red, then retired to a beer saloon to celebrate.

The row started when the Communist loudspeaker system boomed a message across the American sector border urging West Berlin's unemployed men to come to the Soviet sector and "discuss" their problems.

A few West Berliners went over and joined a group of Red agitators. But East and West couldn't see eye to eye, and tempers flared. The intended tete-a-tete broke up in brick throwing, and the westerners retired to the safety of the American sector.

There they regrouped in a saloon. After a couple of beers they decided the Communists weren't so tough. Led by a brawny truck driver, the little band sallied forth and resumed the brick throwing.

Shopkeepers hastily lowered their steel shutters long before closing time. A riot squad from West Berlin police headquarters broke up the gathering, but when the police left the hail of bricks started again. A few Communists joined in the brick throwing from their side.

Reynaud Declines

Racial Segregation To End In Army Far East Command

WASHINGTON, July 26. (AP)—The Army announced today that it is ending racial segregation in the Far East Command, closing the 82-year history of its oldest and last negro regiment.

It said the integration of white and negro troops at all levels in Japan, Korea and Okinawa would be completed in about six months. It also announced the disbandment of the 24th Infantry Regiment which has been a fighting part of the 25th Division throughout the Korean campaign.

The 24th Regiment was organized at Fort McKavitt, Tex., in 1869. It won its first battle honors in the frontier campaigns against the Indians and achieved its greatest fame as one of the units which stormed San Juan Hill at Santiago, Cuba, in the Spanish-American War.

The regimental insignia shows the stone blockhouse at the crest of the hill which the negro regiment captured as Col. Theodore Roosevelt's Rough Riders swarmed up another slope.

The 24th had the distinction of being the first negro unit to get into the war in the Pacific in 1942. It fought in the Solomons, the Marianas and the Okinawa campaigns and in 1946 joined the occupation force in Japan.

Senate Housing Bill Is Shelved By Conferees

OK Rent Rollbacks In Critical Areas

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—Senate-House conferees tonight shelved a stripped-down version of the administration's defense housing bill in writing new economic controls legislation.

The setback on that score was offset by an earlier victory for administration forces. That came when the conference committee agreed to permit rents in newly designated critical defense areas to be rolled back to levels in effect just before the Korean war.

Conference committee officials said the Senate conferees agreed to removal of the housing measure from the controls bill after the House conferees had promised that the measure will be considered as separate legislation by the House Banking Committee on Monday.

Truman Voices Protest

The Senate housing bill would authorize an additional $1,500,000,000 in Federal Housing Administration mortgage insurance for new home construction. The administration had requested a $3,000,000,000 authorization.

At his news conference today President Truman protested that his housing legislation had been torn to pieces in the House. He said foes of the measure were trying to accomplish the same thing in the Senate.

The committee action on the housing measure came at a night session as the conferees drove for a final agreement on compromise legislation to extend wage, price, rent, and other emergency controls. The present controls law expires at midnight next Tuesday.

House Shelved Housing Measure

The conferees are trying to iron out differences between separate extension bills passed by the Senate and the House.

The housing measure was passed by the Senate early this year as a separate bill, but it went into a pigeonhole in the House.

As a result, the Senate tacked it on as a rider when it passed the economic controls bill last month.

It appeared that Mr. Truman may have meant his comment the other way around—that it had been torn to pieces in the Senate and that opponents were trying to do likewise in the House.

Boy Admits Setting Fire Fatal To Eight

SAN FRANCISCO, July 26 (AP)—Chief Homicide Inspector Frank Ahern said today a 17-year-old boy had admitted setting the apartment house fire that took the lives of eight persons Sunday.

Ahern identified the boy as Kenneth Skinner, a high school senior. He was questioned at the Hall of Justice by Fire Marshall Frank Kelly and members of the homicide detail.

12 Secondary Red Leaders Seized By FBI

Arrests Made In Three Cities

SAN FRANCISCO, July 26. (AP)—The FBI swiftly arrested 12 secondary Communists in a new move against the party today.

Mary Bernadette Doyle, 45, a party organizer for the mission district in San Francisco, was the twelfth person taken into custody late today.

Earlier, four other women and seven men, secondary functionaries of the party, had been apprehended in quick FBI action in San Francisco, Los Angeles and New York.

Miss Doyle was taken hurriedly before U. S. Commissioner Francis St. J. Fox, who set bail at $2,500 for her and two other women seized here.

The commissioner agreed to the government's demands, however, for $75,000 bail on the four men arrested in San Francisco. He commented that higher bail for Miss Doyle was not justified because she is under medical treatment.

$100,000 Is Top Bail

In New York, the high bail of $100,000 had been set earlier for William Schneiderman, 45-year-old chairman of the California Communist State Committee and top Red executive at national headquarters.

Bail of $75,000 each had been fixed for the two women and two men apprehended at Los Angeles.

The government here also demended $75,000 bail each on the contention that the secondary Communists might flee, as did four of the 11 top Communists.

Miss Doyle has participated in California politics. In last year's election she polled more than 600,000 votes for state superintendent of public instruction. Her vote count was a surprise.

Warrants Were Issued

However, Incumbent Roy Simpson was reelected and Miss Doyle's opponents contended she had obtained her huge vote because many persons did not know she was a Communist, or were under misapprehensions about the election.

The new move against the Communists was launched by the Department of Justice which charged them with conspiracy to teach and advocate the violent overthrow of the U. S. government.

Several of those arrested claimed they were taken without warrants, but U. S. Attorney Chauncey Tramutolo told the U. S. commissioner that warrants had been issued for each of the defendants.

Mrs. Loretta Starvius Stack, 38, San Francisco, a former organizational secretary for California, told a newsman that FBI agents broke down the door to her home.

Man Believed Slain Turns Up

DENVER, July 26 (AP)—A tall, slim 43-year-old man—one detective described him as a "farmer-looking sort of guy"—was the key figure today in a mystery involving a Louisiana killing.

The man, speaking in a mild drawl, said he didn't know a thing about it. The big puzzle in the case is that he has used the same name which authorities in Louisiana had thought was the name of the slaying victim.

Arrested while getting his hair cut, the man said he has been known here as John C. Harper, but also has used the name, Sam Jones. Louisiana officers, here to question Harper, said a man identified as Sam Jones was stabbed to death near New Orleans more than two years ago and was buried under that name.

Harper told Detective Capt. Charles J. Burns of the Denver police, he knew nothing of the stabbing or of the fact a co-worker of Jones, Donald Easterwood, 26, had been tried for the slaying and acquitted. The jury even took up a $100 collection to give Easterwood a fresh start.

More Power Promised Many TV Stations

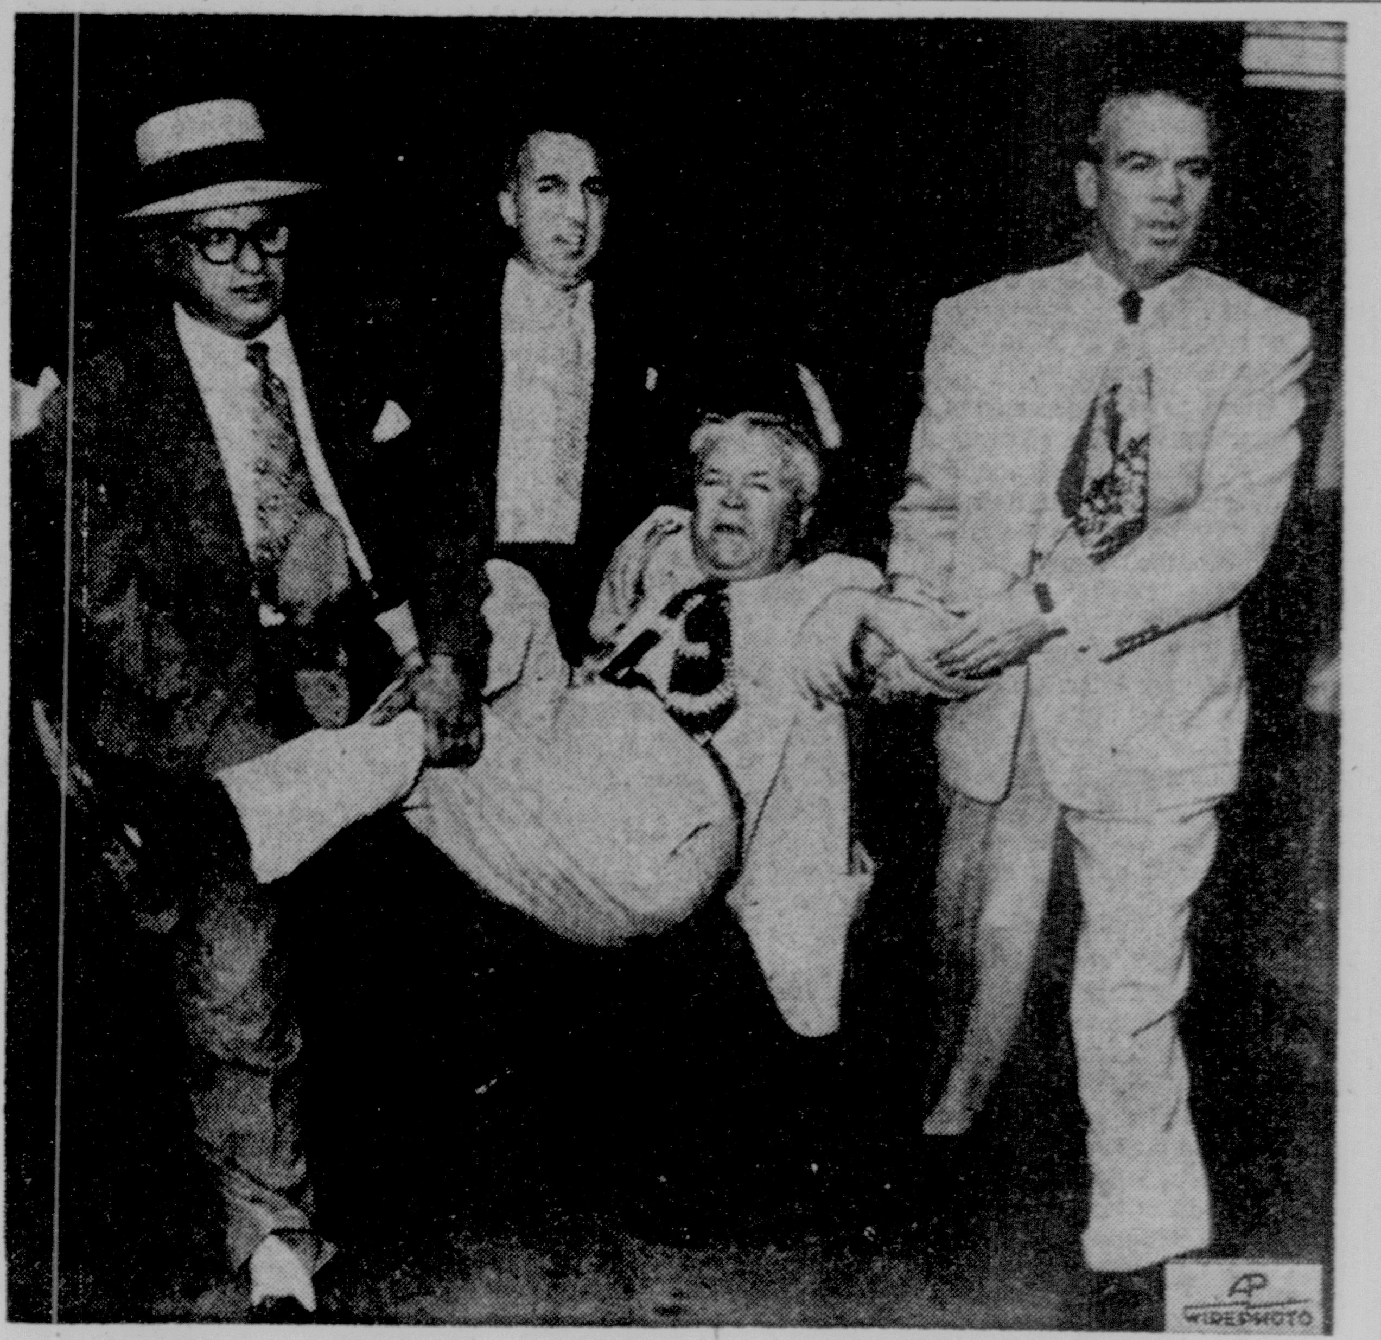
WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP) — More power for many existing television stations was promised today by the Federal Communications Commission.

It said it will take this step promptly, relaxing for the first time the television freeze of 34 months ago.

The action is largely intended to benefit those stations which were caught by the freeze order of Oct. 1, 1948, while operating on less power than was originally granted them in their construction permits.



This TV Act Wasn't Rehearsed

Raymond O'Keefe, a former state representative in the Illinois Legislature, is carried to a taxicab after being ejected yesterday from a televised news conference on crime and gambling in Cook County. O'Keefe was ejected for causing a disturbance at the Chicago telecast, which featured Cook County Sheriff John Babb and State's Attorney John Boyle. Policemen George Rumatz, Edward Powell and Lt. James Oakey do the carrying. (Story at bottom of page)

Truman Implies Politician Went Off Half-Cocked With "Ike"-Douglas Suggestion

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—President Truman today tartly implied that a Chicago politician went off half-cocked by suggesting Gen. Eisenhower or Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois as Democratic presidential prospects if Mr. Truman doesn't run in 1952.

The subject came up at Mr. Truman's news conference when a reporter said the Eisenhower-Douglas suggestion had been raised by Jacob Arvey, Chicago political leader.

With a dry chuckle, Mr. Truman said he thought Jake went off half-cocked once before in the history of the country.

"In 1948?" a reporter asked.

Yes, Mr. Truman said.

It was during the 1948 campaign that Arvey sought to draft Gen. Eisenhower before the Democratic convention. Later, Arvey supported Mr. Truman.

More Hopeful For Peace

The President again ducked questions about his own intentions, and declined to say whether he will swing out on another "give-'em-hell" stumping tour this year.

The President also touched on these other topics:

1. He is more hopeful over the outlook for peace as a result of progress in the Korean armistice talks.

2. He is looking into charges by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch that Chairman William M. Boyle, Jr., of the Democratic National Committee got $8,000 in fees from a St. Louis firm which received a $565,000 federal loan .

3. The President denied that Gen. Douglas MacArthur had been threatened with any reprisals over the five-star General's attacks on the Truman administration.

Housing Program Scuttled

4. The President said his program for public housing has been torn to pieces in the House and opponents are trying to knock new holes in it in the Senate.

5. Mr. Truman indirectly took a pot shot at CIO President Philip Murray for making public a letter asking him to push the Missouri Valley Authority proposal as an aftermath of the midwest floods.

The Chief Executive said he is always courteous about correspondence and doesn't comment on what he has written somebody until that person has received the letter.

Airliner, 46 Aboard, Lands Tail Down

NEW YORK, July 26 (AP) — An airliner with 46 persons aboard made a tail-down landing at Idlewild airport tonight, and skidded 2,000 feet amid sparks and flames to a safe stop.

No one was injured and there was no fire. The Northwest Airlines DC-4 came in from Detroit.

The pilot radioed he was having trouble with his nose gear. Although it appeared to be in position, he decided not to trust it and landed with tail down and the nose high, the single forward wheel off the runway.

The 43 passengers huddled to the rear of the four-engined plane to add weight on the tail.

Warplane Board Boss Takes Over

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP) — The country today got a new warplane production boss simultaneously with a disclosure that aircraft deliveries dropped last month instead of rising.

Harold R. (Bill) Boyer of Detroit took over as chairman of a new Aircraft Production Board and deputy chief of the Defense Production Administration for aircraft.

The jobs were created on orders of Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson. Boyer is General Motors' director of production engineering.

Boyer told a news conference he was not disturbed at what he called a "very slight" decline in plane deliveries in June.

"I'm worried about the prospect six months to a year from now when the buildup really gets under way," Boyer said.

Senate Votes Funds For Soil Conservation

WASHINGTON, Julyq 26 (AP) — The Senate, brushing aside cries for "economy," today voted $280,000,000 for this year's payments to farmers for soil conservation. The figure, approved without a rollcall vote, is $23,500,000 more than the House had voted.

Earlier the senators on a 41-39 roll call had voted authorization for the same amount next year, up $55,000,000 from the amount the House allowed. They turned back repeated efforts to whittle down the sums, which in some cases couldn't even muster enough strength to get a record vote.

The Senate did, however, finally make one cut of $2,000,000 in the appropriation bill carrying more than a billion dollars for the Agriculture Department's operations in the year which started July 1.

Acheson Charts Vast, Three-Year Global Aid Plan

Program's Cost Set At $25,000,000,000

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson set before Congress today a vast global aid program costing $25,000,000,000 for the defense of U. S. allies in the next three years.

That is the price, he said, to counter Soviet Russia's designs and bring about "an era of genuine relaxation of tension."

Acheson said Spain will get a share of the money—he did not say how much—but he declared that "considerable time must elapse" before Spain could be admitted into the North Atlantic Treaty Alliance.

$8.5 Billion First Installment

Testifying before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Acheson disclosed that the administration's current request for $8,500,000,000 in foreign aid is only the first installment in a proposed long-range program.

Two more installments of about the same size will be needed, he said, to equip this country's allies in Europe and Asia.

With some congressional critics already sharpening their knives to trim the huge program, Sen. Lodge (R-Mass) came up with an assist for the administration even as Acheson testified.

Eisenhower Gives Warning

On the Senate floor, Lodge read a statement quoting Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Alfred M. Fruenther, as saying that if the proposed fund for European aid is cut in half, it would chop 14 divisions off the European defense force.

Gruenther also declared it would mean a 25 per cent cut in the number of air squadrons for the forces under Eisenhower.

Lodge is supporting the military aid program.

Acheson told the Senate committee that the end of U. S. aid might come in 1955 so far as original equipment is concerned. He said it might be necessary to continue after that with some maintenance help, but the amount would be comparatively small.

Uproarious TV Conference Marked By Man's Ejection

CHICAGO, July 26 (AP) — A televised joint news conference of Cook (Chicago) County's politically opposed sheriff and state's attorney was thrown into an uproar today, as 500,000 viewers watched.

Former State Rep. Raymond T. O'Keefe, 61, an assistant to State's Attorney John S. Boyle, was carried bodily from a NBC studio where the conference was held.

Three Chicago television stations carried the unusual meeting as a public service. Officials of the three stations in the Chicago area watched the proceedings.

Principals in the conference were Doyle, a Democrat, and Sheriff John E. Babb, a Republican. A local newspaper suggested the joint meeting and Boyle asked that it be televised for the benefit of the public. Babb agreed.

In the midst of the meeting, O'Keefe began shouting. TV cameramen said he had seated himself on a spotlight truck after thrusting himself between the camera and the conference table.

When he was asked to move, O'Keefe began shouting:

"I'm trying to make Boyle governor.

"I've got a son in the Marines."

Accord Reached On 5-Point Agenda

U. N. ADVANCE HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Friday, July 27 (AP) — The eleventh — and brasstacks — meeting toward an armistice in the Korean war adjourned today after an hour and 15 minute session.

There was no immediate announcement of developments during the conference — in which United Nations and Communist delegations tackled four vital issues on which a cease-fire depends.

It was announced the conference will be resumed at 10 a.m. tomorrow (7 p.m., EST, Friday).

Today's meeting began promptly in Kaesong — at 10 a.m.

In a 58-minute session Thursday the conferees agreed on a five-point agenda in nine minutes, and spent the remaining time in preliminary discussion of the basic issues.

A sharp warning against overoptimism for an early end of the 13-month-old war was issued, however, by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's United Nations Advance Headquarters.

"It is much too early to predict either the success or the rate of progress to be obtained," said the headquarters communique.

Wide Divergence Of Views

At present there is a wide divergence of views, it stated.

It said there were "numerous basic points" on which agreement must be found before hostilities can end.

Furthermore, the communique warned:

"It must be fully realized that mutual acceptance of the agenda is merely the initial step toward the final goal of a military armistice and resultant cease-fire, which must be achieved under conditions giving every reasonable assurance against the resumption of hostilities."

The United Nations command apparently wanted to make sure that the Reds would not use an armistice and cease-fire to mask another effort to drive the Allies into the sea.

In Washington, Secretary of State Acheson expressed similar concern. He said that if the armistice talks should collapse "we should be ready for a major Communist assault . . . the enemy has been building up his forces throughout this period."

Agenda Points Listed

In seeking an armistice, the U. N. and Red delegations have agreed to discuss these points:

1. Adopt an agenda — which they did immediately.

2. Fix a military demarcation line and establish a de-militarized zone between the two belligerents. This buffer zone would be a basic condition for ending hostilities.

3. Make firm arrangements for realization of a cease-fire and armistice in Korea, including the composition, authority and function of a supervising organization for carrying out the terms of the cease-fire. This referred to creation of a neutral international group to see that neither side violates the terms of the armistice.

4. Make arrangements relating to the exchange of prisoners of war.

5. Make recommendations to the governments of the countries concerned on both sides. This last item apparently covered future discussion of the Communist demands that all foreign troops be withdrawn from Korea "as a practical condition" for a final peace.

Experiment Ends As Raft Overturns

BELLAIRE, O., July 26 (AP) — A raft with two bachelors and two women aboard, conducting what was described as a socialogical experiment, turned over near here this evening.

It has not yet been confirmed that all aboard were saved.

In charge of the party was Mary Ellin McGrady, 24, a University of Michigan student, who had said during a stop in Wheeling last night that she would keep a record of the adjustments made by the four while living together in a confined space.

Others reported aboard the craft named "Lethargia," were listed as Geraldine Garcia, 23, Boston artist; Milton Borden, 30, New Bedford, Mass., and Don Brown, 24, a Michigan student from Detroit.

An unidentified witness told a newsman he believed he saw one of the victims swimming toward the West Virginia shore. He said he thought a passing towboat, the John Rankin, picked up two others, while another vessel picked up the fourth.

The party set out from New Kensington, Pa., and was headed for New Orleans via the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers.

drafted into the German occupation forces in France, escaped through the French guerilla underground to England where he served during World War II with the English army. Another brother, Henry, 21, now living in Munich with his parents, recently completed schooling as a waiter and in the near future expects to become a director of waiters.

Served On Carrier

Carder, who attended Oldtown High School, enlisted in the U. S. Navy in May of 1945 and after boot training at Bainbridge Md. was assigned to the USS Randolph, an aircraft carrier, and saw sea duty in the Atlantic. He was a Seaman 1c upon discharge in July 1946 and joined the Naval Reserves.

The following year he enlisted in the regular army and received training at Fort George G. Meade, Fort Dix, N. J., and Arlington Hall Station in Virginia where he was a member of the Army Security Agency.

May 10, 1947 he left Camp Kilmer, N. J. and landed in Bremenhaven, Germany, 11 days later. He enlisted for another year while in Europe and the Army extended his stay one year more. His discharge date is scheduled July 22 of next year but he said yesterday he plans to make a career of military life.

Leave For America

The Carder family left for America on July 12 of this year, landed in New York Harbor, received processing at Fort Hamilton, N. Y., and arrived here in Cumberland early yesterday morning.

Carder remarked of the plentiful supply of food now seen in German markets although he said the automobile and other luxuries are at a premium. Manufacturing is definitely on the uptrend in Europe, he added.

When questioned on his marriage of his pretty wife he said the various papers and visas necessary for him to bring her to America took quite a while to come through. About the only thing on young Stanton's mind yesterday afternoon was getting a bit of "shut-eye." As to Carder and his wife they plan to see the sights prior to the end of his 15 days delay enroute, at which time he will be reassigned pending his orders.

American Church Membership Increased 56% Last Year

NEW YORK — (AP) — American church membership in 1950 rose to 85,705,280—an unparalleled 55.9 per cent of the population, an annual survey showed today.

The new figure represents a membership gain of 2,950,987.

The report, compiled by the Christian Herald Magazine which makes the only comprehensive, regular survey of church membership in the United States, disclosed these counts for the major faiths:

Protestant membership increased 1,409,045 to 50,083,686, or 2.89 per cent over the previous year.

Roman Catholics gained 859,784 to bring their total to 28,470,092, up 3.1 per cent.

Jewish Stays Same

Jewish congregations, minus any new statistics, stayed at 5,000,000.

"The major faiths," the report said, "continue in about the same proportion to each other.

"Protestants are still well in the lead, with 58.5 per cent of all church members. Roman Catholics claim 33.2 per cent of the total, while Jewish congregations account for 5.8 per cent."

Other groups make up the remaining 2.5 per cent.

Altogether, memberships of the various faiths climbed 3.56 per cent last year, while population grew only 1.67 per cent—thus putting church membership at an all-time record of 55.9 per cent of the nation.

At present, 44.1 per cent do not belong to any church. Fifty years ago, 65.3 per cent were in this category.

The 1950 overall increase in membership of 2,950,987 compares with lesser gains of 2,426,723 in 1949, and 2,190,264 in 1948 However, the report said of the 1950 gains:

"There was no spectacular turning to religion, no spiritual upheaval. Religion fought for every foot of gain; there were no easy, sweeping advances. But there was a continuation of even growth x x."

Besides membership gains, 3,214 new congregations were formed last year, raising the total to 278,479.

Biggest membership gains by any single Protestant denomination was by the Southern Baptist, which added 318,624 members.

With 7,079,889 members, the Southern Baptist now is the "fastest growing denomination in the United States," the report said, and within 10 years, "may well be our largest."

The Methodist church, still the largest Protestant denomination, had the second highest membership gain, adding 143,078, to bring its total to 8,935,647.

The survey, which covered 221 Protestant and 32 non-Protestant religious bodies, noted that 13 of the top Protestant bodies have 76 per cent of the total membership, and that 38 have 95 per cent of the membership.

Small Churches Grow

Although the larger churches accounted for a "lion's share" of the numerical increase, the report said, the small churches grew faster percentagewise—indicating they "were doing the best job of evangelism."

In comparing the three major religious groups, the report noted that roughly one out of every three persons was a Protestant, one out of every five a Catholic, and one out of 20 Jewish or member of some other non-Protestant group.

However, the report said statistical strengths of Protestants and Roman Catholics do not give an entirely accurate picture because:

1. Catholics count all baptized persons, from infant up, as members, while most Protestant churches count only those who have come to full membership, usually from the age of 13 up.

2. The Catholic church never drops a member from its rolls except in "rare instances" while most Protestant churches "at least make a gesture" toward weeding out non-participants.

"If a more accurate comparison were to be made," the report said, "either approximately 25 per cent should be deducted from the Catholic figure, or at least 20 per cent added to the Protestant figure."

Spain And The Allies

Foreign offices of Great Britain, France, and other Western European nations understandably hope that the new military agreement between the United States and Spain will not lead eventually to a formal alliance between those two nations. Any such alliance, they fear, would dilute American interest in the defense of their countries.

The Western European leaders probably fear also that the United States will buy the cooperation of Spain with funds that would otherwise go to other European nations. Congress was asked by President Truman on May 24 for $8.5 billion—plus a $1 billion increase in the lending power of the Export-Import Bank—for economic and military aid for foreign nations. Not included was any provision for military aid to Spain.

European nations were to get more than $5 billion in military aid alone. The British and French governments evidently fear that now Congress will be tempted to earmark some of those funds for military assistance to Spain.

Secretary of State Acheson on July 18 issued a statement designed to allay these fears. In the event of war, the United States would not plan to pull European defense line behind the Pyrenees, as some Europeans fear. "It has been and is our firm intention to see to it that if Western Europe is attacked it will be defended—and not liberated."

Nevertheless, the Administration's decision to aid Spain at all represents a complete about-face. Secretary Acheson as recently as May, 1949, called the roll of basic individual rights enjoyed under Western European governments and in this country but not enjoyed in Spain. Then he said: "None of them (the Western European governments) say, nor do we say, that Spain, which has never been a full-flowered democracy, must become so. But they all say that there must be some move toward that situation."

Perhaps Franco's newly scrambled cabinet will make "some move" toward democracy. Secretary Acheson's statement on July 18 hinted that the State Department expects a gesture in that direction.

The United States had supported at the San Francisco conference on the United Nations charter in 1945 a motion to bar any regime which had been affiliated with the enemies of the Allies. That meant Spain. But on November 4, 1950, the United States was among 38 nations voting for a UN General Assembly resolution lifting the boycott on diplomatic relations with Spain.

Even so, President Truman said it would be a "long time" before the United States sent an ambassador to Madrid. One month and three days later, the President named Stanton Griffis to that post.

Britain and France have since exchanged ambassadors with Spain. And by 1949, the United Kingdom and France had outranked the United States in trade with Spain.

Some doubt obtains as to the effectiveness of Spain's 22 organized divisions of ground troops. General Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, spoke for American military men in general on June 2 when he said the Atlantic bloc "would be better off" with Spain, Greece, and Turkey in the alliance.

In presenting his credentials to President Truman on January 17, Spanish Ambassador Lequerica said Spain was ready to defend Europe against aggression. Spain's 400,000-man army, he added, could be expanded to 1,000,000 men within two weeks. But the troops which paraded on April 12 in the 12th anniversary of Franco's victory in the Spanish Civil war displayed only pre-World War II weapons.

Summers Are Different

Perhaps it's only temporary, but there seems to be a paucity of those worth-while items from near and far that formerly made up the summer news budget. Oh, yes, the Channel swimmers are up to full strength, and there are the usual hot weather warnings to avoid lightening, cramps and sunstroke.

Loch Ness hasn't let the reading public down, either, and the customary monster has been reported by the customary fishermen in time for the tourist trade.

A Massachusetts farmer is sued because his horse ran into and damaged an automobile, a socially significant item which reenforces a growing conviction that the automobile, modern vintage, is not here to stay at that.

New York City is having its usual and unmetered water shortage, although with reservoirs at 88 per cent of capacity it can be seen this is a diluted shortage at that. Naples contributes a heart-rending yarn about an ex-American economist, Lucky Luciano, whose shoes used to retail at $500 a pair, living in a $2 hotel room, sans tub and shower, also subpoenas.

Still, the old solid stuff isn't there. Why, Cape May and Cape Cod between them haven't produced a single worth-while monster all year. Not a fish, equipped with horns and tail lights, has been sighted along the whole Jersey coast. New England has done no better.

From Texas not even a run of the mill two-headed steer has been adopted by a family Airedale. And the younger generation knows nothing about temperatures that formerly set sweaty gentlemen to frying eggs on the sidewalks of New York.

Nope, save for the cost of living, it's been flat everywhere without a flying saucer to punctuate the running story about the out again, in again Reds and their mysterious bail. Nary a word about midgets sitting on financiers' laps anymore, which may be due to the fact that both midgets and financiers are now working for the internal revenue department like the rest of us. Ah, well, it's probably going to be a short summer anyway.

Editorial Paragraphs

Scientists are attempting to ascertain what keeps the mink warm in the coldest weather. It could be the coat he wears, the sort recently mentioned in an RFC hearing.

In New York pearl necklaces have been reduced from $20,000 to half that figure, but there are no reports of mobs storming the stores to grab the bargains.

Now it is proposed to establish a training course in Washington to teach government officials the value of money. In the primary grades, presumably, they would start at the bottom, with millions.

A member of Congress charges the government is trying to make honesty illegal. Perhaps on the theory more people then would want to be honest.

Kansas, former home of the dust bowl, has been plagued by floods all spring and summer. Kansas weather cannot be accused of being sot in its ways.

Heavy Legs

Many of our readers would like to know how to reduce fat legs. This question is difficult to answer because few women provide all the essential details. After all, enlargement may be a glandular or circulatory disturbance, dropsy, infection, or ordinary fat.

Because obesity usually is associated with heavy legs most women recognize this cause. Fewer calories and less salt often will take care of this problem. Exercising the legs may help to increase the tone of the muscles and improve the shape of the legs but shifting fat from one area to another is not as easy as we have been led to believe by those utilizing rolling pins, massage, or vibrators.

Lipedema, a somewhat simliar condition, is traceable to fatty deposits and the accumulation of fluid. The individual may be stout but even if weight is lost the legs and buttocks remain the same. Swelling is accentuated by standing and walking, especially in warm weather. The majority of victims are women and both legs are involved. Altho bed rest may decrease the size of the limbs they never return to normal proportions as does milk leg. The feet usually escape; the skin is soft and pliable but pressure over the distended part is painful. Many lipedema sufferers complain of aching of the enlarged parts, particularly during activity.

The defect is not pleasant and may lead to anxiety and tension. Many are ashamed of their legs or feel that their life is ruined because of their size. They wear long skirts and seldom if ever go to the beach. These women generally stand behind chairs at parties and rarely walk by a full length mirror without taking a peak at their legs.

Treatment is unsatisfactory. Losing weight is recommended because it tends to keep the overall size of the body at a minimum. Heat and massage may relieve tenderness. An elastic stocking or bandage is advised when the individual must be up and about for long periods of time. The only consoling feature is that the condition is not hazardous to life or health.

Some individuals develop enlargement of one or both legs early in life because of a defect in the lymphatic system (lymphedema). As is lipedema females are favored especially in teen-age. Puffiness begins about the feet and ankles and spreads gradually to the legs and thighs. It is worse in warm weather and the menses and has a tendency to subside temporarily after bed rest. Heredity may play a role because many state that other members of the family are affected in a similar manner.

Lymphedema is acquired later in life. It is brought on by a disturbance of the lymphatic system. The same type of enlargement occurs when a leg or vein becomes obstructed thru inflammation. Only one leg is involved as a rule in these two disturbances. In the majority of instances the enlargement appears after operation, childbirth, or infection elsewhere in the body.

Secretary Chapman Sees Possible Gas Rationing, Heatless Days This Winter; Shortages Here Show Importance To U. S. Of Events In Near East

WASHINGTON.—A grim prospect of fuel shortages this winter was presented to President Truman in a sober, hour-long meeting by Secretary of Interior Oscar Chapman recently. Chapman, who is no "wolf" crier, pointed out the following chances of gas rationing and heatless days this winter:

For Oil and Gasoline—Iranian oil production, which supplies five per cent to the needs outside the iron curtain, may be halted for weeks and even months. In addition, Soviet agents are trying to stir up trouble in other Near East oil areas. Since the Near East supplies fuel for Western European defenses, the difference will have to be made up from the Americas—if Soviet agitation succeeds.

Chapman explained that the oil industry could not increase domestic production unless it gets more steel.

"We need 2,135,000 tons of steel pipe," he said, "if we are going to meet the increasing demands of this country."

Some 300,000 barrels of crude oil production are already backed up in the West Texas Mexico basin for lack of pipe, the Secretary of Interior continued, and a 100,000-barrel a day production in the Rocky Mountains is awaiting completing of the Platte pipeline. One hope, however, was more oil from Mexico, and that was why he was flying to Mexico, Chapman explained.

Ban On Gas Furnaces

Natural Gas — The industry has overexpanded and already does not have the pipe to bring gas to all its customers. An order prohibiting further installation of natural gas homeheating units is a must. Without such a stop-order, the Appalachian area will have a serious shortage in case next winter has even two weeks of sub-normal cold weather. Defense factories, in this case, would come first,, homes last.

Coal—There is plenty of coal in the ground for both domestic and West European rearmament, but a big bottleneck is gondola coal cars. Chapman estimated there must be an increase of 150,000 such railroad cars next year. Again, steel is involved.

Aluminum — Secretary Chapman estimated that we will need a step-up of nearly 1,000,000 tons a year. He has been negotiating for six months to bring smaller companies into the industry and break the hold of the three major producers.

NOTE—The above is why events in the Near East, including oil troubles in Iran, the assassination of King Abdullah in Trans-Jordan, and riots in Egypt are so important to the U.S.A.

Missing Witness

The real reason Irving Sherman gave himself up and agreed to testify before the Senate Crime Committee is that he is sore at his former friend, ex-Mayor O'Dwyer of New York City, now ambassador to Mexico. Sherman is the long-missing fitness alleged to be the link between O'Dwyer and racketeer Frankie Costello. In fact, FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover testified that Sherman is "one of the most prominent criminals of the underworld," and the man who helped O'Dwyer win the mayorality election in 1945.

After offering through his attorney to testify, Sherman finally met face-to-face behind closed doors with the most crusading member of the committee, New Hampshire's Bible-quoting Sen. Charles Tobey. Here's what happened at that dramatic meeting:

Tobey demanded curtly why Sherman had been hiding out from a Senate subpoena. With a shrug, Sherman, explained that he had been staying at the Saxony Hotel in Miami Beach. He admitted reading that the committee was looking for him, but insisted that he hadn't kept his whereabouts a secret.

Sherman's lawyer, Louis Waldman,, then announced that his client was ready to make a complete statement. Waldman explained blandly that Sherman felt he had been wronged by O'Dwyer. Breaking in, Sherman also explained that his garment business suffered financially from all the bad publicity. The lawyer and client then requested a "few days" to prepare a "detailed statement."

So far, however, no statement has been submitted.

GI Mailbag

This column tries to investigate and answer the many GI gripes that pour in from military camps and bases around the world. Here are some recent gripes from the GI mailbag:

A Sergeant with the Eighth Army in Korea: "I read that General Mark Clark thinks American enlisted men are spoiled with luxuries. If anyone is spoiled in this man's army, it's the brass hats. Why don't you investigate how many personal servants some of the top brass have?"

Answer: Gen. Mark Clark, chief of the Army's field forces, has four enlisted men assigned to him as personal servants—one driver, one Cook and two house orderlies. Army Chief of Staff General Collins has six servants—two drivers, one cook and three orderlies. Air Force Chief of Staff General Vandenberg has four—two drivers and two enlisted handymen. But the prize goes to whoever becomes chief of naval operations. He automatically gets two drivers, two chefs, two orderlies, one supervisor and a boat crew of six to do handy jobs around the house—total 13. These enlisted servants are all able bodied, and qualified for more important fighting assignments than waiting on the brass.

Mrs. Eleanor Johnson, Washington, D. C.: "I am writing you in behalf of my son, Private John L. Johnson of Fort Meade, Maryland. He had an automobile accident in Fairfax, Virginia, and has been put in jail because he didn't have a driver's permit. Now the army has listed him as AWOL, and will not let me have his pay. I am under doctor's care."

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

The Perils Of Pauline

WASHINGTON

As these words are written, the outlook again seems hopeful for a cease-fire in Korea. It would be foolish to go much further than this in trying to predict the future It does seem worthwhile, however, to point out a rather major fact about the recent post which has gone oddly unnoticed, although it ought to have been just about as noticeable as a rogue elephant in a drawing room.

In plain language, during the few days when the Kaesong talks were interrupted, the danger of the immediate outbreak of a third great war hung over the whole world like a very visible dark cloud. People cheerfully followed their summertime pursuits. They talked of anything but the danger hanging over them. But the war danger was plainly there all the same.

The facts, indeed, speak for themselves. The American government was firmly determined not to throw away our Korean victory by acceding to the Communist demand for immediate withdrawal of troops. The Communist leaders, including the leaders in Moscow, said there could be no cease-fire until troop withdrawal had been agreed to. They appeared firm; and their attitude was taken so seriously in the highest American circles that Secretary of State Dean G. Acheson and Secretary of Defense George C. Marshall both issued the sternest warnings, just before the Communists indicated they might compromise the issue after all.

Suspected A Trap

Until the compromise offer, moreover, at least a strong minority of the American policy makers actually suspected that the Kaesong talks were turning out to be a Communist trap, intended to soften up our troops in Korea for a major Chinese and North Korean offensive.

The arguments for this view were indisputably logical. Long before the Malik radio overture, the Chinese and North Koreans began the most important of all their successive build-ups of strength on the ground. This build-up has gone forward continuously, until a most massive force has now been assembled. Altogether, the enemy is now believed to have over 300,000 troops on the line in Korea; the same number or more in reserve; a powerful air force of over a thousand jet fighters and fighter-bombers in Manchuria; substantial increments of artillery; and an important, entirely new armored force variously estimated from 200 to 600 tanks.

Even although Gen. Ridgway's UN armies now hold the Iron Triangle, this greatly strengthened enemy force constituted (and indeed still constitutes) a most serious threat, especially after the relaxation of effort and vigilance resulting from the opening of truce talks. The Kremlin and Peking were clearly hoping to win the prize of general troop withdrawal from Korea in peaceful discussion at Kaesong. Failing this, however, it was also clear that they might be intending to fight for the prize if need be. And it was wholly logical to expect that this time, the large Communist air force in Manchuria would be thrown into the fight; and that American reprisals against the Manchurian air bases would thus become unavoidable.

Shrewd Soviet Line

These facts in turn constituted the danger of immediate war already referred to. No policy makers in Washington, any more than in London, supposes that the Korean fighting can be contained anywhere, once it starts to spread at all. In short, until the compromise offer, the sequence of events that would lead to third World War was all too easy to imagine.

Even so, these facts were less meaningful than the lighthearted inattention to this war danger, even during the few doubtful days when the issue hung publicly in the balance. This cheerful complacency, in America and elsewhere, in turn shows the extreme shrewdness of the new Soviet line that began with the move to end the Korean fighting. As the experts now unanimously agree, the new Soviet line is to lull the Western powers to sleep, and to salt Western rearmament by judiciously administered doses of sweet reasonableness. If whole nations can be dozy when the war danger is immediate, they are certainly likely to slumber when all seems peaceful. And then will come the time for the sleepers to be cheaply and safely destroyed.

The trouble is that world politics are getting to be much like "Perils of Pauline." When Pauline has been snatched from the railroad tracks, from the very jaws of the onrushing locomotive, for 18 times hand-running, you stop believing in the train, and the tracks, and even Pauline herself. But tracks, train and Pauline are all absolutely real, none the less, and if the Marines do not bestir themselves the 19th time, Pauline, who in this instance is both world peace and world freedom, is going to the pretty decisively mangled. On the other hand, the good aspect of recent events is the proof that if the Marines keep on their toes, Pauline can be saved.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—No more serious mistake in strategy could have been made by the Republican party in the House of Representatives than to support an amendment to the pending appropriation bill seeking to cut off the salary of the Secretary of State, Dean Acheson.

It was a mistake because, while the Secretary formulated the foreign policy of the United States, President Truman has taken full responsibility for every phase of it. If, therefore, it is because of disagreement on foreign policy that it now is sought to force removal of Mr. Acheson, then the courageous and direct thing for the Republicans to do is to propose a resolution impeaching the President.

The Republicans have frequently contended that Mr. Truman violated the Constitution when he failed to seek ratification from both houses of Congress and carried on a prolonged war in Korea, although the Constitution states specifically that only the Congress can declare war.

Under a parliamentary system of government such as prevails in Canada and Britain, it would be the head of the government as well as the secretary of state who would be voted out of office. Simply changing a Cabinet officer would not be enough if the issues were fundamental.

Worked Together

The opposition to Secretary Acheson is, in fact, opposition to President Truman. That is one of the reasons why the President has never felt justified in listening to the demands whoch have come from his own party to remove Secretary Acheson or to permit him to resign. For, after all, if Mr. Acheson has erred, so has the President. The two men together have worked out every important step in our world policies.

Efforts to cut off salaries of officials in executive agencies have been made before but have not been upheld in the courts because the legislation has seemed to be aimed at a particular department or bureau. This time a novel approach has been used by the opponents of Mr. Acheson. The amendment reads as follows:

"None of the money appropriated in this act shall be paid to the head of any executive department who, within a period of five years preceding his appointment, was a partner in, or a member of, a professional firm which derived any part of its income from representing or acting for a foreign government, or who, acting as an individual, derived income from such representation, unless submitted or resubmitted by the President to the Senate for confirmation."

The fact is that the law firm of which Mr. Acheson used to be a member represented some foreign governments in connection with legal claims and other technical questions before agencies of the executive branch of the government. Many reputable law firms here do this kind of work. To penalize any citizen and prevent him from holding public office because he once was employed in his profession by a particular type of client would be as unfair as for labor groups to ask Congress to declare by law that nobody should ever be appointed to the federal bench who had been employed by a law firm representing a corporation. There is no limit to the injustice which that precedent would create.

Obviously there is no intent in Congress to besmirch the work of or the members of the law firm of which Mr. Acheson was a partner—namely, Covington & Burling—which happens to be one of the finest in the country and is composed of many eminent men in the field of law. The real purpose is to find some indirect way of removing Dean Acheson from public office.

Slated For Defeat

The attempt, of course, was slated for defeat because a substantial number of Republicans in the House of Representatives did not vote with their colleagues in the party conference held on the subject. Such an item should never have come before a party conference, anyway. No political party can in the long run justify sponsorship of that sort of amendment.

There are plenty of members of the House — both Republicans and Democrats — who feel that Dean Acheson should resign. This correspondent has called attention before to the political factors which cause some Democratic members to feel that Mr. Acheson's continuance in office is a liability to them. But the answer lies in a change of policies and in the system of administering the Department of State, and this is something that the President is as much responsible for as is Mr. Acheson.

The Secretary is a conscientious man. He may have been deceived by subordinates or misled by their reports, but nobody can justly question his loyalty to the United States. His judgment may be severely criticized and his mistaken policies have been responsible for American failures in the Far East. But the legal remedy for this is for the House, by majority vote, to propose a removal of the President by impeachment. Then, if there is no two-thirds vote for it in the Senate—which there is not—the step fails and the question of a successor can be decided inside the Democratic party at the national convention and subsequently at the polls.

These Days

Spain

One of our most severe national problems is to eliminate from our political affairs the effects of the violent intervention of Soviet Russia into American life from 1934 to 1945. During this period, news was slanted to be pro-Russian; the radio battered the minds of our people with a constant rhythm of exaltation of the paradise of the worker; the motion picture industry was almost dominated by Russian commissars some of whom are now under indictment; textbooks for our children in the public schools were rewritten with emphasis on preference for Russia and its Marxian practices.

One of the results of this total subservience to Russian policy and purposes is a general assumption that something is extraordinarily bad about Spain. True, Franco produced a dictatorship, but so did Stalin, Hitler, Mussolini, Kemal Ataturk, Chiang Kai-Shek, Pilsudski, and a number of others who were thrown up by war, revolution, civil disturbances and a breakdown in Europe of a thousand years of tradition at the end of World War I.

This is no defense of dictatorship. It is rather a statement of an historic trend during an era which is not yet ended. Franklin D. Roosevelt assumed that he could distinguish between a good and a bad dictator, which neither he nor anyone else could do because there are no good dictators. The autocrat, even with the best intentions, becomes a prisoner of his own powers.

Really, it was none of our business to make such distinctions. If the people of any country were willing to tolerate autocracy, that was strictly within their own rights. We Americans prefer a representative republic and take what comes with it.

The Rusisans hate Franco because he licked them in a fight. The Spaniards are the only Europeans who have shown enough courage to stand up to a proxy Russian force and drive them out of their country. Most of the other Europeans thought that they could compromise with Stalin and some of them were turned into satellites for their pains.

It is curious that even some intelligent Americans accepted Stalin's propaganda that Stalin was a good dictator and Franco a bad one.

The only difference between these two countries is that Soviet Russia has since 1917 been the enemy of the United States, constantly and consistently; Spain, on the other hand, has desired since 1936 to establish friendly and realistic relations with the United States.

Part of the Communist propaganda against Spain has been to emphasize the anti-Semitism of the Franco regime. Yet, during the war, Spain was open to Jewish refugees from Germany while in Soviet Russia, Judaism, as a religion, was suppressed.

(In this connection, I wish to recommend to those who really desire to know something on the subject a new book, "The Jews In The Soviet Union," by Professor Solomon M. Schwarz, published by Syracuse University Press. This is an invaluable study of spiritual genocide as practiced by Stalin).

The Navy, the Air Force and nearly all students of the military problems which beset this country as a result of our failure in World War II to win a peace insist that the United States requires bases in Spanish territory. Their argument runs that the Iberian Peninsula is our surest gateway to Europe and that should Northern Europe be overrun, we shall have to defend ourselves from Spain and North Africa.

The argument in favor of this subject is technical from a military standpoint and is out of my field. It is obvious, however, from past history that the country which dominates the Mediterranean, can dominate Europe. That argument ran throughout World War II and it will be recalled that Churchill wanted the Allies to invade Europe from the Mediterranean, which Stalin and George Marshall opposed. Roosevelt eventually sided with Stalin and Marshall and that is why we lost the peace.

From that experience, we can assume that the expert's desire for bases in Spain is a correct view. The late Admiral Forrest Sherman negotiated such a contract with Franco on a strictly business basis without the romantic elements general in such transactions. That is all the good, because if we do business with Europeans without romance, we shall get somewhere.

Our task is to do the best we can to save ourselves from more wars and the killing of our sons in futilities such as we have experienced in Korea. If bases in Spain will help in this direction, a deal with Franco is sound.

ALONG THE POTOMAC TO WASHINGTON

(By Representative J. Glenn Beall, Sixth Maryland District)

In spite of what the Administration stated in its propaganda bombardment of the public on the price controls legislation, there is not a representative in Congress who does not want to do something about the sky-high cost of living.

Rep. Jesse P. Wolcott (R) of Michigan, ranking minority member of the Banking and Currency Committee, stated the situation when he said, "The action of the House, and particularly of Republican members of the House, on control legislation, is being badly misrepresented to the country . . . If the American people were being correctly informed, they would realize that the Truman Administration has endangered the entire controls program by attemptng to use the current emergency to grab new powers that would be palatable only to a British socialist."

There is no question but that inflation is eating at the vitals of our economy but it cannot be corrected when the Administration itself insists upon inflationary procedures. The biggest cause of inflation is deficit financing over a period of 20 years, with the exception of the 80th Republican Congress, coupled with printing-press money; enormous bond issues floated whch gives more money for the Administration to squander; and the encouragement of the Administration to banks and other financial institutions to load themselves up with government securities which only promotes further spending.

Congress passed a good control law last August—almost a year ago—authorizing controls on prices, wages and credit. Mr. Truman did not favor such legislation, declaring in his press conference on August 10, that the government was capable of handling the inflation with existing machinery. According to a signed story in the Washington Post, August 11, 1950, written by Edward T. Folliard, Mr. Truman's attitude was expressed as follows, "He (President Truman) still doesn't think the time is in sight for using price and wage controls, which Congress seems ready to give him on a stand-by basis. He thinks the federal government, thanks to reorganization and improvement over the last five years, has an administrative set-up that can meet any emergency. Replying to a question, he said that the reporter could take that to mean that there would be no revival of OPA."

Between June 27, 1950, and January 26, 1951, the cost of living went up 7.0 per cent and the cost of food 8.0 per cent. When the President imposed controls on January 27, Minority Leader Joe Martin (R) of Mass. said, "The Administration has only frozen the hole in the consumer's pocketbook."

Since January 26 and to June 1, 1951, the cost of living and the cost of food has gone up another 2 per cent each. Then when the controls act was expiring, the Administration and its socialist planners decided that this was an opportunity to put over some of its pet schemes. The result was a bill which was not related to the consumer's problem of price, wage and credit controls but contained authority to set up government-owned plants, to set up government corporations to compete with private industry, to move existing privately-owned plants to other parts of the country by government edict, to impose marketing quotas, and to sneak in the dscredited Brannan Plan by so-called production subsidies.

There is a deliberate campaign to make it appear that certain members of the House are sabotaging price, wage and credit controls by any changes made in the bill. The truth is that 93 per cent of Republican voting on August 10, 1950, voted in favor of the enactment. I voted for the act, as did 140 of my Republcan colleagues.

Naturally, the President will claim this isn't his bill—the one he wanted—and any and all failures will be charged to Congress although his own party is in the majority in both Houses. The whole situation is a definte failure on the part of the Administration that tried to write a successful political controls measure that the American people will not accept.

UNDER THE DOME

Farmers of Allegany County asked my help in getting baler twine for their hay crops. I requested that sufficient twine be allocated to Allegany County and was advised that this would be done.

I have also been in touch with officials of the Civil Aeronautics Board relative to continuance of the air service to Cumberland and the possibility of improving the Cumberland air strip. All American Airways has made application to discontinue service to Cumberland and I am doing everything possible to see that the airport is improved and that the service will be continued.

The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department has made application for a priority to buy some equipment. This application has gone to the National Production Authority and I have asked that favorable action be taken.

I have attended daily meetings of the Public Works Committee when the St. Lawrence Seaway Project was discussed.

John White has no wife. . .Not that this chivalrous Southern former newspaperman, now in the State Dept., hasn't had chances. . .I personally have turned loose some of my most desperate cases on him. . .But he seems to rather enjoy being on the loose, collecting books, and charming his dinner partners. . .Maybe some day he'l find a princess who has a good recipe for Southern sweet potato pie, his favorite dish.

Princesses In My Past

Royalty? Pouf! !

I have fooled around with them all — dukes, earls, duchesses, lords, ladies. . .I was going to say kings and queens, but that would be a lie. Princesses, yes. I even kissed a princess once.

JOHN WHITE

You live in Washington and you haven't got a harelip or a clubfoot and you have a dinner jacket and you are a bachelor and you'll meet them. Yep.

First princess I ever met (not the one I kissed) was very pretty. Small, brown-eyed, with a blue ribbon in her hair and freckles. It was at a party.

I had met a prince, several months before. At a lunch. We had spoken but few words, as follows:

Prince (to hostess): Why does that young man cut his steak with a butter knife?

Hostess: I don't know I'm sure. Ask him.

Prince (to me): Why do you cut your meat with a butter knife?

Me: Because I can do it neater that way.

Prince: Oh.

I thought I had got the better of him. But he didn't show any embarrassment or confusion. Thick-skinned foreigner. . . .

He soured me on royalty. I never saw him again.

When I met this freckle-faced princess I said to her "You know why I don't like royalty?"

She smiled at me — lovely smile — and said, "Will you have zome ize cream?" She had only the faintest, most attractive accent. She handed me her dish of ize cream. I ate it, being careful to spill none. Again I said, "Do you want to know why I hate princes and princesses?"

She smiled again and said "Let me get you a cake."

It was a fine cake. With lots of icing. Those parties are very good that way. Plenty of everything.

I ate the cake, in very small bites, and said, "Princes and princesses and I suppose kings and queens—ha."

She smiled and nodded with much dignity.

I said, "Well, do you know why I don't like princesses?"

She spoke.

"No," she said, "I don't."

"And," she said, "I don't give a d- - -."

Ha.

Is it any wonder that the next princess I met I kissed?

She was rather short and dumpy, I am afraid, but so motherly. She had just been divorced. She wanted affection. So did I. (I always do.) I met her at the wrestling matches; she had lost her man, I had come by myself anyway; we went on to a tavern and she told me her sorrows and I told her I was sad that her fellow princes and princesses, as far as I could see, were having such a tough time in America.

We took the street car home and I kissed her on the doorstep.

The next night I came to take her out — oh what a fine house she had, in Georgetown, of course — and she was sick. And the next week she went back to Andorra or Andalucia or wherever, and I lost her address.

• — • — •

Once before in this column I wrote of the first countess I ever met, and how she called me a very bad name because I got tangled up in her corsage at her daughter's wedding.

The first lord I met was a jolly fellow with long dank hair and a handsome profile. He was working as a waiter in the daytime and an undertaker's assistant at night.

He said he used to make death masks of famous persons. You put hot wax over the face, he said, and lift it — the wax — off when it is cool. Once he was in a hurry and ripped it off too fast — an ear came with it.

"And to this day no one in the whole world except me — and now you," he confided to me, "knows that Senator ———— ———— of the state of ———— went into his grave with his left ear stuck on with chewing gum."

I asked him how he liked being a lord.

He said he liked it all right, he only wished he had a castle or something to go with it. He said lords usually did have — it was the princes and such who came from Europe who were the worst off.

• — • — •

I met an earl who could play the piano with his feet, without taking off his socks, and a lady who could beat the whey out of me at ping-pong or darts or canasta (except when she let me score), and an old. old countess who used to draw pretty little pictures in bright colors on her ear trumpet, and say in a low voice, "My husband never took so much butter as the men do nowadays."

Oh I've seen them come and go, these royalties. Good and bad.

And my small plump princess — I think of her — where can she be? ? ? If I could only find her — I might become a prince! !

Do you have more work than you ever feel you can do? Follow an expert's plan for relieving the pressure!

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

In hot weather especially, your energy and your zest for life can easily be flagged to zero when you are worrying for fear your strength and time won't be equal to the tasks with which you find yourself charged. Pressure from increased responsibilities of jobs, homes and communities is taking a serious toll from women everywhere today.

Expert's Plan

Even though you cannot lighten your work load, the chances are that you can lighten the pressure. If you do, you will have more leisure to enjoy life — and more effective energy to spend on your tasks, which will, in turn, ease them.

Do you start each day with a plan? Are you ever depressed by the amount of work to be done? Do you ever accomplish more than one thing at a time? How often do you just plain "play out" and have to give up?

Think of your answer to these questions as you study the work procedures outlined to me by one of the nation's leading industrial efficiency experts:

1. Never start a day without a really disciplined plan. Spend a few moments each evening outlining on paper your next day's activities. Put the most important things first and do them in that order. If you fail to finish the less important tasks, simply carry them over to the next day's list. Pigeonhole your worries about getting them done as you jot down your reminders.

2. Never set more tasks for yourself than you have found in the past you could complete. Cut out all extraneous items. Learn to say "no" to the things and people that hamper your accomplishments.

Make Energy Effective

3. Never try to do more than one thing at a time. Then, concentrate on it. You waste time and energy when you worry about the next obstacle.

4. Never let yourself become fatigued to the breaking point. Take a breather when you need it.

Save those four points. Carry them out to the letter for one week. If you do, you'll make it your daily plan forever. There's nothing more valuable to you than your energy. Never let it be a wasted expenditure!

P. S. from J. R. P.

The last war we cashed in on was the Spanish-American. The loot included the Philippines, Puerto Rico, sponsorship over Cuba, a recipe for an omelet and the prestige essential to buy the Panama Canal in 1902.

The Old Second Guesser

Is The Russians' Bark Worse Than Their Bite?

Admiral William H. Standley, an old sea dog now retired, was in New York the other day to attend a directors' meeting of Pan American World Airways. After he had finished with official business and declared a dividend, he had lunch with me and proved to be a very interesting companion. He was the American Ambassador to Russia during the war years and probably traveled more extensively there than any other United States representative since the revolution.

"Do you think we will have a war with the Soviet Union soon?" I asked.

"No," he replied without hesitation. "They are not prepared for it, and the leaders are practical men. Even though Stalin is a dictator, he needs the support of the people, and he won't get it for an aggressive war. If the country were invaded, it would be different. Most Russians are land conscious and will fight to defend their homes. That is what the Germans ran into, although some of the villagers welcomed them at first as liberators. they made the mistake of abusing those they had conquered."

"Why wouldn't it be a temptation for their armies to march now while we are getting ready?"

"They are not prepared either industrially or militarily to support a war. They cannot produce the goods they need, because they lack the know-how and facilities."

I suggested the help of German scientists.

"They didn't get many," went on the Admiral. "The British and we picked up the best ones. Their rolling stock is obsolete, they are short of gasoline, and have no reserves to replace worn-out equipment. When I traveled across Siberia, there would be broken-down freight cars on nearly every siding. They probably have a pretty good air force, but not the fuel to maintain it. Finally, I don't believe they have the atom bomb, and the explosion recorded was a premature one, an accident."

"Do you mind if I publish your views?" I asked.

"Go ahead," he answered. "I've been talking this way for a long time."

The Admiral has a great background. He was chief of naval operations when General MacArthur was chief of staff. It will be recalled when the Russians were bellyaching about our failure to start a second front, he threw it in their teeth by asking them where they would be now without American lend lease. Stalin swallowed a couple of times, and then publicly admitted he would probably be a noodle in Hitler's soup.

Wendell Willkie was not Standley's pin-up boy by any means. It will be recalled he made a trip to Moscow with a lot of flourishes and a retinue shortly after the people decided he was not going to be president of the United States. According to the then American ambassador, Mr. Willkie by-passed him in making appointments to see Stalin and other Russian big shots, as if he had never heard the State Department maintained a representative there. This hurt the Admiral's standing and made a difficult job harder. He says, incidentaly, Molotov is not nearly as tough as he looks.

However, don't misunderstand his attitude or think he is a victim of overconfidence. He believes it was a mistake to disband our forces so soon after the last war and is sure we should re-arm as quickly and as thoroughly as possible. When he started off down the street, he walked like an old sea dog, and he is a man we are lucky and should be proud to have on our team.

The above is not funny, but George Ade once said,

• — • — •

Spending a weekend at East Hampton recently, John O'Hara, the writing guy and his wife, together with several others came to dinner. From the hors-d'oeuvre until 11:30, I have never been in such complete disagreement with most of the group. First we took sides on General MacArthur, and I found myself more or less alone. They got around to Aaron Burr just before I took off. The question seemed to be whether he was honest, and, as I didn't know anything about it, I faded away to bed. If these views are held by many Americans, it struck me I was very much out of step. Along about 1915, Theodore Roosevelt wrote some articles for us, and I was discussing politics with him one day.

"I don't suppose I'll ever be a candidate again," he remarked. "I feel I am out of step with the country." He seemed to be a little sad about it.

However, had he lived, many astute politicians felt he would have run in 1920 and been elected. Things had changed meanwhile, and maybe they will by 1952.

U. N. Health Experts Hit Present Methods Of Medical Education

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

GENEVA—(AP)—A virtual revolution in the training of doctors is suggested by the World Health Organization of the United Nations.

A report published by WHO sharply criticized present medical and nursing education methods throughout the world and urged that doctors should learn to pay as much heed to the welfare of the community as to that of the individual patient.

The report was prepared by a committee of experts meeting here under WHO auspices to examine present medical training methods in the light of modern needs.

The committee found that "considerable modification of the education of the potential doctor is needed. . . . to train a man capable of supervising the physical, social and mental well-being of the community within which he works."

The report declared: "There is at present much emphasis on physics and chemistry . . . too little attention is given to such subjects as psychology, anthropology and sociology.

"Nurses and doctors, since the aim is that they should work as a team, should have planned opportunities to study together the total care of the patient. Students should get to know the surroundings in which the patient lives and works. x x x From the very first x x x the mind of the student must be turned towards disease as a community problem."

The report urged that doctors, nurses, social workers, public health experts and sanitary engineers should be trained in different sections of the same school, and be taught to work as a team.

At present, the committee declared, the medical profession, hospitals, medical schools and teachers are working in isolation. "Confined within the narrow limits of the individual practice of curative medicine, too many practitioners are heedless of the public health experts and remain deaf to the voice of public opinion and of the authorities who are calling upon them to work more actively for the preservation of public health."

The experts said that hospitals should "cultivate both preventive and social medicine" and medical faculties should cooperate closely with sanitary services, social security organizations and the medical professon generally. They should "teach young people how to study, observe, think, pass judgment, how to approach marriage and the education of children and how to carry out their professional and civic duties."

The report quoted an address by Dr. Andrija Stampar of Yugoslavia, first WHO president and one of the founders of the organization. "More often than not," Dr. Stampar declared, "our present medical education still concentrates on training physicians to cure individual patients from actual disease and fails to impart to them a healthy outlook on the nation's life and the physician's role in society.

"The medical student learns much and in the end knows little. . . . Institutions for medical education must rid themselves of the isolation which now often surrounds them and they must become centers of learning, science and skill that will train doctors more for collective than for individual needs x x x."

India's Annual Floods Hamper Famine Battle

By SELIG S. HARRISON

NEW DELHI (AP) — India's fight against famine will be far from won when the first American wheat ships drop anchor late this month.

If nature runs true to form, monsoon rains in the next seven weeks will swamp railway tracks and back roads at key points all along the ship to mouth route.

Meanwhile, leaders of the All-India Railwaymen's Federation have issued an Aug. 27 strike threat.

Floodwaters of the Kosi River in Bihar State already are racing on their annual spree, cutting countless new channels across a 400 square mile area.

Bihar officials have been busily storing foodgrains in commandeered buildings on high ground. They must rely on flatboat transport of supplies from storage depots to isolated areas.

"Country boats and bullock carts aren't exactly what you'd call a sure-fire transportation system," commented Dr. Clifford Taylor, agricultural counselor of the New Delhi American embassy.

In fair weather sturdy jeeps average eight miles a day over north Bihar roads. Heavy rainfall turns these ruts and paths into long muddy pools. Some villages are even cut off from supplies.

Many of the 2,000,000 peasants in the "Kosi pocket" face lean days if stocks now stored run out before the monsoon's end, said Bihar Food Minister Anugrah Narain Sinha.

Syed Mahmud, Bihar development minister, has so far pressed unsuccessfully for a bridge spanning the Ganges, which stretches a wide as six miles at flood crest.

Despite the government's network of 75,000 ration shops with price controls, thriving black markets in every state have pushed the price of rice up to 45 rupees ($9.45) per maund (82 pounds).

Before the passage of the $190,000,000 U. S. loan legislation, the figure was higher. The prospect of American grain has made it possible for most states to hike the individual daily ration to 12 ounces of grain from a former maximum nine ounces.

With thousands of impoverished peasants unable to meet even the ration shop control price, Bihar officials have launched a 95,400,000 rupee ($40,000,000) public works program to strengthen purchasing power and provide additional direct relief.

Although India's food shortage has been nationwide, Bihar and Madras have felt the pinch most sharply.

Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, who visited Bihar recently, surveying the Kosi region by air, said his administration hoped to start work in October on the projected $340,000,000 Kosi valley program, a 12-year irrigation and hydroelectric development project, bigger than Boulder Dam in scope.

Until the Kosi's whims are controlled, he said in an interview, "I fear we will always have a flood problem there, at the very least a problem of getting it into the hands of the people."

Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia have tidewater frontage but no seacoasts.

Raisin Cookies Rank High On Recipe "Swap" List

May I borrow the recipe?

There's no more complimentary query to any homemaker than this. For when a friend takes time out to copy directions for making the cookies or cakes you serve, you usually know she's doing more than passing around sheer flattery.

Ranking high on the recipe "swap" list are raisin cookies — crisp, lacy cakes enlivened with piquant bits of fruit. And when they're easy-to-make drop cookies, they're all the more popular.

Raisin Drops

½ cup seedless raisins
½ cup shortening
½ cup water
¾ cup sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
1½ cups quick-cooking rolled oats
1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
½ cup chopped nuts
1 teaspoon vanilla

Heat raisins with shortening and water until shortening is melted. Cool. Sift flour, soda, salt and spices into mixing bowl; add oats, sugar and nuts. Mix well. Add cooled raisin mixture and vanilla. Blend well. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a greased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 20 minutes. Remove at once from pan. This eggless recipe makes 2 dozen lacy, chewy cookies.

CRISP LACY RAISEN DROPS . . . together with tall glasses of cold milk make tempting snack-time fare.

Children, especially, will ask for repeats on Jumbo Raisin Cookies — out-sized cakes with a chewy texture and a generous sprinkling of plump raisins.

Jumbo Raisin Cookies

1 cup water
2 cups raisins
4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
2 teaspoons salt
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon allspice
1 cup shortening
2 cups sugar
3 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup chopped nuts

Add water to raisins and boil for 5 minutes or until liquid is decreased to ½ cup. Cool. Sift together flour, baking powder, soda, salt, and spices. Cream shortening. Add sugar and blend well. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add vanilla, nuts and cooled raisin mixture. Add sifted dry ingredients and blend well. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a greased baking sheet. Bake in a hot oven (375 degrees F.) for 12 minutes. Yield: 5 dozen cookies.

Chocolate and raisins pair up perfectly in these rich Raisin Fudge Squares.

Raisin Fudge Squares

½ cup shortening
⅔ cup sugar
2 eggs
2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup sifted all-purpose flour
1 cup seedless raisins

Cream shortening and sugar until fluffy. Add eggs and beat well. Add melted chocolate and vanilla and blend well. Add flour and raisins and mix well. Pour into a greased 8-inch square shallow pan, and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about 25 to 30 minutes. Let cool in pan. Spread with fudge frosting if desired. Cut in squares and serve. Makes 25 squares.

Especially party-like are Seafoam Tea Cakes, crisp candy-like drops made with, of all things, a mixture of shredded cocoanut and all bran. Raisins again provide a delightful sunny fruit flavor.

Seafoam Tea Cakes

2 egg whites
1 cup dark brown sugar, firmly packed
½ teaspoon vanilla
¼ cup seedless raisins, chopped coarsely
1 cup moist, shredded coconut
¼ cup all bran

Beat egg whites until foamy. Add sugar, one tablespoon at a time, beating constantly. Beat in vanilla. Fold in remaining ingredients. Drop by spoonfuls onto well greased cookie sheet. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 15 to 20 minutes or until cookies are lightly browned. Remove immediately from cookie tray. Makes 2½ dozen cookies.

Frosting For Budget

In these days when everyone is looking for ways to stretch the food budget, an economical yet delicious cake frosting is a real find. A creamy French frosting that will add glamor to your summer cakes while remaining an inconspicuous item on your food bill.

Here's a basic frosting recipe that takes no butter, can be made in advance and kept on hand for unexpected guests or sudden family treats:

Creamy French Frosting

2⅓ cups confectioner's sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 egg
2 tablespoons water
¼ cup granulated sugar
⅔ cup shortening
1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix confectioner's sugar, salt, and egg. Boil the water and granulated sugar together for one minute, then blend with the sugar and egg mixture. Add shortening and vanilla. Beat until creamy.

VARIATIONS:

Creamy Orange Frosting: — Replace the water in above recipe with orange juice. Ann one tablespoon grated orange peel.

Creamy Cholocate Frosting:—Add 2 squares of melted chocolate to the Creamy French Frosting above. Blend thoroughly.

Cool Off, Calm Down With Ice Tea

It's time to honor that favorite American thirst quencher, iced tea. National Iced Tea Time, July 13th to 20th, will be the week of official recognition, but there's hardly a family in the U.S.A. who won't be appreciating those tall, tinkling glasses of refreshment all summer long, whenever a really cooling, relaxing beverage is in order.

It's no accident that iced tea has become the favorite American cooler-off-er, it's a beverage that goes with any food at any hour of a summer's day. Refreshing as a cool shower, and as inexpensive as it is soothing, iced tea costs less—much less—than any other summertime beverage you can serve and that's an important item in these days of soaring food prices.

For the housewife, hot, bothered and "under pressure" in summer, there's no chore to making 4 tall, tinkling glasses of iced tea. Just pour 4 cups of boiling water over 6 teaspoons of tea or 6 tea bags. Let stand for 3 to 5 minutes. Stir, strain and pour into ice-filled glasses. Add sugar and lemon to taste. Wonderful! That's the experts' formula for perfect iced tea. Be sure to use this base for any punches or tea variations you might want to serve. And remember Iceman's Ice in our tea. Inexpensive and easy to order, this type of ice is clear, taste free and hard frozen. The Iceman's Ice helps maintain that "homemade flavor" in your iced tea longer because it melts much more slowly.

Mid Morning Cooler

You can take a lot of the pressure out of summertime if you remember the value of short, relaxing rest periods. See what iced tea will do to give you that refreshing pick-me-up you need to go on with your chores or play. Keep in mind that you should eat less in the summer, but more often. For a mid-morning cooling snack try mixing Borden's Cream Cheese with just enough Gerber's Junior Applesauce to make a creamy spread. Serve with Ritz Crackers and tall, frost-beaded glasses of iced tea. Invite the lady next door to join you. Pretty up the table, use your best iced tea set. If you don't have one, investigate Dunbar's lovely sets. They're inexpensive, handy and, of course, beautiful. Then relax and you'll begin to feel that summer is really a wonderful time of year, after all.

Iced Tea for Lunch

Your husband probably comes home for lunch, most American husbands do. Have something quick and satisfying for your man. On sultry days he'll need one hot dish, such as soup. Here's a lunch that will guarantee him a stimulating pick-me-up.

Tomato Soup

Garden Salad with Patio Dressing. Hawaiian Pineapple, Cocoa Flake Squares. Iced Tea with Mint Sprigs.

Garden Salad with Patio Dressing:—To a mixture of greens fresh from the garden add Patio Dressing. This dressing can be stored in the ice box for later use. To ½ cup of French Dressing add ¾ teaspoon chili powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon Mustard, 2 teaspoons grated onion, 2 tablespoons catsup, few drops of Tabasco.

Cocoa Flake Squares: ½ cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, well beaten, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup cocoa, ⅔ cup sifted flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 cups corn flakes, ½ cup chopped nutmeats.

Blend shortening and sugar. Stir in eggs and flavoring. Sift cocoa, flour and salt together. Combine with corn flakes crushed into fine crumbs and nutmeats. Add to egg mixture and beat well. Spread in greased baking pan and bake in moderate oven (350°F.) about 30 minutes. Yield: 16 two-inch squares.

Iced Tea with Mint Spriggs:—Make iced tea by recipe given above. Try brewing it in a china pot, you'll find the flavor much better. Hall China Teapot Company makes many attractive, inexpensive models. Pick one up at your local department store and see the difference in the flavor of your tea. After the tea is poured into ice-filled glasses, garnish with fresh, green sprigs of mint and a lemon wedge. The taste is exquisite, the appearance as cool and green as a woodland garden.

How to Cut Lemon Wedges: A lemon wedge is easier to squeeze than a slice. It therefore gives more juice. Cut a lemon lengthwise into 6 or 8 sections. If you cut the pulp diagonally the wedge will fit on the lip of the glass.

Macaroni Crabmeat Salad

(Makes 6-8 servings)

One tablespoon salt; 3 quarts boiling water; 8 ounces elbow macaroni; 1 6½-ounce can crabmeat; 1 cup chopped celery; ½ cup chopped green pepper; ¼ cup chopped pimientos; ¼ cup slivered almond; 3 hard-cooked eggs, chopped; ½ cup mayonnaise; 2 teaspoons salt; freshly ground pepper.

Add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add macaroni so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Rinse with cold water; drain again. Remove cartilage from crabmeat and flake. In a large bowl, combine cooked macaroni, crabmeat and remaining ingredients. Mix thoroughly but lightly. Chill several hours before serving.

Hints For Hot Weather

Here's good news for all homemakers looking for tall, refreshing coolers for hot summer days! Fresh California oranges and lemons are at their juicy best now! Popular Valencia oranges, so well-known for their abundant supply of sweet juice are in the markets in large quantities — and are top quality. Fresh lemons, the basic ingredient in American's most popular summer beverage are packed with tiny cells of the tangy juice that makes lemonade seem so refreshing on a warm, humid day.

ORANGE BLOSSOM PUNCH

Combine 6 cups fresh orange juice, 1 cup fresh lemon juice, ½ cup maraschino cherry or raspberry juice, 4 cups water or ginger ale and ½ cup sugar. Add lots of ice cubes and citrus fruit garnishes. Makes 25-30 punch cups.

GOLDEN STATE PUNCH

Combine 4 cups of hot tea with 1 cup sugar, 1 cup of fresh lemon juice, 1 quart of fresh orange juice, and 2¼ cups pineapple juice. Chill. Just before serving, add ice cubes and 3 quarts of ginger ale. Garnish with orange and lemon slices. Makes approximately 50 punch cup servings.

FROSTED CITRUS PUNCH

READY-MIX CITRUS PUNCH

Here's a party punch that you can prepare in advance and keep it in half-gallon or gallon glass jars. For each gallon of punch, you will need 1½ cups grape juice, 2 cups fresh lemon juice, 3 cups fresh orange juice, 1½ cups sugar and 2 quarts water. Cover and keep in refrigerator several hours, or until needed. Then pour over block of ice in punch bowl, and top with orange slices. This quantity makes approximately 30 punch cup servings.

SNOWY CITRUS COOLER

A wonderful, refreshing pick-up on a scorching hot day is this cool fresh orange-lemon cooler, topped with a scoop of lemon sherbet! Always a favorite thirst-quencher with adults, this type of beverage also rates top honors with the younger generation. Try it on your children and your kitchen will give their favorite soda fountain keen competition for the rest of the summer.

Be sure to keep lots of California oranges and lemons on hand so you will be able to whip up these coolers at a moment's notice. Here's all you have to do. Combine 2 cups of fresh orange juice with ½ cup fresh lemon juice, ½ cup sugar and 1 cup water. Pour into tall glasses and top with a generous scoop of lemon sherbet. To make it look even more appealing, garnish each glass with orange and lemon slice, plus a large strawberry.

CHILLED CITRUS TEA

¾ cup fresh orange juice
¾ cup fresh lemon juice
¾ cup sugar
1 quart cold tea
orange and lemon slices
ice cubes.

Squeeze orange and lemon juice; add cold tea. Pour into tall glasses that have been filled with ice cubes. Have several orange and lemon slices float in each glass for a decorative effect. Serve with cookies or sandwiches as a mid-afternoon snack.

Serve Fruit Dumplings

It is time to revive the old-fashioned custom of serving crisp-crusted fruit dumplings. They are particularly satisfying this time of the year when the family is beginning to eat warmer weather fare.

Banana caramel dumplings can be made quick as a wink with your own favorite biscuit mix or recipe. A hot brown sugar syrup is poured over the dumplings just before placing them in the oven. There the sirup is cooked to caramely perfection and the dumplings pick up its delightful flavor.

Serve banana caramel dumplings while warm with some of the caramel sauce, chilled thick cream, or top with a scoop of smooth vanilla ice cream.

Banana Caramel Dumplings

1 recipe biscuit dough: Filling: 6 slices banana (1-inch thick); ¾ cup brown sugar; 6 tablespoons fortified margarine; Sirup; Cook together for 2 to 3 minutes; 1⅓ cups brown sugar; ⅔ cups hot water.

Roll out bicuit dough ¼-inch thick. Cut into rounds using saucer. Place a banana slice in center of each round. Top with 1 tablespoon fortified margarine and 2 tablespoons brown sugar. Pull edges of each round together in center and pinch edges to form dumpling. Place dumplings in a well-margarined baking dish. Pour sirup over dumplings and bake in a 425 degree oven for 20 to 25 minutes. Serve warm with cream or a little ice cream.

Yield: 6 dumplings.

Keep Cool Inside When It's Hot Outside

It's a neat trick, but frozen concentrated juices make it easy! In less than a jiffy you'll have cooling refreshment for that hot afternoon pick-up. Yet, invigorating pleasure is yours when you choose frozen concentrates for the real fresh flavor of fruit juices.

And that's not all—you can have fun concocting new flavors! Here are a few to try:

GRAPE-LEMONADE — o-o-o-o lush! Reconstitute one can frozen concentrated lemonade and one can frozen concentrated grape juice according to directions on each can. Combine the two for something new!

Fruity Cookies Taste Good On A Picnic

When picnic food is being planned, don't forget the cookies These pineapple flavored drop cookies are easy to make and will disappear like magic.

Pineapple-Nut Drops

One-third cup butter, or margarine; ½ cup sugar; 1 egg; ½ cup crushed pineapple; ½ cup chopped nuts; 1¼ cups sifted flour; ¼ teaspoon salt; ¼ teaspoon soda.

Cream butter, sugar and beaten egg together. Add well drained pineapple and nuts. Sift flour, salt and soda together. Add to creamed mixture and stir until smooth. Drop by teaspoons on greased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate over (375° F) 10 to 15 minutes. Makes approximately 3 dozen cookies.

Allies Averted U. N. Breakdown, Truman Asserts

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP) — President Truman told Congress today that the "resolute" defense of Korea against Communist aggression prevented a breakdown of the global conflict.

Submitting a report on American participation in the U.N., he said the whole postwar system of collective security was at stake when the United States decided to act quickly at the time of the North Korean attack.

"I was convinced then, and I am convinced now, that to have ignored the appeal of Korea for aid, to have stood aside from the assault upon the charter, would have meant the end of the United Nations as a shield against aggression," Mr. Truman said. "It might have meant the end of any possibility that collective security could be made to work."

He said also that in Korea thousands of men have sacrificed their lives "to the end that millions may not lose their lives in a world of war."

"There is much to indicate that the resolute resistance of United Nations troops has given pause to those aggressive forces which cold-bloodedly brought the tragedy to Korea," the President added.

De Gasperi And New Cabinet Take Office

The 70-year-old Christian Democrat leader announced his reshuffled cabinet to end Italy's 10-day government crisis. A major change involved De Gasperi taking over at least temporarily as foreign minister from Count Carlo Sforza, who became a minister without portfolio.

After President Luigi Einaudi swore in the new ministers in Quirinale Palace, De Gasperi told reporters his taking over as foreign minister assures continuance of "loyal support of the Atlantic pact, instrument of peace and security x x x."

Prices Of East German Goods Cut 10 To 45%

BERLIN, July 26 (AP) — The East German government today announced price reductions from 10 to 45 per cent for goods on sale in its ration-free chain store system.

Items affected by the cut range from sugar and jam to typewriters and automobiles.

However, the new prices generally are still three times as high as those in Western Germany.

Vaughan Has Quip To Go With Medal

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)— President Truman's much-decorated military aide, Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughn, got a new medal today —and had a quip to go with it.

The General was awarded the highest honor of the Dominican Republic: The Order of Juan Pablo Durate in the degree of grand officer.

The citation hailed Vaughn for "serving your country with competence, loyalty and distinction."

A reporter asked Vaughn how many decorations he had now received from foreign countries.

Said the wise-cracking General: "I've got a dozen now—and it still costs me a dime for a cup of coffee."

Four District Offices Of VA Consolidated

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)— Veterans Administrator Carl R. Gray, Jr., said today the Boston, New York and Richmond district VA offices will be abolished and their work transferred to the Philadelphia district office.

Merger of the four district offices, he said, will result in a saving of nearly $2,000,000 a year in salaries, rent and other expenses.

Gray said the three offices to be closed have 3,090 employes. The new office at Philadelphia will be able to use 2,798 of them, he said, thus eliminating 292 jobs.

Spreading Cage Scandal May Hit More Colleges

NEW YORK, July 25 (AP) —More teams may be involved in the spreading college basketball scandal, District Attorney Frank S. Hogan said today as he named Fred Schlictman, a Bradley player who has been living with the university president, as the recipient of a bribe to fix a game.

Hogan said Schlictman's own teammates put the finger on him as the fourth man in on the point-rigging of the Oregon State game in the Bradley field house, Dec. 7, 1950. The others in on that deal, said Hogan, were Gene (Squeaky) Melchiorre, the stocky, brilliant little All-America; Aaron Preece and Jim Kelly.

The mushrooming investigation already has enveloped some 30 players from six schools and Hogan said "it is conceivable other teams are involved" in the tangle.

"I cannot say more than that now," said the prosecutor. "That is why the investigation is continuing. We have leads, and the information may turn out to be worthless or it may have substance."

West Va. To Enforce Truck Weight Limits

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 26 — Strict enforcement of new truck weight limits in West Virginia will begin immediately, the road commission said today.

The announcement followed a two-week trial period in which operators of overloaded vehicles were warned, rather than arrested.

HOMER REUNITED WITH WIFE—Brawny Homer Cook, the 28-year-old ex-GI and boxer who thrice broke out of U. S. Army jails in Germany, is reunited with his German wife, the former Anni Sporer, at military police headquarters in Munich yesterday after his release from custody. ## Top Brass Lid Urged

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—The Senate Armed Services Committee asked the Defense Department today to clamp a lid on the number of generals and admirals on active duty.

The committee proposed a limit of 1,147—only 40 more than the number now serving or awaiting Senate confirmation—until a law can be passed fixing a precise formula. The department was asked to draft a bill and send it to the committee.

Harriman Seeks To Clarify New Iran Oil Offer

TEHRAN, Iran, July 26 (AP) — W. Averell Harriman and British Ambassador Sir Francis Shepherd tried to find out tonight if the new Iranian offer to negotiate may really mean a break in the bitter deadlock over oil nationalization.

President Truman's personal trouble-shooter and Shepherd both kept busy calling on government and political leaders to pin down the exact nature of the offer to Britain.

Harriman met with Iran's oil board after returning from a sightseeing flight over the huge Kruzistan oil fields.

The latest move followed Harriman's statement that he is hopeful the two countries will negotiate again and start the flow of oil from the huge Abadan refinery.

The British cabinet in London was considering Iran's offer to renew talks broken off a month ago but delayed deciding whether to accept, pending a further report from Shepherd.

Harriman's statement indicated he may have succeeded in getting Iran to modify its interpretation of the nationalization law.

Harriman transmitted Iran's message to London Tuesday offering to negotiate with a British mission. Details of the offer were not disclosed.

RAF Jet Claimed To Be World's Best

LONDON, July 26 (AP) —A British airplane firm announced today it is mass-producing a new jet fighter that "will outfight any other known type of fighter interceptor flying today."

It is the swept wing Hawker P1067 Superjet, powered by a single Avon engine. All details of speed, range and armament are top secret.

The Hawker Aircraft Company said the Royal Air Force placed orders months ago while it was still on the drawing board. Now it has made first test flights.

Thousands Of Soldiers Called Up By India

NEW DELHI, India, July 26 (AP) —India has ordered thousands of national guard troops to active duty for what a military spokesman today called training exercises.

He said the move is not connected with the hot talk between India and Pakistan over who will rule the old princely state of Kashmir—scene of 1948 warfare between the two countries.

The spokesman would not disclose the number of soldiers called up. A usually informed source said orders went out to 20,000 railway troops, 20,000 infantrymen and a number of engineers.

Linda Breaks Vow

HOLLYWOOD, July 26 (AP)—For 10 years, Linda Darnell kept her promise not to permit bathing suit pictures—"cheesecake," as Hollywood calls it.

Slayer Of Children Faces Mental Tests

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., July 26 (AP)—A judge here today ordered a psychiatric observation of Raymond Wilson Conley, the father who police say admitted he shot one of his three infant children and slashed the throats of the other two.

Two of the children were buried Wednesday, and the third, three-month-old Linda Sue Conley, held to life by a thread tonight as hospital attendants kept a close vigil by her oxygen-tent crib.

Judge R. Watson Sadler, of corporation court here, ordered the father, Raymond Wilson Conley, committed to Southwestern State Hospital at Marion .The commitment was on the motion of Conley's court appointed attorney, Allan N. Spitzer, but over Conley's objections.

Fifth Raines-Arnone Duel Expected At Midland Today

1st Place At Stake In Legion Junior Loop Tilt At 5:30

The leadership of the Mountain District, American Legion Junior Baseball League will be at stake today when Midland Post plays host to Victory Post of Westernport in the fourth and final game of their series. "Play Ball" will be called at 5:30 p.m.

Westernport, managed by George "Curly" Foster, leads the league at present with a 7-2 record. Midland trails with eight wins and three losses. Cumberland (3-6) and Grantsville (2-9) are out of the race.

Pitchers who have figured in three 1-0 duels and a 3-2 battle in 3 innings are slated to hook up for the fifth time this season.

In three Legion games Bobby Raines, Westernport ace, holds two 1-0 decisions while dropping a 1-0 verdict to "Moose" Arnone, Midland's southpaw ace. Arnone, pitching for Beall High, defeated Raines, of Bruce High, in the overtime contest, 3-2. So they're all square now at two wins each.

The game is a "natural" and is expected to attract a large crowd to the Midland Ball Park.

Oliver Is Leader In St. Paul Open

"Porky" Turns In 66 For One Stroke Edge

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 26 (AP) — Genial Ed "Porky" Oliver of Wilmington, Del., nonchalantly stepped up and sank a three-foot putt today for a 66, six strokes under par, and the lead in the first day of play in the St. Paul Open Golf Tournament.

His score climaxed a day of blasting by the experts that made a farce of par figures for the 6,557-yard Keller Municipal Course.

The 220-pound professional who has been playing in the St. Paul open for 11 years, grabbed the lead from seven players who had been tied at 67. Another eight players were tied at 68. In all, 47 players were under par of 72.

A stroke behind Oliver were such notables as Jimmy Demaret, Ojai, Calif.; Cary Middlecoff, the Memphis, Tenn., dentist; Dick Mayer, St. Petersburg, Fla.; Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago; Gene Sarazen, the Germantown, N. Y., veteran; Jackie Burke of Houston, Texas, and Bill Nary of Prairie View, Ill.

Grouped at 68 were Skee Riegel of Tulsa, Okla., Fred Haas, Jr., of New Orleans, Doug Ford of Harrison, N. Y., Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Texas, Otto Greiner of Baltimore, Md., Pete Fleming of Hot Springs, Ark., Loddie Kempa of Kansas City, and "Dutch" Harrison of St. Andres, Ill.

Vollmer Hits Three Homers

Boston Is Winner Over Chisox, 13-10

BOSTON, July 26 (AP) — Clutch-hitting specialist Clyde Vollmer lashed his third homer of the game, a three run clout, today to give the Boston Red Sox a 13-10 victory and Ellis Kinder his 17th straight pitching triumph over the Chicago White Sox.

Vollmer, whose timely hitting has kept the Red Sox high in the American league pennant fight for the past three weeks, spotted his 17th circuit blow of the season against Harry Dorish to break a 10-10 deadlock in the sixth inning. That game winning blow found Bobby Doerr and Billy Goodman on base with two out.

In the previous frame, when the Red Sox appeared doomed to be overpowered in a slugfest that eventually totaled 31 hits of all sorts, Vollmer put his forces back in the contention by homering against Randy Gumpert.

Vollmer's first four bagger of the day was at the expense of Luis Aloma, the second of the four Chicago flingers. It also found Doerr on base and it climaxed a Red Sox five-run first-inning rally.

Dom DiMaggio and Ted Williams also hit for the circuit as the Red sox put on a 17-hit barrage.

HULLIE, outrun for a half-mile, moved up fast thereafter but had to be taken in hand when running up behind horses on the final turn, was then sent to the inside and closed fast to be up at the finish. SKY ROAMER closed rapidly and wrested command between calls in the stretch, then just failed to last. TIZ TIZ IT had the most speed, repulsed a challenge from LITTLE HUSSY to again open a clear lead, but then weakened in the drive. DREIST, rushed into blind quarters after a slow beginning, had to be taken back sharply, bothering VACUUM and TOWN BETTY, then gave a fair effort.

Indians Shake New York Jinx

Tribe Cuts Yankees' Lead By Winning, 9-4

NEW YORK, July 26 (AP)—It took the Cleveland Indians exactly 12 months and 12 days to win a game at Yankee Stadium. They accomplished the feat today, in their 14th attempt, by routing former teammate Allie Reynolds in six innings to hammer out 9-4 victory over the league-leading New York Yankees.

In salvaging the last of the three-game set, the third-place Indians moved back to within a game of the Yankees, who had their lead shaved to a scant two percentage points over Boston. The Red Sox are breathing down the necks of the defending champions after winning a 13-10 slugfest from Chicago's White Sox.

It was Cleveland's first win here in nine games this season. The Yankees also won the last five games in the Stadium last year following a July 14 defeat by Bob Lemon.

The victory tasted extra sweet to the Tribe since it came at the expense of Reynolds, who had beaten them four straight times. He shut them out three times and held them runless and hitless the last time he faced the Indians.

Bob Feller, the victim of Reynold's 1-0 no hitter, got some measure of revenge he was awarded the victory—his 15th—although he was forced to retire because of the oppressive heat after working five innings. Reasonably Rapid Robert yielded all Yankee runs and all but one of their nine hits. Box:

Cumberland Owned Filly Wins, Pays $14.40; Betting Off $15,299

4,700 Wager $208,453, Melford First, Best Rule Annex Features

One of the smallest Cumberland Day crowds in the 27-year history of running race meets at Fairgo saw a Cumberland-owned thoroughbred win the first race yesterday when Louis Waingold's Hal's Play, a $14.40 for $2 bet, whipped Royal Smile and Be By, the first choice of the bettors, in a five furlongs dash.

Betting Is Off $15,299

A crowd of approximately 4,700 persons turned out for the eighth day's program of the Cumberland Fair Association's 10-day meet and wagered $208,453 or $15,299 less than the handle of the second Thursday card of 1950. It marked the first time at the current session that the betting has not shown an increase over the same days of a year ago. However, the mutuel total soared to $1,635,897 and that's $178,976 above the handle for eight days in 1950.

Robert F. Duffy of Bel Air, who tied Mrs. George A. Saportas, Jr., of Monkton, Md., for the title of leading winning trainer a year ago, forged into first place yesterday by saddling a pair of winners, one second and one third.

Duffy Leads Trainers

Duffy kited his total points to 29 and passed Mrs. Saportas who sent four nags postward but garnered only one point for a third. The popular woman trainer now trails Duffy by one point in the race for the gold wrist watch.

The losers were outhit, 8-4.

"Butch" Johnson rapped a homer for the O.D.C. Paul Roeder banged a triple and two singles and Van Roby had two singles for the Elks. The score:

| | | | |

Braves Trip Reds

CINCINNATI, July 26 (AP) — The Boston Braves pounded out a 6-2 victory over the slumping Cincinnati Reds today to move into fifth place in the National League.

Vern Bickford held the local club to four hits until the ninth inning. Then he was relieved after two runners had crossed the plate and two were out, Bob Chipman finishing.

Bickford got credit for his 11th victory of the season, however, as against seven setbacks. Ewell Blackwell was the losing hurler—his 10th defeat against nine victories. Score:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| BOSTON | 012 000 102—6 | 9 | 0 |
| CINCINNATI | 000 000 002—2 | 6 | 0 |

Bickford, Chipman (9) and Cooper. Blackwell, Perkowski (6), Erautt (9) and Howell, Scheffing.

WP—Bickford. LP—Blackwell. HR—Elliott (Boston).

Rocky Bridges, rookie infielder for the Brooklyn Dodgers, is a movie bug. He has seen as many as four double features in one day.

3 Suits Totaling $37,000 Docketed In Auto Crash

A Cleveland family has docketed three suits in Allegany County Circuit Court against two county men for $37,000 damages as a result of an auto accident July 4, 1950.

The suits were entered by Harry Marks, and his insurance company, Ruth Marks, his wife, and their infant son, Daniel Marks.

The collision occurred on Route 40, about 23 miles east of Cumberland, between the Marks car and a motor vehicle operated by Earl Lester Walsh, of Mt. Savage, and Louis R. Baker, of Allegany Inn, the owner of the car driven by Walsh.

Mrs. Marks is seeking $30,000 as a result of injuries which the suits say left her permanently partially disabled.

She contends that she suffered fractures of five ribs on her left side, seriously injured her left shoulder, and had contusions, lacerations and abrasions.

Mrs. Marks declared her injuries caused her to be hospitalized for one week and resulted in continual confinement at her home for a lengthy period.

Marks, suing for his own use and to the use of the Manufacturers and Merchants Indemnity Company, seeks $5,000.

He claims he suffered a left shoulder injury, lacerations, contusions and abrasions over most of his body. He said his nervous system was seriously shocked and permanently injured.

This suit states the insurance company, under its policy agreement with Marks, paid $1,071.75 to have the Cleveland man's car repaired.

The infant son, through his father, is seeking $2,000 from Walsh and Baker. He claims injuries to one of his knees and various parts of his body and nervous system.

The Marks are represented by Bruce Herzbrun, of Cleveland, and the local law firm of Cobey, Carscaden and Gilchrist.

Dummy Weapon Found In Cell

SOMERSET, Pa.—Sheriff Karl I. Hare is believed to have averted an attempted jailbreak recently when he found a fake gun in the Somerset County Jail cell of Clayton Albert Terhune, of Paterson, N. J.

The actions of Terhune, who is being held in the slaying of Clayton E. Jenkins, Dowington architect, aroused Sheriff Hare's suspicions and when he examined Terhune's cell he found a gun moulded from soap and a slip noose made from a sheet.

Sheriff Hare said he believes the gun and noose were made with the intention of using them as ruses for an attempted break for freedom.

Jenkins was beaten to death May 1 in a cabin at Emerald Park, near Stoystown, and Terhune was picked up nearby on the following day. The Paterson man is a self-confessed ex-convict and his case goes before the Somerset County Grand Jury at the August term of court.

Enlist In Army

Two Allegany County men have enlisted in the Regular Army for three years each and have been dispatched to Fort Meade for assignment.

They are Dale O. Campbell, of Mt. Savage, and Russell B. Iser, of Rawlings, according to M-Sgt. Clarence Biehn, local Army and Air Force recruiter.

Contestants In Soap Box Derby Will Be Guests At Dinner Aug. 8

Boys who participated in Cumberland's fourth annual Soap Box Derby two Saturdays ago will be guests of The Times-News at a dinner Wednesday evening, August 8, at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Prizes won in the Derby will be awarded following the dinner by Eiler Chevrolet, Inc., with Frederic W. Eiler making the presentations.

The Derby was co-sponsored by The Times-News, Eiler Chevrolet, the Junior Association of Commerce and the South End Business Men's Association.

The August 8 affair, scheduled to get under way at 6:30 p. m., will be part of the Jaycees' monthly dinner meeting.

Every contestant in the Derby will receive a prize, with the top award going to the winner, 12-year-old Ricardo (Rickey) Mellon of McCoole.

Mellon will receive a four-day trip to Akron, Ohio, at the expense of The Times-News to take part in the All-American Derby. He will leave several hours after the dinner via the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, accompanied by J. Suter Kegg, director of the Cumberland Derby. The All-American event is scheduled for Sunday, August 12.

Robert Gero, runnerup in the local races and champion of Class A, will be the recipient of a bicycle. The list of the other prizes, Eiler said, will be announced later.

The Shell Oil Company tool board for the best-constructed car goes to Billy Mills, Potomac Park, while the Collins and Aikman three-in-one jig saw for best-upholstered racer goes to Galen McKenzie, also of Potomac Park.

tween the police and the army. He was confined to Fairfax County Jail for 70 days for reckless driving. The police refused to release him to the army until his fine of $85 is paid. However, the Army has placed him on the AWOL list and cut off his pay. So the boy can't draw any money to get out of jail, and the longer he stays in, the more penalties he faces for being AWOL. This column has asked the Army to look into the matter and be more human.

Pets Ahead of Wives

Mrs. W. T. King Jr., Mobile, Ala.: "This is a gripe letter from a GI wife. I just want a good and fair reason why a general's wife is going to Japan to join her husband, and I, a lieutenant's wife, cannot.. I also understand that automobiles and pets are being shipped to Japan, though there isn't room for dependents."

Answer: It is true that Gen. Matt Ridgway's wife and Gen. O. P. Weyland's family have been admitted to Japan, though all other dependents have been barred since July 14, 1950. It is also true that automobiles and pets are still shipped to Japan. This column could not find the exact number of pets, but 544 automobiles have been shipped since dependents were banned for lack of transportation.

A Recruit, Lackland Air Base, Texas: "The hospital here was overflowing with cases of ptomaine poisoning recently. It's a real scandal, and I hope you will investigate."

Answer: It wasn't ptomaine poisoning, but a diarrhea epidemic that swept Lackland Air Base. The diarrhea was caused by a virus which got into a leafy vegetable as a result of faulty drainage. A total of 590 cases were reported, some hospitalized, for three and four days. The air force is fixing the drainage, so it should not happen again.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

Gloria Swanson

"Who do you want to direct you?" asked Milton.

"I think you'd be wonderful," Gloria said. "You have lived with the story, you know it." So it was then and there agreed that Milton would direct the picture, the first time in his career. Gloria, herself, will design all the clothes.

She won't have a chance to go to Europe as she had planned to see her daughter, Michele, because as soon as she finishes here she has to go back to New York to start rehearsals for "Nina," her stage play. That Swanson gal amazes me more and more. She is now more in demand than ever before as an actress.

If Patricia Neal had her fortune told, all her good cards would surely be coming up in love and business. It's no longer any secret that Pat is Gary Cooper's heart, and now here's a good break in her career.

Really, Pat gets the best break of her life in "Diplomatic Courier" opposite Tyrone Power at 20th. She plays the American girl in Ty's life with a foreign charmer yet to be selected as the other girl.

The ANTA will counteract some of the Russian propaganda by sending to Germany and other countries some important theatrical acts. Judith Anderson will take her play "Media" to Germany and "Porgy And Bess" will be played there with a top company.

This all happened when Ulinovia, Russia's famous ballerina, was such a hit at the Venice festival. Later, permission was obtained for the ballet dancer to also appear in Florence and other Italian cities, and there's no doubt that her performance is too important propaganda for us to ignore.

So, ANTA will see that our own American theater propaganda is circulated where it does the most good.

Harry Cohn has moved one step nearer to making Rita Hayworth's comeback picture.

He signed Vincent Sherman as director of the story Virginia Van Upp is now writing.

Vince has a way with these actresses and has directed many of the top stars, first Bette Davis then Ann Sheridan, and more recently Joan Crawford.

His last picture was "Lone Star," the Clark Gable western, but before that he made the last three Crawford dramas.

Whether or not Rita will return to Nevada before she checks in permanently at Columbia has not yet been determined.

I do believe when Irving Berlin gets ready to sell "Call Me Madame" for motion pictures, he'll sell it to his friend of many years, Joseph Schenck for 20th Century-Fox. But Joe tells me that no deal has yet been made.

It would be wonderful to have it for a musical with Russell Nype in the role that brought him fame.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Marta Toren flies to New York to meet her father who arrives Sunday from Stockholm It will be a red letter day in his life—he'll see Marta for the first time in several years and it's his birthday.

Steve Cochran couldn't be more furious. He's just back from Kentucky and without being made an honorary colonel.

Rita Hayworth brought only a suitcase of clothes from Nevada, so Jean Louis whipped her up some dresses in nothing flat for her to wear for wardrobe pictures. Virginia Van Upp is still working on Rita's first story.

Randy Scott has that very painful but unromantic ailment — an ingrown toenail—but fortunately he'll be riding a horse for the next few days in his movie.

Jeff Chandler and Piper Laurie a twosome at the "Mark Of The Renegade" premiere, and Howard Duff with the Mexican charmer, Miroslava, same place.

Ken Duncan, Hollywood's well-known badman cowboy, who has been appearing in the Kocksoi Theatre in Tokyo and breaking records, writes that Jack Benny gave an impromptu show in Tokyo for the Correspondents Club. Said Jack, "I've been here only one day and 100 yen (26 cents) went just like that! Next time I'm coming alone."

Mario Lanza's baby girl will be baptized in St. Paul's Church Sunday with Andy and Delia Russell as godparents. The young lady's name is Elyssa.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Can you figure out why people like you?

Answer: Never positively, and it is usually unwise to try. The essential reason, anyhow, is that they believe you like them and are interested in them, and wondering "what they see in you" is a form of self-centeredness that tends to make you less attractive. Actually, all normal men and women are looking for people to like because friendly feelings are as pleasurable as unfriendly ones are painful, so most of the people whom you meet will like you if you give them a chance. But conversely, feeling that you do not deserve to be liked is a step toward feeling you are disliked, and toward making the idea come true.

Can you learn psychology in college?

Answer: There are many aspects of the science which are best learned in the classroom or the laboratory. But as Dr. Robert A. Young of the Judge Baker Guidance Center, Boston says, the psychologist who plans to do psychotherapy must turn to dynamic psychiatry for the ground work of his theoretical and practical training, and the only way to grasp dynamic psychiatry is to be psychoanalyzed yourself. The clinical psychologist must recognize his dependence on the medical profession for much of his training, and be willing to invest years of his own time in preparing himself to be able to help others.

Is preferring money to love "realistic"?

Answer: No, if only because love is real and money, a symbol. It may symbolize for you the pleasures which you think it can buy, and which, being largely childish, will eventually bore you. It may symbolize a sense of power over your neighbors which is likely in the end to make them hate you and want to destroy you. But most often of all, money is a symbol of security against essentially unreal dangers such as that of being rejected, ignored or perhaps even literally starved by your neighbors. The only abiding pleasure, power or security comes from the good will and affection of your fellow men and women.

By JOHN CROSBY

Voice From The Past

Jack Pearl, who practically invented radio back in 1932, is back again on NBC with his Baron Munchausen tales, his German dialect puns, his double-takes and his stooge, Sharley. It just goes to show how far radio has progressed in 20 years, and in what direction it is progressing—namely, back to the crystal set. Next year we'll sit up all night trying to bring in KDKA in Pittsburgh, which, as I recall, was about all you could do with a radio in those days. There weren't any programs, a situation which, some cynics will tell you, has persisted to this very day.

John Crosby

German low comedy, it ought to be explained to the younger members in the audience, sprang up in this country in the '80s with Weber and Fields and the Rogers brothers, flourished through the great period of immigration which ended in 1910 and died—well, I guess it hasn't died if Pearl is still around. "Stage German Low Comedian On The Wane" runs a headline from the drama section of The New York Herald Tribune dated July 11, 1928. Back in 1928, they under-estimated the staying power of Jack Pearl and the patience of the rest of us.

•—•—•

The Pearl show is chiefly valuable as a museum piece, educational to you youngsters and nostalgic to the rest of us who vass dere, Sharley, when Pearl was an enormously popular radio comedian 20 years ago. It takes a man back to hear dialogue like this again:

Russ: Glad to know you Mr. Munchausen.

Sharley: Not Mr. Munchausen. Call him Baron.

Russ: Oh, I wouldn't think of calling a man I just met by his first name.

Sharley: Baron isn't his first name. It's his title.

Russ: Oh, the nobility! I'm honored to know you, your harness.

Munchausen: Harness! What am I, a horse?

Sharley: You'll have to excuse Mr. Emery, Baron. He's excited at meeting a peer.

Munchausen: First I'm a horse. Now I'm a dock.

Sharley: No, no. I'm referring to your rank.

Munchausen: Who's rank.

Sharley: Your rank.

Munchausen: You're kind of stagnant yourself.

That is what I like to refer to as the progressive joke, one which proceeds from a postulate to a conclusion as relentlessly as mathematics. No snickering in the back row there. This sort of thing is a very pure art form, bearing as little relationship to practical life around us as life in the outer stars from which this program may emanate, for all I know.

Jack Pearl is an enormously skilled and experienced comedian; his timing and inflection and vocal tricks have not been changed by the passage of years and neither has his material, which is almost a parody on itself. The only time Mr. Pearl caught me by surprise was during the following passage at arms between him and Sharley:

Sharley: He's a great maestro. In the musical world he has set a precedent.

Munchausen: Could I have a carbon copy of that?

Sharley: A precedent. You know what a precedent is, don't you?

Munchausen: Sure—haw haw—Harry Truman.

I rather thought he'd say William McKinley.

It's a little unfair to confront a man with what he said decades ago but I have at hand an interview Mr. Pearl granted back in 1926 which I find extraordinarily pertinent to his present show: "Laughter is going out of style. Quiet, calm little smiles have supplanted the jocose and hearty laughter of another day," Mr. Pearl declared back in 1926. The trouble, as he figured it then, was that we were getting too educated and civilized for anything so uncouth as the belly laugh. "The thing to do is to cultivate the wan, knowing smile of the sophisticate," according to Mr. Pearl.

That's me, kid, when I listen to the Pearl show—wan, knowing and civilized almost to the point of torpor.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: IN THIS INTERMINABLE WILDERNESS OF WORLDS, AT WHOSE IMMENSITY EVEN SOARING FANCY STAGGERS—SHELLEY.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear son, William James Grimm, who left us on July 27th, 1949, two years ago today.

Death changes all our thoughts of
Heaven
At first we thought of streets of gold
Of shining wings and robes of white
Of pearly gates and dazzling light
But in the aftermath of years;
It is a more familiar place,
A home unhurt by sighs and tears,
Where waiteth many a well known
face.
With passing years it grows more real,
It draws us nearer day by day,
Not strange or cold but very dear,
The glad homeland not far away. . .
Truly to live on, in the hearts and minds of those we love and leave
behind is not to die.
His Mother: Bessie B. Grimm

FAIRGO NOTES

By C. V. BURNS

The payoffs at the current meeting are probably the best since the 10-day sessions were inaugurated in 1935.

During the first eight days 31 of the 64 winners or 43 per cent paid $11 or more for $2 win tickets. Eight returned from $21.40 to $45.40 and the payoffs on three ranged from $91.20 to $50.80.

Seventy-five trainers have saddled at least one win, place or show horse since the local meeting opened. Thirty-one different riders had mounts during the first eight days.

•—•—•

Don Yates and Stanley Greene who are third and fifth in the race for the trainers' prize are headed for Randall Park, Ohio.

•—•—•

George Russell ran into tough luck en route from Cumberland to Randall Park. He was taking Beacon Bound and Gumptious there when one of the horses threw a van fit, both suffered injuries and one had to be destroyed.

•—•—•

Harry E. Flook, general manager of the local association, is limping about the plant. He suffered a knee injury on Wednesday.

•—•—•

Only 29.7 per cent of the favorites have won in the first 64 races. That is only 19 were in the winners' circle. If this keeps up there will be a new low established. The all-time high at Fairgo is 48 per cent, set in 1947. It rained on eight of the 10 days that year. In 1948 it was 43 per cent, in 1949 forty per cent and last year 37 per cent.

Y., also became the new leader in the race for the jockeys' prize by booting home a first, two seconds and two thirds to amass 70 points for the eight days compared to Willie Downs' 67. The Baltimorean held a 4-point advantage prior to yesterday's program.

Melford First Winner

Mrs. C. C. Utterback's Melford First, a 3-year-old filly, ridden by Willie Clark, captured the first of a pair of feature races in which Trainer S. R. Utterback was presented the Carolan Tavern Trophy by George P. Mahoney, former chairman of the Maryland Racing Commission. Melford First, incidentally, paid the second best price of the day, $16 for $2. Trailing the winner home were Busy Bones, Wise Bet and Gala Blenheim.

The second feature, The Cumberland Purse, went to Best Rule, which carried top weight of 123 pounds in the sixth and defeated Miss Pidgeon, Janella and Neddie's Doll, owned by Enoch P. Price of Frostburg. Best Rule is the fifth thoroughbred to score two wins at the current session.

Objection Disallowed

Miss Shelia Fram, daughter of Morris Fram, manager of Harvey's Jewelry Store, presented Harvey's trophy to O. L. Follin, trainer of Best Rule.

Courage Road, winner of the final, returned the best price of the days — $17.80 for $2. The Chenoweth gelding beat Count Howard, the favorite, by 2½ lengths, with Penny Hill, third, Bonziah Seniah, owned by Enoch Price was 7th.

Enoch Price's Tiz Tiz It finished third back of Hullie, $13.20 for $2 winner, and Sky Roamer in the 7th event.

Other winners were Innersole in the second $5.80, Evenesta in the third $5.80 and Tufton in the fourth, at $5.40.

Three Favorites Register

Evenesta, Tufton and Best Rule were the favorites that registered on the eighth day of the 10-day meeting.

The winning daily double combination of Hal's Play (2) and Innersole (4) paid $36.80.

Today is Johnstown Day at Fairgo with the sixth race as the headliner. Post time for the first race is 2:30 p. m., E.D.T.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 70 cents at $94.80 with industrials up 40 cents, railroads up $1.00 and utilities up 20 cents.

Nickel Plate jumped 10½ to 206. In Washington, Interstate Commerce Commission examiners recommended that the road be allowed to go ahead with its five-for-one split proposed last April.

Motors, plagued with strikes, barely moved. General Motors and Chrysler gained ⅛, and Packard and Studebaker lost ⅛.

There was a lot of activity in Bethlehem Steel near the close. It was up ⅞ at 52¼. After the market closed Bethlehem reported first half earnings equal to $4.75 a share as against $5.63 a year ago.

The volume of business came to 1,480,000 shares as compared with 1,870,000 yesterday when the market closed irregularly lower.

The list narrowed down to 1,068 individual issues traded (1,134 issues yesterday) of which 551 advanced and 271 declined. There were 26 new highs and eight new lows for the year.

"The Authority on Authorities"

NOT NECESSARILY SO

YOU hear it said often, when squeeze plays are under discussion, that such a device will work for you only when you have already given up the tricks you can afford to lose and are using the squeeze to take all the remaining tricks. But that is not necessarily so. It is the case with squeeze plays of the various standard lineups, which are most widely understood. But with occasional unusual situations, a squeeze can operate when you still figure to lose another trick or two.

North: ♠ K Q 8 ♥ A 4 2 ♦ 10 9 6 3 ♣ A 4 3
West: ♠ A ♥ Q J 10 9 7 ♦ J 8 2 ♣ K 9 7 5
East: ♠ J 10 9 ♥ 8 6 ♦ K Q 7 5 4 ♣ Q 8 6
South: ♠ 7 6 5 4 3 2 ♥ K 5 3 ♦ A ♣ J 10 2

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

| East | South | West | North |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pass | Pass | 1 ♥ | Dbl. |
| 2 ♦ | 2 ♠ | 3 ♦ | 3 ♠ |
| 4 ♦ | 4 ♠ | | |

It was lucky for North and South that North made that shaded double. He did it largely because he knew West's penchant for weak third-hand bids when not vulnerable, to obstruct possibly strong vulnerable opponents. Except for that double, it is hard to see how South could ever have reached his spade game contract. That would not have been fortunate for an ordinary pair. But this chap was able to manage his difficult contract.

The heart Q lead was won by South's K, the diamond A was scored and the spade 3 led to the A. The heart 9 came back to the A. South ruffed a diamond, led to the spade K, ruffed a second diamond and led to the spade Q. All this time he had his eye on the target—avoidance of two club losers.

Those first eight tricks brought him to a position where dummy held the heart 4, diamond 10 and three clubs and South the spade 7, heart 5 and three clubs. The defenders discarded right, West retaining two hearts and three clubs, East two diamond honors and three clubs. Now South led dummy's 10, discarding a heart, as did West too. Now East dared not return a club, which would assure South of two club tricks. But his sole alternative was his diamond Q, which squeezed West. After South ruffed with the spade 7, West could not throw his heart J, which guarded against the 4, so he tossed his club 7 and dummy thereupon let go of the heart 4. This assured South two of the last three tricks in clubs. He led the J. If West covered, the A would win and a low one be led, the 10 becoming good. West played low, so the J went on to the Q. The 8 came back to the 2; now singleton K and A, and the 4 to the 10 then won.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ A K 8 6 2 ♥ 9 3 ♦ K 8 4 2 ♣ 6 4
West: ♠ Q J 9 3 ♥ K 6 ♦ J 10 7 ♣ K Q 3

South: ♠ 7 5 ♥ A Q J 10 8 7 ♦ A 9 6 ♣ A J

What play must South use to make 6-Hearts after West, who doubled, leads the diamond J?

Judge Henderson Files Opinion

Although the lessee of a coal mine must leave his rails behind at the expiration of the lease, he is entitled to remove the railroad ties, Associate Judge George Henderson wrote in an opinion filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The opinion was written in an equity case which Walter E. Blank and Rosanna F. Blank, his wife, filed May 13, 1950, against William D. Williams, Lillian Williams, his wife, and Branson J. Nelson, constable.

Lease 365 Acres

The Blanks entered into a lease August 1, 1946, with the Williamses under which they leased 365 acres of land in Allegany County and Somerset County, Pa., for five years. Under terms of the lease, the Blanks were to pay royalties of 50 cents per ton of coal mined, with a minimum of $400 per month being provided. The mine property is in the vicinity of Mt. Savage.

Nelson became involved in the case because he had advertised the Blanks' mine property for sale, because they allegedly were in arrears in royalty payments.

Judge Henderson first entered an order in the case May 13, 1950, restraining the sale of mine property.

In his opinion filed yesterday, Judge Henderson quoted a provision from the lease. It provided:

"It is mutually agreed that any and all rails now on the property, or placed there by the lessee, shall remain there as the property of the lessors."

Agreed Facts

A number of agreed facts were stated in the opinion. Both parties agreed that at the time of the execution of the lease the ties in place in the mine were worth $20. At the present time, Blank values the ties at $207.50 and Williams at $87.50. It also is agreed that the lease terminates July 31 and that ties have been removed and stacked preparatory to selling, along with Blank's mining equipment. The rails are still in the mine along passageways. The rails in place at the time the lease was executed were worth $130, according to Blank, and $150, according to Williams. Both parties agree that the rails presently are worth $3,350, including switches.

Judge Henderson's opinion observes that the lease refers only to rails and does not provide that both rails and ties shall become the property of the lessee. He also notes that the rails placed in the mine by Blank, which the landlord is entitled to retain are worth $3,200.

Coupled with his opinion was an order providing that the Blanks retain title to the ties placed by them on the leased property.

The Blanks were represented by John T. Fey and William H. Geppert and the Williamses by Edward J. Ryan and William A. Gunter.

Police Continue To Probe Causes

State and county police investigators, probing into the causes of the fire which destroyed an unoccupied two-story frame dwelling at Phoenix Flat near Franklin yesterday, said last night it was a "definite case of arson."

Deputies William Chappell, Edgar M. Lewis and George Furstenburg of the sheriff's office and Trooper Milton G. Hart of Maryland State Police are still investigating the blaze.

Authorities said the house had been slightly damaged by fire earlier in the week and that "they came back and completed the job this time."

Although arson was discounted by the president of the Campbell Coal Company, Lonaconing, which owns the building, police, after making a complete investigation of the scene yesterday, said the fire had been set "by person or persons unknown." G. D. Campbell had expressed the belief that the blaze was of accidental origin and was probably caused by a group of boys playing there.

Sheriff's deputies also are working on the theory that the newest outbreak of vandalism and destruction might possibly be tied in with the recent explosions and fires set off at the Harris Powder Company, near Westernport.

Potomac Fire Company, Westernport and Tri-Towns Fire Company, Piedmont, responded to the alarm at 9 a. m. yesterday but said that inaccessibility of the house, located three miles north of Westernport, kept firemen from preventing the dwelling from being destroyed by the flames.

Fresh footprints on the ground made soft by recent rains were discovered by the investigators and police added they could trace where the arsonist entered and left the building although it had not yet been determined how the blaze had been set.

The home had been occupied until a month ago by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Green and their family but had been vacant since the Greens moved to nearby Franklin.

FIRST TRIP TO AMERICA—Cpl. George E. Carder, Oldtown, and his wife, the former Irene Schwonek, Munich, Germany, pose happily with their 15-months-old son, Stanton, at the home of the soldier's mother, Mrs. Elsie Nield, Oldtown. It is the first trip to America for the wife and son of the 23-year-old GI, who met them while serving in Germany. Mrs. Carder, who was born in France before returning to Germany with her parents, speaks English. Carder, home on 15-day leave, expects to be reassigned in the states and hopes to keep his wife and son with him here.

Cresaptown Railroader Is Missing

Last Seen Near Connellsville, Pa.

State Police said last night that a 36-year-old Western Maryland Railway brakeman has been reported missing by his family since Tuesday after he left for work at 6 o'clock that morning.

Mrs. Edna Smith, wife of Willard C. Smith, Brant Road, Cresaptown, told police that her husband left for work Tuesday morning as brakeman for a freight train bound for Connellsville, Pa., and would have returned home the same evening.

When Smith failed to return she notified police and a teletype alarm for the missing man was immediately sent out to Pennsylvania and Maryland authorities.

State Police last night revealed the railroader had last been seen at Dickerson Run, Pa., a small town about six miles west of Connellsville and it is believed he may have gone to Connellsville.

Pennsylvania police said they were on the lookout for the six-foot blond-haired man at Connellsville and Connellsville authorities declared several men had been assigned to investigate the case.

Western Maryland dispatches said Smith left Cumberland Tuesday morning at 7 o'clock on a freight for Connellsville and had failed to make the return run. He has since been reported as "laying off," they added.

Smith's wife reported her husband is six feet one inch tall, weighs 175 pounds, has blue eyes and blond, wavy hair with ruddy complexion. He has a slim build and was wearing work clothes consisting of overalls, blue shirt, cap and work shoes when he left home.

Property Sold

Oldtown Soldier's Arrival From Overseas Duty Marks Initial Trip To America For Wife, Son

BY CHARLES H. KELLEY
News Staff Writer

As the Statue of Liberty appeared out of an early morning haze last Friday it presented a welcome sight to Cpl. George E. Carder, his wife and their 15-month-old son, Stanton, on board ship enroute home to Oldtown from Germany.

To the young son, the entrance into the harbor probably meant little but it will certainly be food for thought in stories to his grandchildren. To the former Irene Schwonek, Munich, Germany, wife of Carder, it was her first glimpse of America and a memory to be cherished forever.

Cpl. Carder, 23, son of Mrs. Elsie Nield, RFD No. 1, Oldtown, has been serving with the U. S. Army in various cities throughout Germany for the past 39 months and was bringing his family back home.

Brother Makes Introduction

While working in an Army Post Office in Munich three years ago, Carder made the acquaintance of his future bride's brother and upon invitation to his home met Irene and the romance which followed budded into a happy marriage.

Their son, a chubby blonde haired boy of 30 pounds, was born to the couple in Regensburg, April 13, of last year. While observing the behavior of the boy yesterday at the home of his grandmother, it could plainly be seen that someday he may become a great band leader. The radio had caught his eye and his imitation of a maestro was near perfection.

Wife Born In France

Carder's wife was born in France where she resided throughout the war years and in 1945 was sent back to Germany with her parents who had not obtained proper papers to remain in France. She attended elementary school in France and completed a beauticians course while studying in Germany.

She speaks the English language with a most interesting accent. Text books of the French schools and the efforts of her American husband resulted in her possession of a broad understanding of the language.

When asked yesterday about a comment on her first visit to America she had little to say and appeared quite amazed as yet.

Irene's father is a mining engineer teacher in Munich and she recalled how her brother, 24, was

COMING TO FAIR—This tremendous Aberdeen-Angus bull, owned by Longview Aberdeen-Angus Farm, Burlington, W. Va., will be on display again this year at the 34th annual Cumberland Fair, August 20 to 25, County Agent R. F. McHenry said yesterday. Envious Emulous, the bull, is too old to compete in the fair's beef cattle competition, which is limited to young animals. However, Envious Emulous attracted so much attention at last year's fair that McHenry is jumping at his owner's offer to exhibit him again this year at the fair. Envious Emulous has sired many show cattle, among them being Elisa of R. L. S., the 1947 International grand champion female; Envious Burgess H, the 1947 grand champion bull at the Fort Worth, Tex., Livestock Show and one of the herd sires in the Penney and James herd.

State Harvests 11,200 Acres Of Snap Beans

Free State farmers are completing the harvest of 11,200 acres of snap beans for canning and freezing this summer to keep Maryland in third place among the states in the amount of land planted with the vegetable, an American Can Company survey reveals.

The current Maryland snap bean acreage for processing represents a 10 per cent increase over last year's 10,500 acres, Dr. H. L. Stier, head of the Department of Markets, University of Maryland Extension Service, said. New York, in first place, planted 27,000 acres; Wisconsin, in second, 12,200.

L. M. Goodwin, Maryland district sales manager of the American Can Company, said that the 1951 acreage of snap beans for processing represented about 75 per cent of the total planted in the state for both the fresh and processing markets.

"The increasing importance to the farmer of the canning industry, which creates year-round markets for Maryland-produced vegetables, is evident from the nearly 800 per cent increase of the 1951 snap bean planting over the 1,300 acres grown in the state in 1918, the first year when records were kept," Mr. Goodwin said.

Baltimore County is the largest producer of snap beans in the state; most of the Eastern Shore counties as well as Carroll, Frederick and Arundel, also raise substantial amounts.

Formation Of Racket Squads Proposed At Crime Hearings

BALTIMORE, July 26—(AP)—A proposal to form special state police racket squads to aid counties in crime investigation needs "serious consideration," Col. Elmer F. Munshower, superintendent of State Police said today.

The suggestion came out in hearings at Hagerstown where a Legislative Committee is studying crime conditions in Western Maryland.

It got backing from two Circuit Court judges, George Henderson, of Allegany County, and Stedman Prescott, of Montgomery County.

Prescott contended that specially trained troopers could rescue state's attorneys who could not get local help.

Munshower said he would have to know more about the proposal before coming to a decision on it.

He pointed out that the recommendation was very general in nature. He said establishment of such racket squads would require a thorough understanding with the counties and a great deal of study to fit them in with the work of the subdivisions which have their own law enforcement groups.

He pointed out that state police plain clothesmen assist counties in investigations whenever called upon.

Total For July Reaches $24,945

Nearly half a million dollars has gone into construction in Cumberland since January, according to a monthly report released yesterday by the City Engineer's Office.

During July, the office granted permits for a total of $24,945 worth of building, bringing the total since January to $459,230.

New construction accounted for $22,595 of the total, while $2,350 was spent for additions and remodeling.

Of the new constructions, $21,800 was spent for houses and $795 for garages.

Although this month's total is considerably lower than the $56,800 recorded in June, it was noted that the difference was due largely to a single $25,000 permit granted last month to Potomac Edison for construction of a garage, shop and office.

Last month's total included $51,800 for new construction and $5,000 for additions and remodeling.

The July, 1950, total of $75,075 also was due in part to several large projects which were started at about the same time.

Youth Faces Forgery Charge

A 20-year-old Christie Road man, who has been confined in the Federal Reformatory at Petersburg, Va., nearly six months, is now lodged in the Allegany County Jail pending arraignment on a charge of forging a $13.25 check, which he allegedly cashed in a Cumberland grocery.

He is Raymond Everitt, RFD 2. He was committed to the Federal Reformatory after having been convicted on a federal charge of stealing a money order from a mail box, according to State Trooper William Baker. This offense was alleged to have happened January 31.

The warrant upon which Everitt now is being held in the county jail charges that on January 11 he forged the name of another man to a check which was cashed by the woman manager of an East Side grocery.

Everitt was brought from Petersburg to Cumberland Wednesday by Deputy Sheriff Edgar M. Lewis.

Besides the count he faces locally, Everitt also is wanted in Mineral County, W. Va., Circuit Court on a parole violation charge.

Zeller Explains His Reasons For Case Dismissal

Governor Terms Controversy Closed

BALTIMORE, July 26 (AP) — Magistrate Charles S. Zeller of Grantsville told Governor McKeldin that he dismissed a Garrett County truck weight case because of the way the charge was drawn.

McKeldin, who had asked for a complete report on the case, made public a letter from Zeller today. The Governor said he was satisfied with the magistrate's explanation.

Zeller dismissed a 7,100-pound overload charge against John O. Riley of Accident at a recent hearing, saying the new Maryland Truck Weight Law is "confusing, poorly written and a hardship."

Law Confusing

He told the Governor he does think the law is confusing, but he added:

"I assure you that at no time have I held the law in question up to ridicule and no such interpretation could have been placed on my statement by the reporter to whom I gave it."

He said he had dismissed the case on the ground that Riley's truck was not weighed in accordance with the law, which he said uses the term "axle load" without defining it.

The state has appealed the decision.

Imposes Hardship

Zeller also told the Governor that the law is imposing a hardship on operators in his area who haul mine posts. He said it is almost impossible to determine the weight of their loads because of varying factors, and as a result the men are underloading and therefore hauling unprofitable loads.

McKeldin said it is not his function to review the magistrate's decision, "but only to make certain that there has been no official misconduct."

"Certainly," the Governor added, "there is no evidence to indicate that the magistrate has not sincerely and conscientiously endeavored to perform his full duty, and the phase of the matter in which I was interested is closed."
